So far 35 runners have signed. Runners will begin at the police box in the center and go up Main st. to Highland ave., where the groups will divide by age and follow three different courses. Participants will receive route maps.

Principal Tells Seniors; 'Share, Care'

By Pauline Dishmon

His voice wavering with emotion, Winchester High School principal Vincent Larocco appealed to 1973 graduating seniors at commencement exercises on Sunday at Manchester Field to examine their values and "share and care" with the total community.

Larocco said in talking with a senior recently he asked what a graduation speech should be like. The response: It should be brief, said to the seniors and don't tell graduates how good they are.

Following that advice, Larocco, who had been facing a capacity-filled grandstand with people standing on the periphery, turned toward the graduates on the field grounds with a message filled with sincerity.

He referred to pop artist Alice Cooper, who calls American youth "million dollar babies," and to a national disease Larocco calls "affluency." He said, "It is not right for society."

Larocco told the graduates, "You are a part of the negativism and distrust" that permeates the land. Why? You have fine schools, teachers and parents who care, clothing and "maybe even a car." Instead of a generation gap existing in this nation, Larocco said "it is only a value gap."

Larocco questioned the values of a nation which produces more dog food consumed by humans than for the pets it is intended for. He pointed to a nationwide television program on which youths were asked about the Watergate incident. Many did not know the issues involved and many did not care, he said. He pointed to destruction of property and people who think of "it" rather than "we or us."

He called on the graduates to ask themselves if they are willing to reach out to others and challenged them to be socially aware. "Have you been educated?"

If you have been educated "you will share and care," he said. "The future is in your hands and this is a simple fact."

Others on the program included Margaret Quine, class president; Robert McGoldrick, who delivered the senior address; William C. MacDonald, superintendent of schools; Mrs. Harriet H. Dieterich, chairman, School Committee; Mrs. Austin Broadhurst, chairman of the scholarship committee, Winchester Scholarship Foundation; and Rev. Walter B. Davis, who offered the invocation and benediction.

Miss Quine told the parents to "have a good day;" classmates to "have a good life;" and offered thanks to God for having graduation "outdoors."

McGoldrick opened his address by saying, "To live is to change and to change often." He told his classmates, "We must put to test what we have learned in high school. From now on we must really depend on our own initiative." He said graduation for some is a "stepping stone to higher education" and to others the beginning of a new career.

Developer Proposes 500 Condominiums For Cambridge St.

A proposal by an international housing developer to build 500 condominium units of housing on the 90-acre Moss site off Cambridge street was presented to a group of citizens in Winchester last week.

Kaufman and Broad Homes, a subsidiary of Kaufman and Broad, Inc., the country's largest home builders, would construct attached town house units to be sold to individual buyers at $45,000 to $50,000.

Robert W. Fish of Newton, chairman of the Wellesley-based development firm, presented the proposal to 35 members of Concerned Citizens, a neighborhood group which has been fighting the garden apartment proposal of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moss.

Kaufman and Broad has a purchase and sale agreement on the land and, according to Moss, the multi-million dollar corporation will have the first opportunity to develop the land, even over his own proposal.

Concerned Citizens has taken no position on the Kaufman and Broad proposal, which calls for the 500 units to be developed in three phases over the next four to five years, with about 165 units to be built in each phase, at a total cost of $25 million, one-tenth the town's total tax base of $200 million.

The development would be a self-contained residential and recreational community directed at the "empty nester" market comprised of people still living in large houses after their children have left and who wish to continue to live in the area. Concerned Citizens and Kaufman and Broad said in a joint announcement.

Fish said the homes would be built to conform to the natural topography of the land and the natural environment will be preserved.

Though the development firm's option on the property ran out June 1, they have an extension until June 30 with the right to future extensions.

A spokesman for the firm said Tuesday that Kaufman and Broad is now finishing final details on the proposal and a formal presentation to the town's Planning Board will be in a matter of weeks.

He said there will be no topographical alteration on the land. Details on road plans are not complete, he added. Fish reportedly told Concerned Citizens it would not be economically feasible for the firm to build less than 500 units but Kaufman and Broad would agree to limit the total number of units to 500.

Planning Board chairman Otto E. Schaefer told The Star that the firm would have to obtain apartment zoning or some sort of multiple development zoning by two-thirds vote of the town meeting before the local Board of Appeal could approve specific plans. In addition to having the town vote to put the district into an area to allow apartments, the Board of Appeal would have to approve the details, Schaefer said.

There is presently no land in Winchester zoned to allow apartment construction, except for the elderly housing development on Palmer st. The Planning Board Monday finished its final work on its new zoning proposals and expects to reveal them next week.

In an interview with The Star, Moss said if a favorable court opinion on his right to construct apartments on his land comes prior to K & B's purchase of the property from him, he will seek to build 1,380 units of apartments there.

The Woburn lawyer, who lives in Belmont, said favorable Appellate Court action will result in his chucking his original plan for 176 units of garden apartments on a portion of the land.

He will, he said, instead build a larger development, keeping a percentage of the units low and moderate income. Asked how much he would sell the land to K & B for, Moss replied: "That's confidential." He added that he is selling the 90 acres at a price that is economically feasible for K & B to develop.

Moss also said Winchester would be wise to permit K & B to build, pointing out the tax revenue to the town and the low number of children found in condominium developments. He said the K & B development will have 38,000 square feet of woods and those living there will be homeowners.

A $25 million development in Winchester represents $6.50 on the tax rate. But much of this "profit" is offset by expenses incurred by the town by services—water and sewer lines, police and fire protection, schools and recreation facilities.

Selectmen Oppose Plan For Woburn High Rise; Town Water Needed?

The Board of Selectmen Monday expressed opposition to a plan by a developer to build 2,000 high rise apartment units in Woburn on the Winchester line.

George Whitten's proposal for apartments on the rock quarry site near Winchester's Holtzman street is before Woburn's Planning Board. Whitten said he will seek a water connection with Winchester.

Winchester has no prior commitment to the petition for Blueberry Hill. Selectman John J. Sullivan said, "We ought to advise Woburn—the mayor and city council—that Winchester has in no way committed water supply for this development and the request should come from Woburn."

Sullivan said if Woburn does make such a request it should include the potential impact such a development will have in Winchester. The town for many years has suffered from developments on the Woburn line. The streets up there (in Winchester) are not equipped to handle any more traffic, Sullivan said.

We got a real problem now. A hearing will be scheduled before the Woburn City Council when the Planning Board's recommendations will be announced.

Woburn access to the 64.5 acre site would be over Green and Garfield streets. The selectmen unanimously voted to inform Woburn that Winchester has made no commitment to have the town supply the development with water.

Harry F. Chofalo, Water and Sewer Board chairman, in a letter to the local selectmen said water for the complex must be obtained by Woburn applying to Winchester. Woburn has made no such application.

The land was owned by the General Crushed Stone Co. at one time, which used it as a rock quarry. An industrial park has been developed on the portion of the land near the Winchester line.

The apartments would be built on the upper (non-developed) portion. Services and stores would be included in the high-rental development, according to Whitten.

In other action, the Board of Selectmen referred to the town counsel for a legal ruling

Large Processions Precede Burials Of Saraco, Marasca

Winchester stopped twice Friday to watch the funeral corteges of Frederick J. Marasca, 25, of 23 Mystic ave. and Andrew J. Saraco, 25, of 41 Irving st. pass by.

Each funeral procession had more than 50 cars, contingents of police from many towns walking with town officials and firefighters and flag-carrying honor guards.

The processions for the police officers killed in an automobile accident Memorial Day on Cross street began at Lane Funeral Home and proceeded to St. Mary's Church for separate funeral services.

The funeral mass for Mr. Saraco began at 10 a.m. with Rev. Bernard M. Hoy, Rev. Mark S. Sheehan and Rev. Paul J. Lynch of St. Eulalia's participating in the concelebrated mass.

A police honor guard stood at attention while other officers placed the casket in the hearse for the procession through town. Traffic was blocked off on Washington st., Mt. Vernon st., Church st. and Wildwood street during the march to Wildwood Cemetery, where Rev. Hoy gave the brief graveside service.

The funeral mass for Mr. Marasca began at noon with Rev. John H. O'Donnell celebrating, assisted by Msgr. Joseph W. Lyons, Pastor of St. Eulalia's, and Rev. Sheehan.

An honor guard from U. S. Marines were pallbearers for Mr. Marasca, who was a former Marine. The Marines accompanied the body during the procession through town to Wildwood Cemetery.

Processions for both men were preceded by police escorts of about 100 officers, which included most of the members of the Winchester Police Department and men from the police departments in Woburn, Boston, Stoneham, Brookline, North Reading, Melrose, Randolph, Milton, Wakefield and men from the Registry of Motor Vehicles, federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, Boston Tactical Squad and Metropolitan District Commission, and the Winchester Fire Department.

The Winchester auxiliary Police Department and Woburn officers covered the town during the funerals in conjunction with men from the local department. Former Police Chief Joseph Derro marched with the Board of Selectmen.

Rev. Hoy conducted the service at Wildwood Cemetery for Mr. Saraco, Rev. O'Donnell for Mr. Marasca. The Marine honor guard fired a rifle salute for Mr. Marasca. Taps for both men were played by two red-jacketed members of the Winchester High School band, Richard Murray and Stephen Parkhurst.

William Gannon, the third Winchester police officer riding in the car that crashed into a tree at 50 Cross st., is reported improving at Winchester Hospital. He has a broken leg and arm and internal injuries.

Andrew Saraco's wife, Joanne, gave birth to a girl Saturday morning.

His brother, William, was appointed a special police officer Monday by the Board of Selectmen on the recommendation of Chief Edward F. Bowler. Both Andrew Saraco and Frederick Marasca were specials in the department awaiting permanent appointments.

'Press Standing Up To Administration'

By Joanne Resteghini

In a public lecture sponsored by the Winchester Peace Committee and attended by 50 persons at the Winchester Public Library last Wednesday, Journalist Edwin Diamond said, "There has been a concerted, unremitting, fairly clumsy attempt to discredit the press."

"The attempt to discredit the press has resulted from distortions in the media," Diamond discussed the coverage of the Vietnam War and the positions taken by different major newspapers and correspondents sent to cover the war.

Diamond has long experience as a professional journalist. He is a former senior editor of Newsweek and now press critic for the Post-Newsweek Stations, Inc., Washington D.C. He is author of two books, "Science of Dreams" and "Rise and Fall of the Space Age," and has contributed to another, "The Media and the Cities." Diamond is a guest lecturer in the department of political science at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"A journalist tries to be fair," he said. "You can assume that one of the fundamentals of a journalist is the ability to write a fair story."

When asked if there is a better way for the public to get news than from newspapers Diamond said the complaint that news dissemination is centralized in this one way comes from Vice President Agnew.

"However, there are a number of sources of news, besides papers. There are other voices to pick from."

Speaking on the Watergate coverage by the Washington Post Diamond said, "This was two men's story given the freedom of an editor who was competitive." The Washington Post broke the story before its competition. The New York Times, he said, "Since Watergate, there has been a new respect for investigative reporting. Up until a few months ago, too much of journalism has been the dogs around the garbage can waiting for handouts."

Speaking in terms of distortion in television coverage of the news, he said, "It's not necessarily an ideological or political distortion. It's a distortion composed of many different personalities, technical aspects and people posing their wills—all trying to do a good job."

"The administration has made efforts to put pressure on the press," he said. Diamond discussed the efforts of the administration to subpoena reporters to testify and pressure put on television presidents to remove reporters who do not side with the administration's viewpoints as well as efforts to limit 'instant analysis' of the President's news conferences. He said, however, "The press is standing up to the administration."

Local Republicans Host Issues Group

Winchester Republicans hosted the Issues Committee of the Massachusetts Republican State Committee recently.

State Committee members Cynthia Barone and William Barnstead opened the meeting attended by about 80 persons from Arlington, Medford, Winchester and surrounding towns.

During the hearing discussions focused on home rule, tax reform, autonomy of school committees, transportation crises, and county government.

After a discussion on elderly affairs Winchester Young Republican President Andrew Twomey gave a teenager's point of view from his recent experience concerning rules and restrictions in the present day schools and other educational departments.

Past State Committee Chairman Josiah "Si" Spaulding joined the discussion, speaking about the interchangeable roles of politics and government and how they relate to the Republican Party attitudes today.

Among those attending from Winchester speaking on various issues were Rep. Harrison Chadwick, Republican vice chairman Carol Johnson, former school committee member Mary Brink, finance committee member Joseph Pontone, and selectman Lawrence Smith.

Issues Committee chairman Edward King, who led the meeting, congratulated Cynthia Barone and Carol Johnson on the excellent attendance. Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Love and Mrs. Raymond Dillon.

Cong. Macdonald Assails President For Education Cuts

The U.S. Office of Education told area school systems recently not to count on $195,425 in federal funds for library construction and resources, foreign language instruction, science and mathematics support, and programs in other critical subjects on the elementary and secondary school level.

Responding to these latest cutbacks in federal assistance, Congressman Torbert H. Macdonald called the elimination of the programs "shameful and without justification."

This loss of revenue, coupled with the elimination of impacted area aid, amounts to a reduction of $1 million in the share of federal funds which can be utilized by local school systems in the coming tax year.

Macdonald said that he was concerned about "the increased financial burden of the cities and towns which are suddenly faced with such a drastic loss of federal support."

"The President has ordered the elimination of many valuable education programs without offering any alternative," he added.

"He has made vague promises of special revenue sharing, but his budgetary recommendations speak for themselves. These programs are finished, unless the American people speak out."

"I cannot agree with or support a budget which contains more for bombs and less for books," the Congressman said. "It just doesn't make sense."

New Traffic Lights To Be Installed For Safety

A program to improve safety in Winchester and calling for the construction of additional traffic signal systems at four locations will begin in Winchester this week.

According to Winchester police safety officer John W. McKinley, liaison officer for TOPICS (Traffic Operations Programs to Increase Capacity and Safety), the federal and state-funded program will see signal systems installed at Mystic Valley pkwy. and Main st.; Mystic Valley pkwy. at Highland ave. and Mount Vernon st.; Skillings rd. and Shore rd.; and at Main st. at Skillings rd. and Lake st.

The installations will begin this week and are expected to be completed by the opening of school in the fall. The work is being done by the F.X. Messina Construction Corp. of Braintree.

Officer McKinley reports TOPICS had its beginning in 1967 as a pilot program and became a part of the Federal Highway act in 1968.

In 1969, the Town of Winchester contracted with the state to become eligible for state and federal funding through TOPICS.

"Early Start," was developed to include high priority areas. As early as 1969, Main st. and Lake st. was considered Winchester's first problem area by police and town officials.

In early 1970, former safety officer Sgt. Donald Pigott was nominated by Chief Edward F. Bowler and appointed by the selectmen as liaison officer to coordinate various departments and develop Winchester's interest fully in TOPICS.

Many meetings were held during 1971 between state officials, executive secretary of the board of selectmen Edward F. Donnelly; chief of police Edward F. Bowler; Sgt. Donald Pigott; John T. Horn of the Highway Department; superintendent of streets Robert O'Brien, and town engineer John Garcia who provided assistance to state engineers and consultants on the project.

The meetings resulted in a finalized plan for Winchester encompassing an area wide plan of over $970,000. Early Start priority areas, at a cost of $130,000 were to be done first; then Project 1 for $285,000; Project 2 for $290,000 and Project 3 for $265,000.

McKinley says: "All seems to be going full speed ahead at this time, and Winchester can look forward to upgraded intersections in these areas this fall, as a direct result of cooperative efforts by many town officials and State-Federal personnel, with no real cost to the town."

Letters To The Editor

EnKa Balloon Flies 275 Miles

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

My name is David Medzorian. I am 11. And on Friday, May 18, my father took me to the EnKa fair where he bought me a pink helium balloon.

I got home at 8:30 p.m. and at 8:35 p.m., I launched the balloon into the air with a note attached. Less than 15 hours later it was found in Bradford, Me., about 275 miles from Winchester. A woman named Mrs. Maryann Bubier found the balloon on May 19. She wrote me the following letter:

"Dear David. Just a line to say I found your balloon. It was found in Bradford, Me., about 275 miles from Winchester. I was going to attach a note and send it up but it flew away before I knew what it was. I'm very sorry."

Jury Selection

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I should like to respond to the section on jury duty in the May 24th issue, as expressed in the "Letter from the Editor."

I have done jury duty and I take issue with the first paragraph of this section of your letter—the inequities and arbitrariness of the whole "system," which should be completely overhauled. At the time I served, I was impressed by Judge Reuben Lurie's comprehensive and detailed charge to the entire pool at the beginning of our term of service.

He explained the manner of selecting the individual juries and the possible reasons why probably in every case some would be challenged. This briefing gave all members of the pool a clear understanding of the "system."

In my pool there were young as well as older people—all from many walks of life. Two of the best with whom I had the privilege of serving had quite different life patterns; one was a city cab driver, the other a vice-president of the First National Bank.

The majority of the entire pool felt it a civic responsibility to serve, and a privilege to have been drawn. Let us not downgrade our country's "systems." In this case perhaps it is as Winston Churchill felt in regard to democracy; it looks poor until other systems are considered.

Mrs. George A. Marks

Bike Rodeo Success

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Through your paper and courtesy, I would like to extend a very large thank you to those people, businesses, organizations and Town departments who by their generosity, willingness and cooperative spirit made the Community Bicycle Rodeo a success.

A letter was sent to the major participants expressing my personal gratitude. Because of the large number of people involved it would be difficult to list them here or even to compile a list. However, I would like the people of Winchester to know that the success was due to community involvement. That means you and me and the people working together.

I anticipate a successful rodeo next year with community support. A program such as this promotes and motivates safe practices while cycling, and if we as a community can avoid just one child-bike automobile accident, then it's well worth the effort we have all put forth.

I look forward to a safe summer for our children. See you next season.

John W. McKinley

Sepia Map Prices

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Winchester Historical Society is proud of its beautiful sepia reproductions of the Town of Winchester 1886 pictorial maps. Mr. Don R. Brown of the Historical Commission and chairman of the Historical Commission arranged to have them printed.

All Winchester banks and real estate offices as well as the town engineers' office have them for sale at $7 for a color map (water color), $5 for a plain one and a free membership for both prices provided you send in your enclosed membership card.

The water color maps are done by members of the Historical Society, but chiefly by the delicate brush of Mrs. Andre ter Meulen of 20 Foxcroft rd. You will find many of the homes depicted still extant today. It is fascinating to see the extensive farm landscape in the "flats" and up on the West Side Hill and the Aberjona Pond where now stands the Winchester High School. You will also enjoy the old steam engines chugging their loads on the tracks to Lowell and Boston.

Next Star readers will note a discrepancy in the price of our sepia maps as originally outlined and the actual price in the banks and real estate offices. The reason for this is that at a recent board meeting of the Winchester Historical Society the board changed its selling policy. We were told by a trustee of the Salem Essex Institute and the Peabody Museum that their limited editions of such like are selling for $10 and $20 if colored. So we alert you all to buy now before the board

Unknown Leaks

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

After reading in The Star about the leaks around the windows of the new high school for some unknown reason and the 50 leaks in the roof, I wondered what could be the cause besides slipped work.

I began thinking back to a time ages ago when the pond where the high school stands was formed and it had a purpose, supporting aquatic life and plants.

The town filled the pond and it absorbed and pushed around the filling to a certain extent and some of the water oozed away or evaporated.

Then the builders came along and drove numerous piles down through it, supposedly to terra firma and built the huge school on top, which the pond just couldn't cope with. So it became flustered and tried to get in through the basement which I wouldn't be surprised if it has. Then having nothing to do and no place to go it started climbing the walls, a sort of accelerated capillary action.

On the way up it seeped in around the windows and when it got to the roof it started running around and seeping back down.

You never know what might happen when you thwart nature.

Mr. Saraco Gives Thanks To Many

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I would publicly like to thank all those who participated in last week's funeral services for my son—the Fire and Police Departments, town officials, and other townspeople and those police officers from other towns.

It was heartening for my family and me to know that so many cared. On behalf of my family and Andy's wife, Joanne, thank you all.

Michael D. Saraco

Don't Be Beaten

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

For many years I went to the area in Boston which has the highest crime rate. I walked around, talked to many of the people and thought about what I had seen and heard.

I had seen beaten people and aimless people amid their deteriorated buildings and dumps made out of vacant lots.

Here we have a circle-beaten people permitting deterioration; deterioration breeding beaten people.

It can happen in Winchester, and to some extent it has. In last week's Star the Winchester Business Association pointed to the glaring example of the abandoned property on Converse place (next to Woolworth's) owned by Benjamin Schulman of Brookline. Take a look at it.

The businessmen's association wants us to get a set of tax incentives incorporated into our laws so owners will maintain or improve their property. The WBA should not be beaten on this, nor on its efforts to raise the standards of Winchester Center.

If they are beaten, there will be no others ready and able to do this work and then we all shall be beaten to some extent.

Contact your town meeting member or a merchant in the center. Mrs. Dressler at the Topsy Turvy is president of the WBA. Contact her. Your support can make a difference.

Protection Association

Parade Success

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Memorial Day Committee would sincerely like to thank all those who participated in making the Memorial Day observance such a fine success.

Our Board of Selectmen gave the committee the utmost in cooperation in carrying out our plans. To Chief Edward Bowler of the Police Department and to Chief I. Francis Amico of the Fire Department, many thanks for such a large turnout of police and firemen. They are a credit to the town.

Our deepest appreciation is extended to Rev. Bernard M. Hoy of St. Mary's Church and Rev. Robert Storer, D.D., of the Unitarian Church for delivering the prayer and meditation at Calvary and Wildwood Cemeteries.

Our thanks, too, to the commanders of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Frank Farris, and American Legion, Louis Castriotta.

In the music department we had our fine Senior High School Band and Elementary School Band under the direction of Frederick J. Murray. Members of the Senior High School Band also assisted by playing taps at the war memorials during the Memorial Day exercises.

We would like to thank Tony Barrie of the Saugus D.A.V. Band, the Boston Firemen's Band, and St. Patrick's Girls' Drill Team for adding much to the music and color of the parade.

A special thanks to the Woburn High School Junior R.O.T.C. for participating in our parade after parading earlier in Woburn.

We would like to express appreciation to the Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts for their participation. They had one of the largest turnouts ever and their troop leaders should be commended for keeping the scouts in such perfect marching order.

Military units which participated included the Woburn National Guard Co. D. 101st Eng. Bn., which was led by Capt. Donald F. Donovan, and the Third Judge Advocate General Detachment from the Boston Army Base, led by Col. Emilio DiLoreto.

I would like to thank members of the auxiliary Police and Fire Departments for their turnout and for their assistance.

To Superintendent Robert O'Brien of the Highway Department, Herbert (Babe) Mullen of the Park Department, William Conlon of the Water Department and Harold Moran of the Cemetery Department, thank you for your cooperation.

To all units which participated, a final thanks for a job well done in spite of such a rainy day. It is not our intent to slight anyone; yet, we feel that we should try to single out those organizations and individuals who contributed to the success of the parade.

A special thanks for the members of the Memorial Day Committee who devoted and contributed to the success of the day: Arthur Collins, Henry O'Neill, Frank Farris and Louis Castriotta.

John T. Horn, Chairman
Kingman Cass, Co-Chairman
Memorial Day Committee

Albino Robin

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I recently read in The Star the letter submitted by Arta Johns on the topic of an albino robin. I also read there were many skeptics of this sighting. Well to skeptics out there I too have seen this beautiful bird on a towel (on which I had been sunbathing) eating crumbs off the heel of some bread I had left there for some bluejays. So for you skeptics out there, Arta was right.

McDonalds - Yes

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I think in your last issue the lady who made the unjust remark about McDonald's was very unfair.

We often eat as a family at McDonald's and find the food good, a clean place to eat and the staff courteous.

I have eaten almost all over Canada and

Kids' Gardening

Any garden can be a joy, but even if it is small, one of your own is best of all.

When you let your children sow a seed or plant a bulb, he gains valuable insight into life as well as a pleasant rewarding hobby. Kids take great pride in watching their plants grow.

In these days when carrots, radishes and even flowers seem to come from plastic bags, the children in a garden become aware that food doesn't begin in a grocery store but comes from the soil as a result of human effort and the mercies of nature. They discover, too, how necessary plants are to the environment and that all life depends on green growth.

The development of patience is another reward, for weeks must pass between the sowing and the harvest. Not only does gardening give children something to care for, but it also provides another bridge between them and adults.

When kids garden it is important to keep them interested and you will want to do all you can to encourage them. Although one cannot hasten the growing process, the adult can help to prevent frustration until the flowers and crops make it all worthwhile.

The magic of growing things is offered here in suggested books that will help a child set up a garden, indoors or out, that he can enjoy as a creative interest as he touches a basic pattern of nature.

Books of Garden Magic

Baker - "The Indoor and Outdoor Grow-It Book." Suggestions for growing plants for pleasure, scientific interests, decoration, food and gifts.

Bulla - "Flowerpot Gardens." Clearly and simply written, a book that gives instruction for starting and growing twenty common house plants.

Bush-Brown - "Young America's Garden Book." Some thirty gardening projects to introduce the fundamentals of gardening.

Cooke - "Fun-time Window Garden." Projects limited to those with which a child can succeed following step-by-step directions.

Doole - "Herb and Garden Ideas." Not only how to grow but what to do with the results—parties, games, gifts, among other ideas.

Fenton - "Plants for Pots." Explicit instructions for easy projects with suggestions for each month of the year.

Hathaway - "Backyard Flowers." Less of a "how to" book, this one is primarily for identification.

Hoke - "Terrariums." All types of terrariums are covered and every step of construction described in words and pictures.

Hudlow - "Eric Plants a Garden." Eric wants something new to do so plants a garden.

Kirkus - "First Book of Gardening." A practical guide to planting, caring for and harvesting both flowers and vegetables.

Paul - "Kid's Gardening." Basic instructions for the beginner from bulbs to avocado pits.

Selsam - "How to Grow House Plants." It isn't luck or magic that makes plants grow... it is the result of following these careful instructions.

Graduation Traditional And Untraditional; Is Wednesday A Dull Night For Television?

As if winning $1 million in the state lottery wasn't enough. The Taylor family of 12 Hill st. have also won the prize for being the first couple to give birth to a baby for Healthy Baby Week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor won a case of baby formula for being the parents of the baby born closest to the March of Dimes Baby Week. Wonder what the astrologers will say about that? Jupiter, a benefic planet, must have been aspecting somebody's sun in a favorable way?

Town meeting voted to paint the town seal on most town vehicles. As yet the job hasn't been done. Selectmen executive secretary says a survey of town vehicles is taking place to see which vehicles the seal should be placed on and the Board of Selectmen has been busy with other work—"concentrating efforts on getting committees established as authorized by town meeting"—to do anything over yet.

Anyway, says Ed, he hasn't received a certification of the town meeting vote from the town clerk yet.

That dance the Young Democrats sponsored at Town Hall: $940 was total income, $736 expenses, money actually made, $204. Expenses included such items as lollipops ($4.92), band ($385), janitor ($70) and police ($134).

Winchester police are investigating the theft Sunday of a 500-pound cement kangaroo from outside the art room at the rear of the new high school.

Nancy Cincotta of 9 Trinity rd. told the police she had been working on the kangaroo. It was taken Saturday night or Sunday morning, she said.

Next Wednesday at 8 p.m. is the Town Government Study Committee's first public hearing on a proposal to see if Winchester should establish a charter commission.

The subject, unfortunately, is a dull one for most people. But it demands the town's attention one way or another because it could affect the town's governmental structure for a long time to come.

Let's hope next Wednesday night is a dull one for television so some people show up at McCall Junior High School. Moderator will be Raymond J. Kenney, the town meeting moderator.

Rep. Harrison Chadwick is irked by press releases on legislative voting sent to The Star by Common Cause, which describes itself as a citizen lobby. He said the release printed in last week's Star had two errors of fact.

One error had Chadwick voting against more aid to cities and towns, while, in fact, he favored the bill. The other was that he voted against final passage of a bill to allow judges to invalidate certain closed session actions. That bill is due for reconsideration.

A year and a half after it opened West Side fire station is due to be formally dedicated Saturday, June 16, at 3 p.m. Why the delay? Whip Saltmarsh says the sub-committee of the Permanent Building Committee wanted to wait until the Winchester Garden Club and Estates Garden Club completed their landscaping.

Whip has donated the flag pole for the station. On hand will be Congressman Torbert H. Macdonald, Boston Fire Chief George Paul, Rep. Chadwick, Sen. John W. Bullock, the high school band and the women's and men's lodges of the Sons of Italy, who will be serving refreshments.

Winchester High School's baseball game against Peabody Saturday was fraught with errors. One easy explanation might be that the senior prom was the night before. But there are only three seniors on the team.

The Winchester High School graduation ceremony Sunday was a real celebration, not just for the 412 seniors but for their relatives, friends and others drawn to Manchester Field on the bright sunny day.

After the grandstand filled, spectators opened folding chairs and placed them along the grass in front. The high school band, under Burton Cowgill, did an outstanding job in the musical presentation.

Looking at the feet of the guests, one could see they were captured by the melodies. One could almost feel the grandstand swaying during a Mancini medley.

Tradition made up a large part of the ceremony, from Pomp and Circumstance to white caps and gowns for the girls and navy blue for the boys. There was also the untraditional—a young lady, Shirley Luongo, taking her diploma and speaking into the microphone: "Free at last, free at last."

Untraditional, too, was the principal's position during his speech to the seniors. He faced the graduates and not the audience. Robert McGoldrick in his senior address put it well when he said graduation is a time to test what is learned and to depend on one's initiative and urged his classmates to find a purpose, set a goal and be thankful.

Vincent Larocco

The Planning Board will be including a map change in its zoning proposals for special town meeting in September. This came to light Monday when Selectman John Sullivan dropped in on the Planning Board's meeting and bluntly put the question of a map change for the center to Chairman Otto Schaefer.

Schaefer said the board would include a separate article for an as-yet undefined area of Winchester Center for rezoning for apartments.

Most people in Winchester don't care about map changes, by-laws, special town meetings and what various zones are called. All they care about is that apartments don't go into their neighborhood.

But to understand how apartments might come to Winchester you have to understand about such mundane uninteresting things. Very briefly, the Planning Board is about to reveal its second townwide rezoning proposal.

The first was defeated at a special town meeting nearly two years ago. What the new proposal will seek to do is classify on paper what such zones as residential, commercial, industrial should include and not include.

Up until now the Planning Board hadn't intended to ask the special town meeting to make any specific changes regarding particular parcels of land.

But the Board of Selectmen and Winchester Business Association feel apartments for the center are important enough to take a chance on the loss at town meeting of the new zoning classifications. The reason the Planning Board's proposal failed two years ago was because town meeting members took issue with the Planning Board's specific recommended zone changes. It's anybody's guess what's going to happen in September.

Arthur MacDonnell

Kiwanis Event

Parade, Fishing, Prizes At Fish Derby Saturday

This Saturday the Winchester Kiwanis Club will hold its annual fish derby at Wedge Pond. The local organization has sponsored the event for the past 17 years.

Each year participants in this out-of-door sporting event which has gained in popularity and prestige among the young fishing enthusiasts in the community, number between 300-400.

The Derby will feature a parade from the Town Hall to Wedge Pond. Participants will meet at the Town Hall grounds at 9 a.m. and march to the pond at 9:30 a.m. The Derby will begin at 10 a.m. and continue until 1 p.m.

Rules and regulations governing the Derby, including registration, parents, parade, bait, and awarding of prizes are as follows:

Registration: Forms, which have been distributed in all Winchester elementary schools or are available at the Winchester Sport Shop, 743 Main st., must be filled in, signed by parents, and returned to the Winchester Sport Shop.

Parents: A parent or guardian must accompany each entrant at the Derby. One guardian is sufficient if more than one child is registered from a family.

Parade: Rain or shine everybody will meet at the rear of the town hall at 9 a.m. for the parade which starts at 9:30 a.m. It will be led by the Winchester Police and the Winchester Auxiliary Fire Department.

The Derby: The Fish Derby starts at 10 a.m. and ends at 1 p.m. Only worms may be used as bait. Each entrant will bring his own supply. Entrants will also bring fish to judges' table at Wedge Pond when caught. Prizes will be awarded at a later date. The Chuck Wagon, manned by Kiwanians, will be on hand to sell hot dogs, carbonated drinks, coffee, and donuts.

Prizes: Chairman Rocco J. Ferraina announces prizes will be awarded as follows: Fish in different categories (trout, bass, sunfish, etc.) will be judged by overall length, and divided into boys and girls groupings.

The prizes, awarded to winners in different categories, will be varied—some fishing reels, rods, and tackle boxes will be awarded at a later Kiwanis softball game after entries have been correlated by the judges.

By Ann Landau

Puerto Rico has lost a talented violinist to Winchester, Massachusetts.

Speaking wistfully of Puerto Rico, Paul Johnian of 34 Mt. Pleasant St. recently recalled for The Star his undergraduate training there at the Pablo Casals Conservatory.

"I really liked it there. I didn't want to leave," Johnian said. However he returned to the States to take his master's degree in music at Boston Conservatory and returned to Winchester, his hometown.

"I miss Puerto Rico but I want to see what I can do here," he explained as he launched into an account of his plans for the newly formed Winchester Chamber Music Society.

The Society of 11 members gave its first concert some weeks ago at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Unfortunately that same evening also offered one of the season's outstanding wind and rain storms and the turnout was light.

Undaunted, the group plans a second concert on the afternoon of June 24, Sunday, at the same location.

Society members include his own students and those of other teachers. All are Winchester residents except three and range in age from a sixth grader through college.

Johnian says the purpose of the group is to perform in as professional a manner as possible and to give the students a chance to perform with professional musicians.

For example, at the initial concert in addition to Johnian, three professionals appeared, including Martha H. Daschbach, organist at St. Mary's Church.

The June concert will feature pianist Carol Schiavone with the chamber orchestra. The program will include a Bach violin concerto, and works by Beethoven, Faure, Tartini, Fritz Kreisler and Bruch.

Johnian attended Winchester schools and began the advanced study of violin at the age of 13 with a member of the Boston Symphony, the late Raphael Del Sordo.

An exceptional student in Puerto Rico, he played at the same time for four years with the Puerto Rican Symphony.

"I loved it there. The Puerto Rican people are so warm and hospitable. You cannot leave their houses without eating a meal."

Johnian is well qualified in the chamber music area. It is his first love and was his area of interest during his master degree studies at the Boston Conservatory. He was soloist, concert-master and conductor of the Conservatory chamber orchestra.

He also likes solo work very much and has performed throughout the New England area. But perhaps his favorite story is of the performance of a concert in a small town in Alabama.

His wife's family lives in Alabama and he was asked by a cultural committee in Fort Payne to give a concert. The concert hall is the oldest one in the state, an opera house built in 1880 by Bostonians who had mining interests there.

"The acoustics were outstanding," Johnian relates. "I did not know how my music would be received but I decided to go ahead. The cultural committee had gone to the effort of bringing a Steinway from Gadsden."

He planned a varied program including a Bach unaccompanied violin sonata, a Fritz Kreisler arrangement of old Irish airs and his own concert arrangement of "Dixie."

"There might have been one empty seat in that hall and it could hold 800. It was so quiet. No one clapped between movements. They loved the Irish airs because so many of the people there are from Irish and Scottish stock. But the finale, "Dixie" brought them to their feet," Johnian grinned.

Full of plans and dreams, Johnian hopes to build interest among youth in performing chamber music. Rehearsing only one night a week, he gives full credit to the dedication of the orchestra members.

"I'd match them against any school group," he commented. Most of the players are eighth and ninth graders.

Ideas for the future of Winchester's musically inclined youth include an institute of some sort where youngsters could practice on quality instruments in peace and quiet and the establishment of a scholarship fund.

The fund would offer aid to Winchester students who intend to major in music in college. Johnian told The Star he would give benefit performances for the fund and that the enrichment committee of the public schools was interested in supporting this idea.

Johnian says that for 10 years he has been guided by a quotation from violinist Fritz

Violinist Paul Johnian of Winchester

Kreisler. He paraphrased, "You can do anything you really want to do... after all, America was built on a dream."

Members of the new chamber orchestra include violinists Douglas DeNatale, Michael Cammarata, Erin Daugherty, Virginia

Piazza, Judy Marko, Pauline Lewin, James Wells, violists Robin Forgie and Lorraine Tingley both of Arlington, cellist April Vartanian, contrabassist Stephen Trainor of Arlington, and Alice Schell who plays the piano.

Woodcrafts By Bill MacKenzie On Exhibit At Public Library

'Five up' dominoes, mini-chinese checkers and a new variation of tic-tac-toe in which there is always a winner, are among the crafted wooden toys, games and puzzles created by Bill MacKenzie of 6 Wolcott Ter. and currently on display in the main lobby of the Winchester Public Library.

MacKenzie, a member of the New Hampshire League of Arts and Crafts and the Massachusetts Association of Craftsman, has been working with wood since childhood. Encouraged by his father, whose hobby was wood working, MacKenzie's greatest inspiration were the wooden games hand-crafted by his shipbuilder grandfather. The craft and many of the same tools are still being used by this generation of MacKenzies.

Employed as a sales engineer, MacKenzie, who travels extensively, has had plenty of opportunity to visit museums and libraries across the country to research the history and design of games and toys. His work is not merely replicas of originals, but modern, attractive, functional and at times innovative variations on the original concept.

An assortment of woods and modeling techniques are evident in the selection on display. Also, a simple cribbage board crafted in solid walnut, and Mankala, an African game, made of rare zebra wood with pits authentically burned into the board.

Markers for the games and puzzles have been carefully selected to enhance the esthetic appeal of the games. Mankala, for example, has dried beans for playing pieces. They are stored in a leather pouch which is

Mr. Dickman's 44 Years In Town Schools

By Dudley Samoloff

Retiring in June after 44 years in Winchester as principal, Raymond J. Dickman likes what he sees happening in schools today. Perhaps a basic humanistic outlook accounts for this attitude. It probably also explains the popularity he has enjoyed. The schools have changed, he believes. "They are doing more for the kids now," and he cites programs for exceptional children, individualized instruction, better and more varied learning materials and livelier and more realistic textbooks.

Mr. Dickman was born in Superior, Wisc., and attended the schools in that city. He did undergraduate and graduate work at Northwestern and completed work for his master's degree at Columbia University.

Previous to coming to Winchester he taught four years in Wisconsin public schools. In 1929 he accepted the position of principal of the Wadleigh Junior High School, continuing there until 1959 when he requested a transfer to an elementary school principalship because of ill health. He took courses in elementary education at Tufts and Boston universities after becoming principal of the Mystic School.

Speaking of today's teachers, he feels the preparation of young people for teaching is more comprehensive than it was years ago, but their training in methodology leaves something to be desired.

In discussing the education of young persons, Dickman would like to see the arts play a more vital part in the school curriculum. He feels a need to expose children to all the arts in a manner that enriches the general curriculum rather than reinforces the segregation of the arts.

In his many years as principal, he has had the opportunity to observe thousands of young people. In spite of being exposed to countless pressures and problems in today's society, he feels they handle their tasks with remarkable achievement. Outside the classroom many young people have dedicated their talents and energies to all sorts of compassionate projects and volunteer work, for which they deserve a great deal of credit, he says.

The environment at Mystic School is warm and is a pleasant place to work. Mr. Dickman has always attempted to administer his school in a manner in which the staff felt the need to work hard, but in a relaxed atmosphere. This kind of warmth is reflected in the children who seem contented, happy and stimulated in schoolrooms today.

Speaking of hobbies, his favorites are reading, travel, sports, bird watching and hiking. He estimates he has walked over 6,000 miles in the past 13 years between his home and school.

Walking, whether from Winchester to Woburn Center or from Arlington Square down Massachusetts Avenue to Harvard Square, he does for the love of the outdoors "not for health reasons."

Since the Dickmans have traveled over much of the United States and Canada, they are now anticipating a European trip in the fall which will include England, France, Austria, Italy and Denmark.

Mystic School, former students and the town will miss Raymond Dickman. It will also have an opportunity to show its appreciation for his services to the town at a reception planned for Sunday, June 10, in Chidley Hall at the First Congregational Church between 4 and 6 p.m.

As a special tribute to the educator, his friends have established a scholarship fund in his name. Contributions may be sent to the Raymond J. Dickman Scholarship Fund, 10 Madison Ave.

Quota Clubs Send Deaf Student To World Olympics

Joining with 12 clubs in the 29th district in a unified service project of international scope, Winchester Quotarians are sending a deaf girl to the 12th World Olympics for the Deaf scheduled to occur from July 21-28 at Malmö, Sweden.

Cheryl Helen Pivorunas, 21, from Manchester, N.H., deaf from birth, will compete in the international olympics with representatives from 40 nations. She will be one of 145 participants on the United States team. Contests will be in track and field, swimming, wrestling, basketball and volleyball.

Miss Pivorunas is a junior at Gallaudet College, Washington, D.C., the only liberal arts college for the deaf in the world. She has managed to overcome her disability. In preparation for her Malmö appearance she has been going through a rigorous training schedule including running between 50 and 70 miles per week.

Her most recent conquest was 800 meters in 2:22.5 which won her a place on the US team. It is felt she has an excellent opportunity to set American records in both the 800 and 1500 meter events.

The Deaf Olympics are held every four years in various parts of the world. Quota Clubs in the 29th district have combined to provide $2,000 to send Miss Pivorunas to Sweden. Winchester Quota Club, the newest in the district and limited in its treasury, provided $100 in support of the project.

For more information on Quota Club or the olympics, contact Dr. Leonor M. Rich, 60 Vine St.

Sachems Finish 2nd, Lose State Play

By John F. Parrell

The Winchester High School baseball nine concluded its season in a blaze of glory as it took six straight games. They outscored the combined opposition by 36 runs to three, and only Melrose was able to score an earned run.

The opposition made only 19 safe hits, and the fielding of the Colellemen over the same stretch was nearly perfect. The surge was a result of excellent pitching by co-captain Steve Johnson and fine play by every member of the team.

In the crucial battle for second place with the Red Raiders, Johnson pitched well and he had some good batting support. Wayne Dennis led the attack with three safe hits including a home run and the third sacker had four runs batted in to his credit.

Rudy Fiore, Tom Brennan and co-captain Ned Keating chipped in with two bingles each to help build the attack.

It was a well-played game, but the Sachems were clearly superior and well deserved the victory to sew up second place and the state tourney berth.

Winchester journeyed to Peabody last Saturday afternoon to open tournament play against the undefeated Peabody Tanners led by their undefeated left hander Gary Linehan.

But it was destined to be a day for neither the Sachems nor the North Shore ace. After their stirring stretch drive the local team was as tight as a drum, and put the game far out of reach with their own miscues. Linehan tried to pitch with a blister on his pitching hand and was forced to leave the mound in the second inning after Wayne Dennis hit a long smash which bounced over the fence for a ground rule double.

Co-captain Steve Johnson started and he was forced to work very hard as Peabody had runners constantly on base due to his shaky support. He was continually in a situation where he had to make his pitches good and the home team batters took advantage of the opportunities.

Seven runs had crossed the plate before he gave way to Rudy Fiore, but both pitchers were back later for second stints as the wobbly fielding continued to hurt.

The game was a definite anti-climax to their wonderful play over the second half of the year, and Coach Colella told his team that most of them were young, unaccustomed to pressure-packed tournament play, and that they would surely be back next season.

Strange to relate, most of the errors were throwing ones, with the ball soaring high or dropping short. Gig Beard, playing at first, made some sensational grabs to snag the ball before it went out of his reach.

Co-captain Ned Keating belted a long triple and a hard driven single, Mike Hefner and Dennis had doubles to lead Winchester's batting attack. However, the Sachems were never in the game after the fateful second inning.

Ten of the Tanner runs were unearned, but they were the better ball team as the game was played. Had they met Winchester on another day the result might well have been different. But the tenseness of the entire team and the weariness of the hurlers transformed a truly fine team for this one afternoon.

To steal a quote from Coach Bill Colella, "What else can I say?" So, the uniforms go back into mothballs for another year, but the boys will be in action in summer league baseball, and every one of the six starting returnees will be out to show the world next year that they really are a far different team than they appeared to be at Peabody.

This was a truly great baseball team, but they had one bad day. It was great to finish second in the league; let's make it first in 1974!

Led by assistant coach Vandy French of the baseball team, the Winchester faculty team handed a 22-12 defeat to the team representing the ABC house. It was a fun game with many sensational plays and several which were much less spectacular. Your local banker sells H Bonds at face value for $500, $1,000 and $5,000. Or you can buy them by exchanging Series E Bonds in amounts of $500 or more.

Go ahead. Sit back and enjoy retirement, but keep your savings working harder than ever with H Bonds.

Now H Bond interest rates average 5 1/2% per year when held to maturity of 10 years. Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. H Bonds are redeemable after six months. When needed they can be cashed in through your bank.

Sachems Score In Stale Meet

By John F. Parrell

Four members of Coach Manny Marshall's Winchester High School track forces scored points in the eastern portion of the state meet held at White Stadium. They ended up with an 11-point total, which gave them a tie for ninth place with Saint John's of Shrewsbury. The Reading Rockets took the title in this class.

Charlie Tatarian won his heat of the 880-yard run in 1:58, but he was unable to improve upon it in the finals and took second to Martin, the sophomore sensation from Catholic Memorial. The local runner is still hard at work and plans to enter the New England meet at Bellows Falls, Vt. this week end for another crack at the flashy Martin.

Jon Friborg surprised everybody by taking the qualifying heat of the hurdles in 21.7 and came back in the finals to beat his own effort by nearly a full second. He finished in fourth spot and is already looking forward to next year. Tony Guarente once again pursued Mark Fallon of Reading in the trial heat of the 440-yard dash to qualify. He had another chance in the final, but his best was good only for fourth place.

Bob Tonello, running after just a few days to recover from a hamstring pull, did well to finish in the money, and he too will have another chance next year. The final Winchester scorer was Pete Tilden, fourth in the triple jump event who will probably better his 42-foot performance with added experience. The Sachems conclusively trounced Woburn in their final meet of the Middlesex League season, winning 84-56. Charlie Tatarian stepped up to the mile and easily shattered the local school record of 4:31, held by Tim Fahey, as he cantered home in 4:27.4. Tip Macdonald was a double winner, taking the shot and the discus, while Tony Guarente took his 440 specialty and came home first in the 100-yard dash. O'Connor took three firsts and Owen was a double winner for the Tan-ners.

The summary:

Spring Draw Tennis Tourney Concludes

On Saturday of Memorial Day weekend, under ideal football weather, the annual spring draw tournament sponsored by the Winchester Tennis Association began with one of the largest fields ever participating in the events which included men's, women's, mixed and family doubles.

The men's doubles match was won by the second seeded team of Phil Richardson and Shep Holt. They bested the top seeded team of Will Aldrich and Ron Keane, 6-3, 6-2 in a display of solid groundstrokes and sharp volleys.

The family doubles championship which attracted 48 teams featured many spirited matches. The Kadesh boys, Dick and Phil, won the family bowl by defeating Corey and Jimmy Wynn, 6-2, 6-2. The road to this championship was not without some stiff competition from the many excellent family teams in town.

Carolyn Mooney and Phil Kadesh overcame the steady team of Don Ellis and Cecile Wilson, 6-3, 6-2, to capture first prize in the mixed doubles.

There is a great deal of interest in the ladies' doubles featuring the team of Joan Richardson and Beth Fortin against Gail MacNeil and Kathy Levinson which is scheduled for the week of June 11.

Participants agreed that this year's tournament was a pleasant tennis experience. It was a way to make new friends and to enjoy the competition of many of Winchester's top players.

Little League

Young Astros Turn Corner, Defeat Pirates 6 to 5

Veteran Little League manager Phil Stackpole and coach Jim McGoldrick seem to have turned around their young Astro team after some early season disappointments. Caught in a rebuilding year and hit with a key injury to ace pitcher Dan Tipton, Stackpole and McGoldrick knew there could be some tough sledding ahead and it would take time plus a lot of hard work to get the club working as a unit.

Dan's arm appears to be getting stronger with each passing game and this spells big trouble for all teams in the American Division of the Major League during the second half of the season.

Last Wednesday night the Astros took on Jerry Ferris swashbuckling Pirates and came out on top by a score of 6-5. It was a game that had everything, including superb umpiring by the sometimes maligned men-in-blue.

Both managers and coaches agreed that Mike Heffernan behind the plate and "volunteer" Jay Estabrook were just great. The young Astros jumped out front early taking a 3-0 lead after one inning on the timely hitting of Ron DiVincenzo.

Veteran Dan Tipton was strong on the mound for the Astros but so was the Bucs' dynamic duo of Sandford and Doe. Fan interest was high at this well-attended game as they applauded one fine play after another by both clubs.

In the last inning the Pirates were trailing 6-4. The Pirates' first hitter, Chad Doe, singled crisply, quickly followed by fleet Bubba Sandfords' booming triple.

The score was 6-5 with a runner on third and no out. Seat squirming time began at Ginn Field for Astro parents and followers. Dan Tipton and his mates, however, were not to be denied this night.

The next three hitters were erased with the tying run stranded on third and a sweet victory for Stackpole's Astros. Special credits have to go to Ron Dokus, whose clean hit for the Astros with the bases loaded was good for three RBIs.

On the same play Pirate right fielder John DeSolio almost made the catch of the year and in the process picked up many admirers for his gallant effort.

The Mets and Reds still remained tied for first place in the American Major League splitting a two game series. On Tuesday night the Mets scored seven runs in the first inning and five times in the second to take command early. These early scores proved too much for the Reds to overcome.

Don Pigott pitched well and allowed the Reds their only run in the third inning. The Mets closed out the scoring with two runs in the fifth inning to make the final score 14-1. Dana Kawa, Sam Bellino, Dave Parkhurst and Peter Johnson all had two hits each for the winners. On Thursday night the Reds rallied for two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to edge the Mets 6-5 in a thrilling see-saw game that saw the lead change hands four times.

The Mets led after two innings 2-0-0 and 3-0-0 after 4½ innings. The big blows to this point were a double and single by Alan Roche and two singles by Peter Johanson. The Reds got busy and scored four runs in the last of the fifth on two walks, a single by John Waite and a base-clearing double by Craig Polleys.

The Mets came back in the top of the sixth with two runs of their own to retake the lead 5-4. The big blows in the inning were hits by Don Pigott and Bill Strazullo. The Reds however came right back with the tying and winning runs in the last of the sixth on a hit batsman, two Met errors, a base on balls, a sacrifice fly and the ballgame.

The Yankees continued to make a shambles of the National Major League, winning two more games and running their winning streak to 11 games. It is fast becoming a question as to which team will stop this powerhouse, if anybody. It will take supreme effort to accomplish this because the Yankees, long on talent and discipline, have proven that they won't beat themselves.

After last week's action in the American Senior League the White Sox remained on top, beating the Indians and Giants while losing to the Expos. Closely in pursuit are the Senators and Indians just a half game back. It now looks like a three-team battle in that division right down to the wire with a lot of exciting baseball yet to be played.

Al Milley and his Angels have yet to taste defeat in the National Senior League as they beat the Browns and Phillies while tying the Cubs last week. They now stand 8-0-1 on the year. The Angels among other things features excellent team play and the big "D" defense making very few errors.

In late action over in the National Major League the Dodgers after sustaining some close losses this season, three by one run, began putting together complete games by beating the Red Sox 6-4 and 5-1.

Combining for both wins on the mound were Jim Albani and Joey Restighini, who limited the Red Sox to just four hits in each game. In the first game doubles by Walter Ferrera and Joe Costello drove in the first three Dodger runs. The score was tied 3-3 going into the last inning when with two Dodger runners on base talented rookie Mark Ockerbloom stepped to the plate and rifled a shot down the third base line driving in Wayne Lawson and Joey Restighini with the winning tallies.

The Red Sox stormed back in the bottom of the inning when Jim McIssac and Sean Mandeville came up with hits. But the rally fell short as Albani struck out the last man of the game, running his total to eight during this three inning stint.

In the second game, three hits each by Walter Ferrera and Wayne Lawson, and a pair by Joe Costello, the 2-3-4 hitters in the Dodger lineup was enough to drive in all five runs.

The Red Sox were shutout for five innings as tough defensive plays were turned in by Rich Magliosi. Dave Cannava, Jim Wilber four times.

and Steve Smith who made a juggling circus catch in centerfield off the bat of Sean Murray of the Red Sox in the third frame.

Manager John Schroeder is confident that if the Dodgers continue their fine all around play the second half of the season will definitely see them move up in the standings.

With approximately two-thirds of season in the record books, the league-leading White Sox of the American Senior League under manager Al Fay and coach Jim Barry have compiled some impressive statistics worth noting.

Without question, the White Sox have the highest slugging and pitching records in the league. The Sox have scored 80 runs vs. 37 for their opponents. Third year veteran Dave Pettie has been near perfect giving up a scattered six hits in 31 and two-thirds innings. This big strong-armed righthander is 4-0 in games, has 55 strike-outs and is batting a solid .480.

The Sox' other third-year veteran, John Kohr, is batting over .500 and has 35 stolen bases and two home runs to his credit. Manager Fay credits his teams flexibility for their present position. There has been experimentation in rotating both players and the positions they play — with obvious high success.

Celtics To Play Showdown Match For Championship

The Winchester Celtics struggled and finally overcame a determined Needham soccer team last Saturday to set up a showdown match with Wellesley next Saturday for the league championship.

Playing against Needham on a very narrow field, the Celts saw their usually excellent defense ruined in the first half as Needham fired no fewer than 10 shots on the Winchester goal. The Celtics were lucky to escape at half time, down by only 1-0, thanks to the superb goal-tending of Paul Casey and at least one good sliding save by half-back John Barcus.

Observers at the match felt that Needham could have scored at least six times by the half had it not been for the outstanding performance of Paul Casey in the nets. Winchester's only offensive move occurred near the end of the half when Skiff Sizemore booted a ball that beat the Needham goalie, but struck the post and rebounded into the goal keeper's hands.

After the half-time interval, left inside forward John Waite took the game into his own hands and drove two long balls past the Needham goalkeeper within the first five minutes.

After this tremendous outburst from Waite, the Celtics settled down to play their normal brand of soccer and Needham was gone. The final scoring for Winchester was a beautiful header, executed by halfback Jim Oliver, from a well-placed corner kick by John Waite.

Next Saturday at 2:15 p.m. at McDonald (Loring) Field, the Winchester boys take on their old nemesis, Wellesley, for the league title.

They lead Wellesley by one point in the standings and can dethrone the current champs by either a win or a tie. Wellesley has bested Winchester in the past two years, so this will certainly be the toughest game of the year.

Astros Lose Two

The Winchester-Medford Astros soccer team had a win streak going for them with four straight before weekend play. They added two losses, however, in recent action.

With two games remaining, they must win both to be in a playoff. Weston (6-1-0) has taken over first place. They have a bye next week.

Winchester's next game is with Topsfield at MacDonald Field Sunday at 1:30. This is the last home game and spectator support might help them.

Boots 'N' Blades Enrollment Starts

Enrollment is underway for the Winchester Wellesley Club-sponsored Boots 'N' Blades figure skating program. For the second year, lessons for children grades 1-8 will be held at the Universal Sports Arena, Conant rd. Two consecutive 10-week sessions will run from Nov. 3 through Jan. 5 and Jan. 12 through March 18.

ARBOREAL GIFT - A cherry tree, a gift of the Winchester Environmental Protection Agency in conjunction with Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm and Nurseries, was planted recently at the Winchester High School. From left, Vincent Larocco, WHS principal, and Craig Wark, president WHS Parent-Faculty Association.

The senior classes will meet each Saturday morning at 10:50 a.m. for girls and boys grades 4-8; the junior classes, at 11:55 a.m. for girls and boys grades 1-3.

Hour-long sessions include 1/2-hour of professional instruction and 1/2-hour of instructed practice. Small classes, ability grouped, will provide for a wide range of achievement levels for all ages from beginner, novice and intermediate to expert.

Flexible grouping and continuous evaluation for advancement distinguish the program which is run along United States Figure Skating Association guidelines.

Named director for the program is professional Joyce Winslip, double silver medalist, longtime teacher at Lexington's Hayden Rink and assistant director of last year's Boots 'N' Blades program.

Assisting with instruction will be professional Judy Mothersell. Familiar to last season's pupils will be professional instructor Anna May Walker. Several assistant teachers will help to insure each child's optimum progress.

Applications are now available at the Winchester Sport Shop or by contacting Mrs. Daniel Lisberger of 8 Worthen rd.

This is a community service project net proceeds of which are divided between the Winchester Scholarship Fund and Wellesley College.

CURIOSITY SEEKERS

If you intend to implant a "For Sale by Owner" sign in your front yard, be prepared for the inevitable "curiosity seekers." You'll probably spend more time tramping through the house with curiosity seekers than showing it to firm prospects.

Your "For Sale by Owner" sign leaves you open to all types of people and problems. For example, a visitor may present an offer to buy, on which he doesn't intend to follow through. You may make plans based on accepting it, only to learn that the "prospect" had no intention of completing the agreement.

A Realtor has the experience to unmask the insincere offer and turn it away before it does any harm. In fact, the presence of a Realtor usually will discharge any attempts of that sort. He will qualify prospects in advance and allow only those who are definitely prospective buyers -- not curiosity seekers -- to inspect your home.

If you have any questions on this subject or on any other aspect of Real Estate, please feel free to call or drop in at JAMES T. TREFREY, INC., REALTORS, 27 Waterfield Road, Winchester - Tel. 729-6100.

107 Works Sold At Sidewalk Show

Clear weather and a large exhibition of art works in all media and price ranges drew hundreds of browsers and buyers to the Winchester Art Association's annual sidewalk show along Manchester Field fence last Saturday.

Some 68 artists and craftsmen representing Winchester and many communities participated in the day-long show. A total of 107 works was sold.

Once again the public was invited to play "sidewalk critic" and cast votes for a favorite artist and a favorite work. A new second category of balloting invited votes for the most creative and innovative single work in the show and for the most creative artist exhibiting.

"Across the Charles," an oil by M. MacLucas Ward of Lexington, received the majority of votes for a favorite work. Tied for second place were the oil "Old Teakettle" by 15 year old Mark Giano of Arlington and "Spider Hunt," another oil by M. MacLucas Ward.

Balloting for a favorite artist resulted in a tie for first place between oil painter Liz Mazza of Lexington and M. MacLucas Ward. Second place went to Mariette Fierens-Guertz of Winchester for her soft sculpture wall hangings and third place to Pauline Govani, another Winchester artist who exhibited in oils, pastels and acrylics.

First, second, and third place honors for the most creative and innovative individual works in the show went to three wall hangings, "Gollum," "Menado," and "Firefly," all the work of Mariette Fierens-Guertz.

Mrs. Fierens-Guertz also topped the list of votes for the most creative artist in the show. Placing second was Bill Ciampa of Woburn, whose exhibit included wood carvings, oils, and drawings. Third place honors went to M. MacLucas Ward.

High bidder on the original watercolor donated to the Winchester Art Association by Rockport artist Betty Lou Schlemm was Mrs. Frank Bishop of Lynnfield.

Art Association president Joseph Pontone and general chairpersons Abby Hamilton and Jola Pontone said they were grateful for all the hardworking behind-the-scenes committee members that made this year's show a success. They gave special thanks to Carla Maria Casagrande, registration and sales; Helen Kimball, balloting and silent auction; Betty Wilder, membership table; Nancy Maxwell, assisted by Jean Berberian, hostesses; Joyce Baker, publicity; Vernon Amos and Terese Coburn, posters; and Bob Cummings, properties and photography.

Middlesex County Hospital May Close Due To Budget Cuts

Selectman John J. Sullivan feels the possibility budget cuts may force the closing of Middlesex County Hospital 'fits right in' with the Board of Selectmen's recent criticism of the institution.

'I think we have a good bite on the situation,' Sullivan said. 'Dr. Noble practically quoted our letter on rate setting. That's what we've been talking about for 4 1/2 years.'

The selectmen are refusing to pay Winchester's 1972 $40,000 share of operating the hospital located in Waltham. Hospital director Dr. John Noble in a statement to the legislative Committee on Counties commented:

'Two consultants who examined the hospital at the request of the (county) commissioners stated that the only problem they noted of consequence was a ridiculously low per diem rate of reimbursement.'

Sullivan said the low per diem rate—how much money the town and cities are reimbursed for treatment of patients from their communities—as noted by Noble is something the Winchester Board of Selectmen has been trying to change.

'The ball is in their court now,' the selectman added. 'They're caught in the middle.'

Sullivan objects to the regionalization of facilities at Middlesex Hospital while there has been no change in assessment policies. At one time each county had its hospital for treatment of tuberculosis. Now, apparently, stated Sullivan, Middlesex Hospital 'is serving the whole state' yet only the communities within the county share its costs.

Asked if he favored seeing the hospital closed, Sullivan replied: 'I wouldn't say that. But I would limit it to what it was set up to do.' He said the hospital has many new programs and services not sanctioned by legislation.

'What's to prevent other state agencies from doing the same thing?' The selectman said the hospital may have good programs and may be doing a good job but that central control is required.

Dr. Noble feels that the budget cuts recently ordered by the county commissioners will force Middlesex Hospital to close. Medical supplies and equipment were cut 50 percent, which will jeopardize patient care, Noble told the Committee on Counties.

The hospital had requested $7.1 million for the coming 18 months. The commissioners cut this by $563,127, despite the advice of three hospital controllers from major area hospitals. These controllers projected an inflation figure of hospital costs of 15 per cent during this time period.

The commissioners cut all new positions and all regrades. The regrades, which represent merit promotions, are 5 per cent of the budget requests. There have been none at the hospital in three years, Noble said.

These cuts, said Noble, will mean 'a halt to the expansion of patient services. It will create severe problems with staff morale and recruiting, particularly among physicians, nurses and other skilled professionals.'

'One of the consultants stated very clearly to the commissioners that the fear he had was that they would cut the budget. If you do so,' he said, 'then I will not want to have my city support the hospital because its staff will not be able to provide service,' he went on.

'Gentlemen, we are not a county maintenance department. We are dealing with human beings and their lives. The demand for our services vastly outweighs our capacity to admit patients. Or staff is skilled, dedicated and poorly recompensed.'

'Without the support and leadership of the committee, the budget for 1973-74 as prepared by the county commissioners will be irrelevant for the hospital and it will close,' he concluded.

MacDonald Gets Third License

The Board of Selectmen has granted Archie J. MacDonald's Winchester Cab Co. a third license, delayed action on a requested 15-cent fare hike and directed "Winchester Cab Service" to change its name.

Action came during lengthy discussion at a recent meeting of the selectmen and owners of the five major cab companies in Winchester. The immediate issue was renewal of the 14 licenses for taxis operating in Winchester.

All were renewed for a year. The board stipulated that companies holding at least three licenses must be available for calls from 6 p.m. to midnight two nights a week, their schedule to be supervised by the Police Department.

In addition, the board agreed to accept proposals for new licenses only within the two-month period prior to May 1.

Selectman Vito A. Giarrizzo suggested the additional license for MacDonald because records from all cab companies indicated Winchester Cab Co. had the greatest business increase within the time span studied.

MacDonald's firm had a 41 percent increase over last year.

William Falzano, owner of Bill's Taxi, now operates out of MacDonald's address on Main street in the center. The board felt Falzano's company name, Winchester Cab Service, is too similar to MacDonald's. They felt public accountability would be best served by distinct identification of the two businesses.

As part of Falzano's license renewal he will be required to label his cars with a more distinctive name.

The board took no action on the fare increase request after MacDonald and Richard Terzian, president of the Winchester Taxi Owners' Assn., a loose affiliation of four companies, suggested a complete review of the town's rate system of charging by zones.

MacDonald said raising the basic rates from 75 to 90 cents would penalize residents living a short distance from Winchester Center, particularly those who will be living in the new elderly housing project on Palmer street.

In other action, the board approved a request from Boston Edison Co. to dig up Cambridge and Pond streets to install transmission lines from a new power station in Everett.

The job would take a week to complete, sometime in the fall. Edison representatives said the roads would be temporarily resurfaced and after the winter rebuilt. The new lines will increase the town's tax base by $2 million.

The selectmen names members to a new committee to study cable television in Winchester. They are Richard B. Lawrence, 150 Highland ave., nominated by the School Committee; Charles Viglas of 21 Olde Village dr. and Richard K. Schroeder of 41 Arlington st., both nominated by the Planning Board; William H. McCarter Jr. of 21 Mt. Pleasant st. and Robert T. Granger of 42 Highland ave., both nominated by the Board of Selectmen.

ABC Graduates First Students

Bobby Gates, Bill Hooker, Jose Rivera, Dorian Wilson and Glenn Wright were the first students of A Better Chance house to receive Winchester High School diplomas.

In a ceremony at Manchester Field Sunday, the ABC students were praised by School Committee chairman Mrs. Harriet Dietrich for their many contributions to the school and community.

Families of all the ABC graduates were present at the Sunday ceremony.

BUDDING ARTISTS - Five-year-olds Bruce Tyler and Tom Davis, pupils of art teacher Kitty Fixx Davis, sketch intently. An exhibit of their work, along with other students of Mrs. Davis, was held recently. Tom is the son of Mrs. Davis.

Work Of Pre-School Artists On Exhibit

An art exhibition by students of Kitty Fixx Davis was held recently in her studio at 154 Highland ave. Those represented from the four- and five-year-old class were Sidra Fiorenza, Katy Grant, Charlotte Hartman, Meg Lawler, Laura McNamee, Patricia Maio, Tom Davis, David Reno, David Strah, and Bruce Tyler.

Representative art projects from the six-through eight-year-old class were done by Melissa Barger, Judy Boone, Martha Davis, Meredith Easton, Kathleen Fitzgerald, Sarah Hebb, Elizabeth Obbard, Lynn Plunkett, Alison Sughrue, Suzanne Virelli, Chris Byrne, Christopher Dollase, and Nicholas Rossetos.

Parents of students viewed the many varied art works and participated in a sample art lesson; sketching their own children. Louise Friou, a seventh grader who served as student assistant during the three-term year, showed action sketches. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Davis is an Oberlin College graduate who studied at The Art Students League in New York City and has taught art and elementary education.

Tom James Played Well In Greece

Tom James, former Winchester High athlete, has been playing some fine basketball for Pierce College in Athens, Greece. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward James, 11 Sargent rd.

Richard Dukeshire, former basketball mentor at Northeastern, is director of athletics at Pierce. The hoop team is coached by Arthur Christopher, a former standout for the Huskies. Many former schoolboy hoopers are enrolled at the college.

In its first year of intercollegiate basketball the team had a record of 25 wins against only three losses. They handed two defeats to teams representing the American University in Cairo, Egypt, and Haigayam College in Beirut, Lebanon.

Tom, a sophomore, was the outstanding defensive player on the quintet, and drew the assignment of covering the best scorer for the opposition. He played a steady game, and chipped in with a 15 point scoring average to help bolster the offense of the Pierce team.

Diamond Develops Warning System

Diamond Antenna & Microwave Corp. of 35 River st. has received commendation from Westinghouse Electric, Defense and Electronic System Center in Baltimore for its team effort participation and major design contribution in the development of the Defense Department's latest requirements for an advance concept early warning detection system. The successful airborne warning and control system program demonstration has resulted in Westinghouse being competitively chosen by Boeing and by the Air Force as the high radar system contractor.

The Diamond engineered, developed and manufactured complex multichannel, high power, state-of-the-art microwave radio frequency rotary coupler was a key item in the radar performance requirements during flight test evaluations.

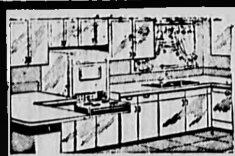

The control system is a critical part of latest defense system complex and will extend radar surveillance and detection capabilities for hundreds of miles beyond the United States' borders with a fleet of airborne command posts. The long range radar antenna system is installed in a 30' diameter mushroom-shaped rotodome sitting above the fuselage of a converted Boeing 707 jet aircraft. Diamond's system is used to direct high power radio frequency energy signals from the transmitting equipment inside the aircraft to the rotating radar antenna system in the rotodome above. In addition to being used for long range surveillance and detection purposes it will be utilized as a flying communications and command post to direct airborne, land-based and naval operations from high altitude vantage stations.

Bixby & Northrup Seeks To Increase Professionalism

Winchester native Edward M. Burns, Manager of Bixby & Northrup Real Estate, 24 Thompson St., considers Winchester the ideal place in which to live and rear children.

"The more I travel, the more I like this town because of its close proximity to Boston with good transportation, its excellent school system, town sewerage and its diversification in income, nationalities, racial and religious backgrounds." He believes Winchester is a kind of melting pot, "a healthy atmosphere to bring up children."

Burns and his staff tell The Star that Bixby & Northrup is one of the original two realty firms in Winchester, the other being The Porter Company. Bixby & Northrup was begun by Warren Bixby and Norman Northrup in April, 1952, with locations in Lynnfield, Topsfield and Winchester.

Joseph Lucy joined the firm in 1953 and later bought the Winchester end of the business, which became incorporated on Jan. 24, 1957. The corporation has a board of directors and Burns joined the firm three years ago. He became manager about 2 1/2 years ago. Previously he was in the leather business for 18 years.

Other full-time staff members include Mrs. Ann Bishop, Mrs. Virginia Cancelliere, Kenneth Cullen, Mrs. Mary Blaisdell, Mrs. Patricia McCarthy and Mrs. Marilyn Simpson.

Speaking for his staff, Burns says, "Homeowners should get good professional help and discuss the proper way to merchandise their home with a realtor."

The chief goals of Bixby & Northrup are to "offer homeowners and buyers professional knowledgeable service," and to continue an educational program with the staff to become more and more knowledgeable.

Burns, who is state chairman for RELO, Intercity Relocation Service, a network of over 650 realty companies with over 2,000 realty offices throughout the world catering to transferring individuals and families, has just completed a two-year program with GRI (Graduated Real Estate Institute).

"We are heavily engaged in an education process," Burns says pointing out that each year a new member of the Bixby & Northrup staff will be enrolled in GRI. Feeling that some in the business are not professional enough, he would like to see stricter state licensing laws.

Though house prices in Winchester will vary up and down, the average selling price of a house is $50,000. He says it would be difficult to gauge the number of houses that might be sold in a year because of cooperative selling through multiple listing and RELO.

Burns observes that buying and selling houses is a "seasonal business." He says the average mover "wants to be settled before summer" and if he is not successful, he stops for the summer and resumes thinking about moving in the fall.

He says he doesn't know what can be done

Varsity Honors

Noel P. Webb of Sacramento, Calif., formerly of Winchester, earned a varsity letter at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Me., after playing 1973 varsity lacrosse.

James S. Beck of Winchester earned a Jayvee numeral from Bowdoin.

Project Skylab

Gerald E. Hibbard Sr., of 2 Ridge St., photo optical test engineer at Itek Corporation's Optical Systems Division, recently participated as a member of the project team that produced a camera aboard NASA's Skylab satellite now in orbit.

The camera, a six-lens multispectral system, will be part of the earth resources experiment package on Skylab to study crops, vegetation, geological formations, underground water and minerals, and wind, sea and weather conditions.

The camera will record with each photograph an 88 by 88 nautical-mile square of the earth's surface from the 235-nautical-mile orbit. Each photograph records information using the reflecting light from various objects in different portions of the visible and invisible spectrum. By superimposing combinations of these photographs through appropriate filters, the analyst will be able to highlight the particular conditions he wishes to observe.

Swanson Earns Varsity Numeral

Junior midfielder Steve Swanson of Winchester has been awarded junior varsity numerals for his performance with the 1973 Ithaca College J.V. lacrosse team.

A physical education major at Ithaca, Swanson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Swanson of 19 Johnson rd. and is a 1970 graduate of Winchester High School.

Silver Anniversary

Relatives and friends of Mary and John Donlon of 39 Salem st. recently gathered at the Colonial in Lynnfield to celebrate the Donlon's 25th wedding anniversary. Following dinner the anniversary pair cut a heart-shaped two-tier wedding cake sent to them from Cape Cod. They also opened many gifts.

on the town's prohibition of serving liquor to persons under 21 years of age at licensed clubs.

Selectman Sullivan wondered if club licenses must be consistent with state law allowing 18-year-olds to drink.

The issue came up through a citizen complaint of youths drinking at the American Legion hall on Vine street (between Church and Main streets), early morning activity at the club resulting in noise from cars and use of the building for youths playing instruments.

Police Officer R.W. Fisher said in a report dated May 10 that he went to the hall at 1:30 a.m. on a complaint of noise and found a dozen young persons dancing and a band playing.

As a result of his visit, the band was asked to stop and the youths left. House chairman Henry O'Neil told L.I. Andrew Crawford that to keep the club active a younger group of Vietnam War veterans and social members had been taken in, but no high schoolers.

O'Neil said he would prevent a recurrence. On the suggestion of Selectman Sullivan, the board voted to request the Personnel Board and Police Chief Edward F. Bowler to send them recommendations to review the salaries of special officers in the Police Dept. 'Specials' are temporarily appointed officers awaiting permanent appointment.

Because of the court-delayed civil service examinations, permanent appointments have been held up. Special Officer Andrew J. Saraco, who died last week, had been employed three years without a review of his salary.

The board appointed Andrew Saraco's brother, William, and Peter Skerry of 130 Sylvester ave. as special officers on the recommendation of Chief Bowler. Saraco lives at 34 Farrow st.

Dog Officer Dominic P. Molea was reappointed to that position for nine months. Construction of a dog pound and delivery of a dog van are awaited.

Winchester Telephone

In 1907, 5000 Calls A Month;
Today, 140,000 Handled Daily

"Hello, Mabel, get me 7808."

That's the way it was in Winchester in late 1907, when the community's telephone exchange opened (serving 15 subscribers) with Miss Mabel McKim at the switchboard.

Today about 125 employees work in Winchester itself to provide telephone service to more than 8,000 Winchester customers.

Today New England Telephone is in the midst of a two-year $2 million expansion program to add cable, conduit and call-switching equipment to meet the community's changing telephone needs.

"To understand why expansion is a necessary and almost constant thing for us in Winchester, one has only to look at the past decade," says local telephone manager Howard Hayman.

"The area's population went up about 15 percent. At the same time the number of telephones rose by more than 41 per cent and the number of local and long distance calls increased by more than 76 per cent."

Hayman said the 1972-73 service expansion program is aimed at increasing the amount of cable which carries customers' calls to and from the local switching center and the long distance network and increasing the amount of call-switching equipment that directs these calls to their destinations.

A large part of the company's expenditure last year in Winchester went for added equipment at the Main st. switching center, which serves both Winchester customers and customers in Woburn.

More than 140,000 calls go through this switching equipment on an average business day.

"The number of calls is increasing steadily," Hayman said. "Back records show, for instance, that in 1907 we were handling about 5,000 calls during an entire month."

A major equipment installation took place at the center last year, when call-switching equipment went in that provided facilities for several thousand potential customers.

The major expenditure of the two-year program, however, is for what is termed "outside plant"—telephone cable, poles and conduit. Conduits are the underground tubing through which cable is passed.

Last year additional cable and conduit were placed on Cross st. and between Winchester and Wilmington.

More cable was placed between Winchester and Arlington, Winchester and Burlington and Winchester and Somerville. Work also began on the placing of more cable between Winchester and Wakefield and Winchester and Reading.

"We also have a project under way that involves air pressurization of our underground cable," Hayman said. "By introducing air pressure into these cables, we can pinpoint possible trouble spots and help prevent water from seeping into these areas and shorting out the cable."

"Air pressurization is under way throughout the state and we hope to have the work in Winchester completed this year." While crews install equipment at the switching center and others work at placing cable and conduit, still others are involved in seeing that the existing equipment is functioning properly.

Telephone employees work at testboards which enable them to determine the nature of a problem reported on a customer's line. Other personnel work to eliminate the trouble.

Phase 2, State Reorganization Explained By Leff

Massachusetts Secretary of Elder Affairs Jack Leff spoke before a meeting sponsored by the Mystic Valley Association of Senior Citizen Organizations at the Unitarian Church about Phase II of the Governor's reorganization plan for the Office of Elder Affairs recently.

The meeting, open to all interested older citizens of the Valley area, was attended by Randy Martin's eighth grade Civics class from McCall Junior High School. The pupils have been studying the problems of aging.

Secretary Leff explained that the Phase II reorganization plan has two objectives. First, to strengthen and formalize the advocacy voice for elders in the Commonwealth; secondly, to legally establish home care services as the Commonwealth's response to the needs of elders—a response that will end the unnecessary and wasteful institutionalization of elders who do not need that level of care.

The Department of Elder Affairs will provide complete home care services by contracting with non-profit corporations in local communities. Services for older citizens will include homemaker services; preventive, restorative, and mental health services; housing services; transportation services; legal services; and emergency services.

In addition, the department will have regulatory authority over homemaker agencies, thus insuring quality homemaker services throughout the Commonwealth.

Two existing services will be transferred to the Department of Elder Affairs—the Commonwealth Service Corps and the Hot Meals program.

The Commonwealth Service Corps, to be renamed the Elder Service Corps, will provide elders with employment opportunities in Home Care Corporations, local Councils on Aging and other state service agencies and programs.

Transferring the Hot Meals program to the Department of Elder Affairs will insure that meals are planned with the particular needs of elders in mind, he said.

The department expects a significant increase in federal assistance to conduct its programs. Over the past year, Elder Affairs has generated an increase in federal funds of over 200 percent.

In presenting the Phase II Reorganization of Elder Affairs, Secretary Leff said, "With this plan, no longer will elders be relegated to second class citizenship.... Massachusetts can now work toward a time when future generations of elders will not have to face the poverty, boredom, feelings of uselessness and isolation that many of our elders face today."

Parents Observe Pre-schoolers In Nursery; Discuss Problems

During the past two years, the Winchester Mental Health Assn., a branch of the Mystic Valley Mental Health Assn., has organized an observation group for mothers of three and four-year-olds.

The mothers have been using St. Eulalia's Church and the Church of the Epiphany parish rooms along with parents' homes during the winter seasons.

Mrs. Charles Morgan and Mrs. David Deshier, co-chairmen of the Winchester Mental Health Assn. and Mrs. John Papas organized the program.

Other members of the group are Mrs. Charles DuToit, Mrs. Nancy Hemmerich, Mrs. Nancy Hagge and Mrs. Anne Oppenheimer who help with the nursery school group.

The women formed a nursery school for three-year olds and recruited Mrs. Constantine Alexander and Mrs. David Campbell who brought extensive experience in teaching and management of such an undertaking. The 15 mothers who participated with the children came from Arlington, Lexington and Winchester.

The purpose of the nursery school was to permit the parents to observe their children while in the nursery school surroundings for one half hour and then to participate in a discussion chaired by Dr. Perihan Rosenthal, one of the head psychiatrists at Mystic Valley Mental Health Center.

These discussion groups provided opportunities for mothers to discuss various indications of their children's healthy growth as well as to share their experiences with their youngest and older children with other mothers and with a psychiatrist who could help them understand some of their problems. Among some of the subjects that were discussed were children's fears, brother and sister rivalry, eating problems, sleeping, separation from parents, discipline and limit setting.

From time to time fathers joined the group. Several evenings were arranged so more fathers could be included to better understand signs of normal childhood development and get a perspective on older children's problems.

The participating mothers and the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center professional staff report the program as an effective preventive program.

Parents in any of the five Mystic Valley area towns who are interested in the program may call Mrs. Morgan, 6 Crescent rd., Mrs. Deshier, 186 Doham st. for information on forming a local committee to work with Mystic Valley Mental Health Center on such a project beginning next winter.

MVMHC Seeks Children Not Being Served

The Mystic Valley Mental Health Center, which cares for the social and psychological problems in Arlington, Burlington, Winchester and Woburn, is looking for children in the area who are not receiving adequate attention as well as those who are receiving no attention at all.

MVMHC has received a small grant from the State Department of Mental Health to be used for identifying those children in need of services. Although the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center will not be able to provide any new services at this time, as children in need are identified the clinic will attempt to provide for them within the framework of existing programs. Information collected will be used to plan programs to meet special needs on a continuing basis.

A staff of four has been formed to work on the project: Dr. Phyllis Oram, a psychologist, Lynn Parth, a social worker, and two research assistants, Kathleen Skoczulek and Helen Aiken. Parents of children living in Arlington, Burlington, Lexington, Winchester or Woburn who cannot obtain mental health services needed should call Dr. Oram or Ms. Parth at the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center to discuss the problem.

"Summerthing" At Crawford Methodist Church June 26

Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church will sponsor mid-week services all summer. The Rev. Dean E. Benedict, pastor announced plans for "Summerthing" a program of informal worship services this summer.

Beginning June 26 and continuing each Tuesday through September 4 there will be a service at 7:30 p.m. The form and setting of these services will vary according to Pastor Benedict. Some of the services will be held out of doors, and at least two will be preceded by a family-style picnic on the church lawn.

Some of the services will be led by laymen, some by the youth of the church, and some by the pastor. Services will include communion, hymns, songs, experimental forms of worship, and a Quaker style service.

One of the communion services will be led by Rev. Joseph Sprague, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Council of Churches. Rev. Sprague resides in Winchester and attends Crawford Memorial with his family.

It was the feeling of the church that many people who go away weekends, but are home during the week truly miss the opportunities for worship and fellowship during the summer.

Rev. Fultz Of Counseling "Y" Is Guest Speaker

The morning worship service for Sunday at Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church is being planned by the social concerns committee of the council on ministries.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Arthur Fultz, a Methodist minister who serves as executive director of Counseling YMCA Affiliate, Inc., in Woburn.

Rev. Arthur Fultz

Rev. Fultz is a psychologist-marriage counselor and an ordained Methodist minister. He was graduated from Baker University, Garrett Biblical Institute, and Boston University.

June 13 First Public Hearing On Charter Commission

A public hearing to discuss whether a charter commission should be established in Winchester is being called by the Town Government Study Committee for Wednesday, June 13 at 8 p.m.

The hearing will limit discussion to describing the nature of a charter commission, how such a commission is formed, what its powers are, how voters are involved in the charter process and the contributions of the town meeting and the Board of Selectmen to the charter process.

The meeting will be moderated by Raymond J. Kenney Jr., moderator of the Winchester Town Meeting. Speakers at the hearing will be John C. Dalton, director of the Department of Community Affairs of the Office of Municipal Planning and Management for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and Robert D. Smith, an Arlington attorney, contributor to the book "Home Rule—Modernizing Local Government in Massachusetts," and consultant to more than half of the communities that have chosen a charter form of government.

They will talk on "Winchester's opportunity: home rule—the right of self government in local matters."

Dalton and Smith, along with representative members from the Board of Selectmen, the Finance Committee and the Town Government Study Committee, will comprise a panel to answer questions from the floor. Following the question period, the Town Government Study Committee will solicit volunteers for getting signatures to put the charter question on the 1974 ballot.

They will also try to fill the two existing vacancies on the Town Government Study Committee and to establish an educational and publicity committee to keep the community informed on the status of the charter process.

The agenda was approved by the Winchester Board of Selectmen on May 24 and is being advertised in The Winchester Star this week and June 7. Arrangements will be made for students to tape the meeting for later replay, perhaps at the special town meeting the following week.

'Neighborhood Watch' New Police Ploy

The Winchester Police Department is initiating a pilot "neighborhood watch" program in high burglary areas of the town. Safety officer John W. McKinley said one or more specific neighborhoods will participate at first. Residents of these neighborhoods will meet at the homes of the area watch leaders "to familiarize each neighbor with the procedure of the watch."

"Talks will be oriented around people seeing what is happening in their neighborhood and recording information for later use in the event of a break."

McKinley said choice of pilot neighborhoods will depend on three things: a high burglary rate, a cohesive neighborhood area and whether persons from the neighborhood have indicated a desire to participate.

Earlier this year the Police Department mailed 500 questionnaires townwide requesting interested persons to submit their names and telephone numbers for inclusion in the program.

The department received 150 responses, 20 of them indicating a desire to participate, according to Officer McKinley. He expects to choose the target neighborhoods next week.

If the pilot program is a success, he said, it will be applied townwide. At first project director Lt. Andrew Crawford and Police Chief Edward F. Bowler will meet with the neighborhood representatives to tell them what the program's goals are.

"Watch members will have guidelines prepared by the department telling them what to look for, when to be particularly observant and how to properly record information," McKinley said. "This information will be passed on to the department to be evaluated and coordinated in the investigation of breaks and other related incidents in the town."

Watch members will be looking for suspicious activity in their areas. The department is particularly interested in seeing if the watch groups can continue working by themselves, McKinley said.

"Neighborhood watch" has been developed along the lines of the "block mothers" program instituted throughout the country to protect elementary school children going to and from schools in rural areas.

The program is slated to begin before the summer exodus from Winchester in order that selected areas are covered during the summer.

Officer McKinley added: "Interested citizens are encouraged to get in touch with the department and leave their name and phone number so that they may be included in the 'watch' program in their neighborhoods."

Committee Changes Schools' Names, Hears Appeal For Metro Education

Last Monday night the Winchester School Committee renamed two of the town's schools, heard reports on metropolitan planning and pre-school screening programs and discussed the school lunch program.

Next fall the old Winchester high school will be called McCall Junior High School and the former McCall Junior High will be named Lincoln Elementary School.

The School Committee voted the new names because of the mounting confusion throughout town and inaction on the part of the town's Committee on Names.

"We really didn't need to go before the Committee on Names," said school committee member Richard B. Lawrence. "It's not like there are new structures involved," he noted and suggested the committee go ahead and name the schools. After Committee member Stephen Parkhurst made a motion to go ahead and rename the schools, the committee unanimously agreed.

Metropolitan Planning

John Gibson, director of the William Filene Center of Tufts University, was announced speaker at the committee meeting. Gibson spoke on a proposal for planning "quality integrated education" in Greater Boston which will provide greater educational opportunities and reduce overall costs.

Gibson, who lives at 20 Cabot st. and has two daughters in the Winchester school system, appealed to the School Committee to join 17 other school committees which have voted to be legal applicants in the metropolitan educational planning and 38 other school districts in the total 78 school districts in supporting the plan to reduce minority group isolation in the Greater Boston region.

Gibson said the federal government describes minority persons as those who are black, Spanish surnamed, native American or Oriental.

He said the long term goal of the 10-year plan will be to "develop a program to distribute minority students in Greater Boston's schools on the basis of one-half of the total minority population."

After negotiations in Washington, $890,000 in federal funding under the Emergency School Aid Act passed by statute in June, 1972, will pay for the plan to plan.

Gibson said that many of the applicants have questioned the feasibility of finalizing such a long-term goal but all agree "to encourage the voluntary elimination, reduction or prevention of minority group isolation in elementary and secondary schools with substantial proportions of minority groups students."

He reminded the School Committee there is no financial commitment involved nor is there a commitment "to accept a final product" on the part of any school committee at this stage of development.

"I'm not saying all will collapse without your support," Gibson said. He pointed to the town's advantage to have representation on an advisory board to help plan the planning for metropolitan education. "What will happen will affect Winchester whether you are in on it or not," he pointed out.

Basically the proposal contains four main components—community participation and public information, support research, personnel development and designing learning environments. Gibson assured the School Committee there is no busing or forced integration involved in the proposal.

In answer to School Committee member Richard Pharo's concern about safeguarding quality education for non-minorities or "reduction in quality education," Gibson referred to "hard data" showing integration programs such as Metco "do not reduce white achievement but it does increase black achievement."

He spoke of goals or needs of all students: to feel good about themselves; to reduce prejudices, and reduce discriminatory patterns of behavior. Findings on integration activity shows "black students have improved especially in the area of self-esteem," Gibson notes.

In further dialogue Gibson agreed with Pharo that quality education is first priority for all students; mix-up of kids, second.

School Committee Chairman Harriet Dieterich thanked Gibson for addressing the group and indicated the School Committee would rediscuss the subject at a later time.

(Earlier this year the committee, through a telephone poll and discussion at the end of an executive meeting, rejected the proposal saying "we agree with the concept but not the approach" and adding they would study the topic further and prepare a "position paper.")

Pre-School Planning

W. Howard Niblock, director of pupil services, Paula Caffrey, principal of Noonan School, and counselor Joan Grenzebeck reported on results of a pilot pre-school screening program to identify children with hearing, speech, vision or muscle coordination problems.

Selectmen Ordered Before High Court

Case Continued

Supreme Judicial Court Judge Benjamin Kaplan yesterday continued until July 11 Middlesex County's suit against Winchester officials for failing to pay a hospital assessment bill.

According to Special Town Counsel Paul F. Amico, if the county commissioners agree to certain stipulations on assessments the town will agree to pay the $40,000 owed since April for the operation of Middlesex County Hospital.

Atty. Amico said Judge Kaplan agreed to an unusual procedure in allowing Selectman John J. Sullivan to state the town's arguments in court. They are that the rates reimbursed by the county to the towns and cities for patient care are too low, that the hospital is carrying on programs not authorized by legislation, that the towns and cities in Middlesex County are paying for treatment of patients outside the county and that there may be duplication of services.

Assistant district attorney Terence Troier, representing the county, argued that the commissioners of Middlesex County was what Winchester wants but that by law the town is obliged to pay its bill.

"Technically they have their case," commented Amico. "But we don't want to sit back forever." Amico will speak to the commissioners prior to July 11 to see what assurances they can give Winchester that the inequities will be corrected.

Amico said the town will ask that the court include in its decision a requirement that the commissioners correct those inequities. If the court agrees, according to Amico, that will represent a major victory for Winchester and the other Middlesex County communities.

The members of the Board of Selectmen and the Town Treasurer were served subpoenas over the weekend on the town's failure to pay its Middlesex County Hospital assessment of $40,000.

Selectman Arthur E. Dunbar, chairman; John S. Sullivan, Vito A. Giarrizzo, William G. Chapman Jr., and Lawrence T. Smith and Treasurer Marguerite H. Troop were ordered to appear yesterday before the state's Supreme Judicial Court.

They are represented by Atty. Paul F. Amico, the former chairman of the Winchester selectmen, in the absence of Town Counsel Leonard J. Mullen Jr., who is ill.

Middlesex County District Attorney John J. Droney filed the writ of mandamus on behalf of the county commissioners, who have responsibility for maintaining the hospital in Waltham.

The town's assessment was due April 1. On April 25 the selectmen voted to refuse payment on the grounds the hospital is engaging in treatment of illnesses not covered by its enabling legislation and because they feel the county's assessment formula is unfair to Winchester.

Winchester is the only community in the county failing to pay its bill.

The town, meanwhile, accrues a yearly interest of 12 percent on the $40,000.

The selectmen have stated publicly several times that they feel the only route open to them in changing the county formula is by taking action now and forcing the county to justify its assessment practices.

They feel the county has failed to justify itself.

If the court orders the town to pay its debt and the selectmen still refuse, then the in-

Area Hospitals Review Non-Abortion Policies

Most hospitals in the Winchester area are reviewing their non-abortion policies in the wake of the recent Supreme Court ruling denying states the right to prohibit abortions in the first three months of pregnancy.

According to John Burgoine of Winchester Hospital, "The subject of abortion is currently under review by the hospital's legal counsel for a presentation to the board of directors. No action on the matter has been taken by the board."

Other area hospitals studying the total abortion topic and its approach to patients seeking abortions include the New England Memorial Hospital of Stoneham, Lawrence Memorial Hospital of Medford, Melrose-Wakefield Hospital of Wakefield, Emerson Hospital of Concord and Newton-Wellesley Hospital of Newton.

Roger Dvorak, administrator of Symmes Hospital, Arlington, tells The Star, "The community at present is not asking for abortions," and at Symmes "they are not now being done," adding that he "can't speak for the future."

Recently at Haverhill's Hale Municipal Hospital, court-ordered abortions were performed on women who sued the hospital for refusing to give them abortions. This case is expected to serve as a precedent for municipal hospitals.

Last week the Massachusetts House approved and sent to the Senate a bill allowing private hospitals to refuse to perform abortions. The bill allows physicians and other medical personnel who are against abortion the opportunity to refuse to participate in such procedures.

325 Fish In Kiwanis Derby

On July 10 at a softball game with the police department, winners in the annual Kiwanis Fish Derby at Wedge Pond will be announced and receive prizes of rods, reels and fishing tackle.

According to fish derby chairman Rocco J. Ferraina, judges are still in the process of determining winners in the various categories of fish and overall length of fish. Ferraina says one trout was caught. "This was 15 inches and an easy winner."

Other catches include two bass, three eels, many sunfish and "even two snapping turtles," complete surprises to all and to be added to pre-existent categories, Ferraina adds.

All fishermen (boys and girls attending Winchester's elementary schools) brought their own fishing gear and used worms as bait, in accordance with the rules of the contest. Each participant was accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Ferraina tells about one young lady who, in her excitement, fell into the pond - chair and all. The only other incident was when a father got a hook caught on a finger.

Ferraina, who has been in charge of the fish derbies for the past three years, is allowed $300 to put on the annual fishing competition. "We sold out on our chuck wagon," he says, adding that holdogs, drinks and other refreshments were served. "We usually break even," Ferraina points out.

Planning Board, WBA Split On Center Zoning

The Planning Board has completed its townwide rezoning plan and is recommending mid-rise apartments for Winchester Center, changes in parking requirements for the square and more controls in planned residential districts.

The board this week is delivering copies of the new by-law proposal to town boards and will not publicly reveal them until next week. A spokesman said, however, "There will be some significant differences from the previous proposal."

One of the differences over the proposal defeated at a special town meeting two years ago is a lowering of the recommended height on apartments in the center. Mid-rise two years ago was defined as 10 stories.

Speculation is the board will recommend to the town meeting a height limit of five or six stories, or under 100 feet.

Changes in parking requirements in the center business district will also be proposed. Though as yet there is no official word how, the board last week met with representatives of the Winchester Business Association and discussed center parking, among many other proposals.

Board chairman Otto E. Schaefer called center parking "the most troublesome problem in the square," especially if apartments are to rise in that area.

WBA president Nancy Dressler said the merchants disagree with the board's consultant report that Main street should be closed between Myrtle valley pkwy. and the rotary. The merchants, she said, feel Main street between those two points should be made one-way, with the traffic flow toward Woburn, and angle parking instituted.

She said such a plan will provide 20 more parking spaces.

The Planning Board and WBA are in disagreement over apartments in the center. WBA wants multi-use—shops or office space on the first floor with apartments above. Schaefer said the board wants one or the other but not both in the same area.

WBA fears that the Planning Board will not include a zoning revision for the center and is prepared to present its own zoning proposal. Schaefer has said the board will include a special article on center rezoning.

A public hearing on the board's proposal is planned for September. The board is seeking to revise the town's 40-year-old zoning by-laws, to update them, redefine what residential areas could contain and incorporate changes in the non-conformity section of the by-law.

WBA and Planning Board are in essential agreement on most of the proposals for development of the center to allow apartments, provide more parking and make the area more attractive.

One idea both groups feel deserves attention is the concept of connecting the common with Thompson street by a tunnel. Both the Planning Board's consultant, Candebub & Fleissig, and the WBA came up with the tunnel idea.

Another idea is connecting the parking lot behind the police station to the business area by a bridge.

Parking appears to be the problem splitting the two groups. Schaefer feels that mixed use will require considerably more parking areas than will be available. Apartments in the center must be attractive, he said, and this means setting them back from the street and providing landscaping.

Apartment buildings must also provide for offstreet parking, he said, and since underground garages are usually so expensive to be prohibitive, the apartment ground floor would be used for parking and there would be no space for retail stores.

WBA feels there are alternate areas available for development for parking.

Planning Board member William Holland said that it is difficult to envision Winchester needing new office space. Richard Schmadier, developer of the new Mill Pond Medical Building, took issue with this based on his surveys and research into the need for professional office space.

The Candebub and Fleissig report lists as an objective: "To provide opportunities for new and modernized office space which will be compatible with and support retail activities" and considers most of the currently available space obsolete.

James Dwiner of the Winchester Savings Bank suggested designating land for alternative uses as a compromise measure aimed at providing alternatives to persons with viable plans for renewal.

Coach Brooks Holmes Leaves For Norwell

By John F. Farrell

Brooks Holmes, assistant football coach and a member of the physical education staff of the Winchester schools, has submitted his resignation to Henry Perry, assistant superintendent for personnel.

The popular coach came here from Middletown, Conn. by way of Springfield College. His work here was split into two phases, since he served three years as a naval officer between his two coaching stints.

Holmes will go to Norwell High School, where he succeeded Charles Napoli, who has been advanced to assistant principal at the South Shore school. Norwell is more or less like Burlington in that it remained a small town until very recently. However, it has mushroomed during the past few years, and the athletic program has also leaped ahead.

The football team was undefeated last year and dropped only one game in 1971, for a two year slate of 17-1. The track team also won its first outdoor state championship this year. So, Coach Holmes is moving into an up and coming program. He will also serve as physical director of the Norwell elementary schools.

His departure leaves a gaping hole in the Winchester coaching ranks which will be hard to fill. Coach Manny Marshall is sorry to see Brooks leave, but is happy that his assistant has found himself a good head coaching berth. Announcement of his replacement on the Winchester staff will be made before the opening of summer camp sessions at Camp Wyanoke late in August.

Tatarian 3rd In NE; Sets New Local Mark

Charlie Tatarian, one of the finest middle distance runners to ever wear the Winchester colors, finished third in the New England schoolboy track meet held at Bellows Falls, very recently.

In covering the distance in 1:57 he broke his own school mark and gave future half milers a hard standard to beat.

By some strange quirk of fate, neither Bill Martin, the undefeated Massachusetts state titlist, nor Tatarian was placed in the seeded heat. Charlie stayed close to Martin all the way as the Catholic Memorial whiz sped the distance in 1:54.3. The seeded heat was won by a Rhode Island runner in 1:55.1, which gave him second place. The clocking of 1:57 gave Tatarian third spot, just one tenth of a second ahead of two others who deadlocked for fourth place.

This fine showing winds up a great career for Charlie, who has been the bellwether of indoor teams of coaches Tom Hughes and Tom Kline and the outdoor teams of Coach Marshall.

Recreation Center Opens Saturday With 'Poor Paul'

On Saturday the Winchester Recreation Center at the town hall will reopen to Winchester youth from 8:30 - 11 p.m.

Since last summer when the center was under the direction of Phil Sampson and Chris Osgood, who first started the program under the supervision of Donald L. Spinney, director of the recreation department, the center has opened and closed down three times, due to the unavailability of a facility in which to hold the program.

The center had short runs in the old high school and the town hall. The old high school came under renovation in January and now can no longer be used. So between uses by the Winton Club, the Young Democrats and En Ka the town hall is being used for the center.

The Center has been under the direction of Tony Galuffo, Tom Orsillo, and Scott Reading since the end of last summer and will continue under their leadership.

Pre Registration

Once again the Winchester Recreation Department will conduct summer tennis classes. This year they begin on Wednesday June 27.

Classes for all ages will be held at the Packer Courts and at the new senior high school courts. Registration will be held at the Packer Courts on Monday and Tuesday, June 25, 26, from 9 a.m. till noon.

Those persons wishing to pre register may send their name, address and level — beginner, advanced beginner, intermediate or adult — to the Recreation Office at Town Hall.

Garden Concerts Begin Tonight

The Commonwealth Chamber Players, a professional wind quintet, will open the Cloister Garden artist series tonight at 8:30 at the Church of the Epiphany.

The program will include the following selections: Divertimento in B flat from the Chorale St. Antoni, by Haydn; Trois Pieces Breves, by Ibert; Blaserquintett in G minor, by Danzi; Three Shanties for Wind Quintet, by Malcolm Arnold; Maple Leaf Rag, by Scott Joplin.

A Sousa march and another piece to be announced will complete the program.

Next Thursday evening, June 21, the second concert in the series will feature the Quadrivium Center Collegium, a group of young musicians who sing and play music of the 12th and 13th centuries using ancient instruments. The group is composed of students and staff members of the Quadrivium Center, Cambridge, a center for the study and performance of early music.

The players will use ancient instruments which are plucked, blown, bowed or percussed. These include the oud, baglama, trumshait, shawm, vielle, rebec, cornetto and gothic harp.

Half the program will be devoted to Cantigas of Santa Maria from the court of King Alfonso of Spain. The second half will include Balkan, Portuguese, and Provencal songs from the time of the troubadours.

All of the Cloister Garden concerts are open to the public. For more information, contact B. T. Marshall, 9 Brookside ave.

Letters To The Editor

Loves Hamburgers But ...

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

If Winchester is as concerned about proper beautification and revitalization of the town square as many Star articles and organizations suggest, she should not welcome the addition of an establishment such as McDonald's.

These quickie-hamburger shops generally maintain an undesirable appearance with their neon signs, late hours, perpetual large crowds and in-out traffic problems.

To allow one to settle in Winchester would certainly be a set back rather than a step forward to improve Winchester square.

In reply to the letter published last week titled "McDonald's — Yes," I feel it did contain a good point or two in its praise of McDonald's cleanliness and fine cuisine. However, I also feel that it is quite easy for one to be so readily in favor of its coming when one is an outside visitor rather than an inside resident.

Richard A. Duffy

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I feel sorry for the young girl who didn't know one thing about Winchester (Star, June 7) but stuck her neck out to say a McDonald's would keep this town "active" (active: clean up the mess which would cost $8).

I love hamburgers and McDonald's but the fact is, it is going to cost the town of Winchester money by cleaning it up—damage to property or surrounding land, and the traffic hazard it would bring.

But the main point is the theater. It has been here for several years and I'll state again, tax money should be spent to keep it open—recreation for adults and children as well as poor in Winchester.

I truly hope the theater will stay open and for those who are interested in keeping it open, please write me a letter and I will present them to the Town Hall and to McDonald's if indeed they intend to build on it.

Mrs. Harold S. Richardson
41 Ledgewood rd.

Larocco Respected

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On behalf of the graduates who participated in Sunday's commencement, I wish to protest the caption using Mr. Larocco's name in a negative sense.

True, we were happy to graduate after working towards that goal for 12 years; however, we respect Mr. Larocco for being the man he is, and especially after his fantastic speech Sunday, there is no need for anyone to degrade him.

The staff and administration at Winchester High School helped all of us through the three years that we were there as a class.

We've all had our differences at one time or another, but I don't believe that we, "the Billion Dollar Babies," are overly ecstatic at being "free at last" from the guidance of a principal as great as Mr. Vincent Larocco.

Margaret S. Quine

EDITOR'S NOTE: Miss Quine's reference is to a photo caption in last week's Star which included a line that was intended to go elsewhere. Letter From The Editor has a comment.

'Have We Educated You? I Don't Really Know'--Larocco

The following is the text of the speech Winchester high school principal Vincent E. Larocco gave June 3 at the ceremony for graduating seniors.

About three weeks ago I asked a senior girl what a graduation speech should be. Her reply was: "Brief, speak to the students, not to the parents, and don't tell us how good we are."

While the following statements may be thought by some to be incendiary or ungrateful, they are not. However, if I can communicate an emotion or make someone react, then maybe I will have accomplished something.

You are a part of what Alice Cooper refers to as the "billion dollar babies." You are a part of the social disease known as affluent America. You are a part of a vastly increasing portion of the country's population which says there is no right for society but only that which is right for me. You are a part of the negativism and distrust which has permeated all of society's basic premises.

Why is this? You have all the good things life has to offer: fine homes, an excellent school, an outstanding faculty to teach you and parents who care. You have had money, your proms, your sports, nice clothing and maybe even a car; but with all this, I ask you: "Have you been educated?"

We are told there is a generation gap; but I say to you there is no generation gap—only a value gap. Our selfish interpretation of the rights of individuals has taken away our sense of communal rights. This value gap has necessitated the need to discuss on TV the fact that in some areas of our country more dog food is consumed by humans than by the pets for whom it was intended.

This gap in values allows a Watergate to occur with many people condoning such actions by simply saying: "What else did you expect?" Where are our values when we destroy public property or see it destroyed and remain passive or when we aid and abet a society which is concerned with self and I rather than we and us?

Have we educated you? I don't really know; it is not a simple matter to know how you think or why you think that way. What I do know, however, is that many of the young people who were given the right to vote did not exercise their prerogative to do so. What I do know, also, is that when young adults, nationally, were asked their opinion of a major issue such as Watergate, many of them did not know what issues were really involved nor did they seem to care.

Have we educated you? Only time will measure our success as educators and parents. Will your concerns be for humanity or objects? Will you reach out to others and not look inward to yourself? For if we have educated you, you will have learned to share and care.

When will I know? I may know when I see the breadth and depth of your concerns for all people regardless of age and or socioeconomic background. And again, maybe I will never know, for, as trite as it may seem, the future is in your hands.

This simple fact can never be changed.

Letter From The Editor

An Obituary For McManus House; Someone Starting Stone Menagerie?

McManus House of 465 Main st. died last Wednesday following a long illness. It was 88 years of age.

Some feel its demise was an act of murder; others, an act of mercy, that the structure born in another century had been passed by time. In either case, it suffered acutely from neglect in its last decade.

Perhaps its death could be said to have been caused because few cared about it. "Just another rundown house" seemed to be the general attitude in Winchester toward it. In its declining years it was stripped of dignity, many of its vital organs removed, its appearance ignored by those who were charged with its care in old age and forgotten and left alone by those it sheltered during its productive years.

The surgical removal of certain organs was carried out secretly some time ago. Where those organs are today remains a mystery. Some contend they were transplanted to other structures in Winchester or sold at some profit. Their fate will probably never be made public due to possible libel suits.

Funeral services for the dismantled house were conducted by Mystic Building Wrecking Co. of Chelsea. Perspiring crane operator Richard Mello was the celebrant. Though the services were public, Mr. Mello was the only person in attendance, except for a few uninterested passersby who observed for a moment or two and walked on.

ERRATA

This is the area we reserve to report errors from the previous week. Last week, for a change, we had a few humorous ones. At least we thought they were. For instance, on page 5 under the photo of Shirley Luongo flashing the peace sign at the high school graduation, the caption read: "Shirley Luongo is one of those graduates happy to be leaving Principal Vincent Luongo."

Shirley may very well be happy to be leaving Mr. Larocco's care, from what we understand. But The Star hadn't intended to be so blunt. The line "Principal Vincent Larocco" was misplaced, intended to go elsewhere. We had meant to report only that Shirley was happy to be leaving.

We also reported in a headline: "Sachems Score In State Meet." Sports writer John Parrell got a kick out of that, for the track meet was anything but stale. The local team placed ninth, which is a good showing. The headline should have read: "Sachems Score in State Meet."

We printed a picture last week showing debris next to 9 Plymouth rd. left by a contractor and noted that the Board of Health had failed to act on the problem. Between the time the picture was taken and last week, however, the Board of Health had contacted the contractor, who two weeks ago cleaned up the mess.

In a graduation story in last week's Star we reported names of students who were awarded non-stipend awards and scholarships. Andy Twomey and Pamela Beck were awarded leadership plaques, not stipend awards.

Fire Chief I. Francis Amico has been in the hospital two weeks with pneumonia. He's progressing well and is expected to be released this week. The local department could have used his aid Tuesday.

About 8 o'clock at night a mutual aid alarm came in from Stoneham for Winchester to cover that town while Stoneham went to Wakefield to fight the general alarm there. Two minutes later a box was struck for a porch fire on Highland ave. Off go the center apparatus while Arlington equipment comes in to cover Winchester.

The two-way radio connecting fire headquarters and its engines frantically crackled for the next 10 minutes as the local equipment tried to find the scene of the fire. Highland ave. and Fells rd., with headquarters asking if another alarm should be struck and the engines responding they hadn't found the fire yet.

By the time the engines got there the home owner had put the fire out with his garden hose.

Also on the ailing list: Town Counsel Leonard J. Mullen. Lenny, who wears crutches, tore a muscle in his chest wall. He's doing fine, his wife Shirley reports, and should be back in action soon. He wasn't hospitalized. But the judge hasn't really been out of action. He met with the selectmen Monday to discuss their subpoenas before the Supreme Judicial Court.

Last week we reported the theft of a 500-pound concrete kangaroo from behind the new high school.

This week we report the theft of a 50-to-75-pound concrete swan from 8 Cleveland rd., home of Joseph Gagliormella, and the theft of a 1,000-pound stone donkey from 350 South Border rd., home of Joan Ruma.

Police said the swan was stolen last Tuesday night. It was used as a flower planter in front of the house and was valued at $75.

The donkey was also taken Tuesday night. It was taken from the lawn. Looks like someone is starting a menagerie of stone animals.

The legislature in constitutional convention last week approved sending to the voters on a referendum in 1974 an amendment reducing the size of the Massachusetts House from 240 to 160 members.

The reduction was proposed by Rep. Harrison Chadwick of Winchester 15 years ago. "Naturally I have a great degree of satisfaction in the vote," Chadwick told The Star. He gave credit for passage of the move to the League of Women Voters.

If the voters next year approve the amendment—"there doesn't seem to be much doubt the people will approve it overwhelmingly," Chadwick says—then redistricting will take place in 1979.

The five-year span between passage and actual redistricting is necessary, Chadwick says, because a census must take place and it will take time for the legislature to work out the new districts.

Though Winchester is now one representative district, this will change under a reduced House. A House redistricting bill just signed by the governor leaves Winchester whole. The town's population of 23,000 conforms closely to the population norm for representative districts.

But under a reduced House the town will have to pick up 12,000 persons from another town or towns. "The chances are good Winchester will remain together," Chadwick feels.

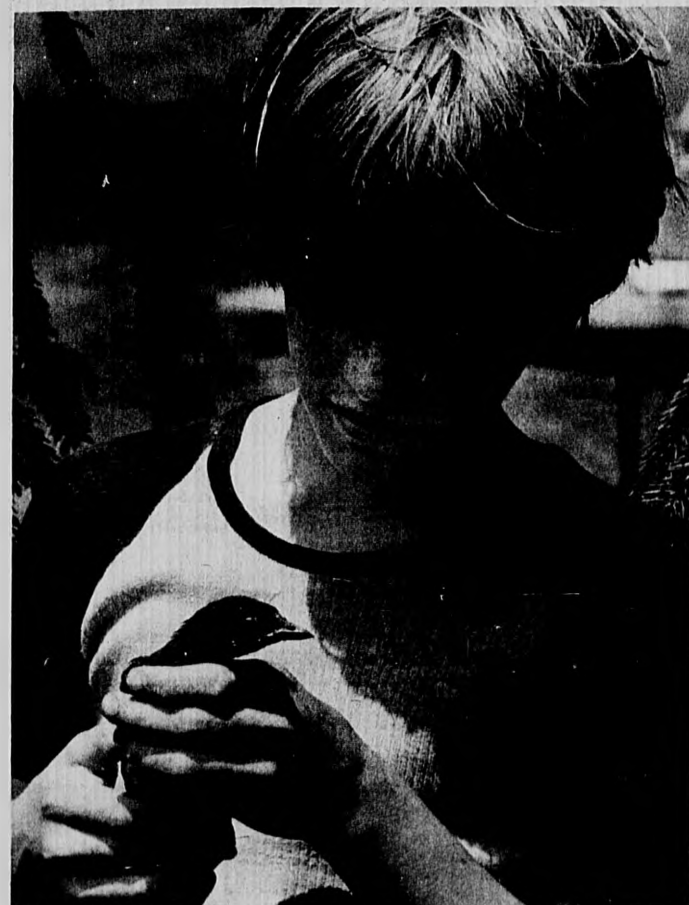

Among the most loyal Winchester rooters in the recent high school baseball squad drive toward second place finish in the state tourney was pastor emeritus Henry Newton Clay of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Mr. Clay is now retired and lives in Wakefield.

We only guess why the Winchester High School junior class was selling breath spray instead of candy to raise class funds. Strange things have been happening everywhere since the drinking age was lowered.

Figures Down

Cherry Sheet Not Unrosy But Town Considers Suit

Winchester is considering joining a Lowell suit against the state over town vocational education disbursements due to a reduction in that amount this year.

Town Comptroller James A. Costello said Winchester "cherry sheet" (state aid) figures were as expected—lower than last year—but the cherry sheet figures reflect a change in the vocational education formula on the basis of a bill that has not yet become law.

The change in vocational education aid (VEA) is down by more than $100,000 over last year, which represents 50 cents on the Winchester tax rate.

Lowell contends the state tax commission, which sets community reimbursement, must obey the law that is on the books now. The tax commission based its 1973 cherry sheet figures on a proposed law now before the legislature awaiting enactment.

Lowell loses $1.2 million in VEA, ending up with $12,000.

The tax commission maintains it set reimbursements on the basis of an estimate of funds available.

Comptroller Costello explained the present formula: if a town belongs to a vocational education district (Winchester does), the state pays each community a bonus of 15 percent above and beyond its normal state reimbursement for education.

For example, this year Winchester will be receiving state aid for various school projects such as school transportation, construction, lunch program and regional public library.

Fifteen percent of that is $144,000. Winchester's VEA assessment amounts this year to $155,000, which means the town is only paying $11,000 for vocational education.

There are actually some communities which receive more money back from the state for VEA than they pay in assessment. It is such "profits" the state tax commission was aiming to reduce when it changed the VEA formula this year.

The commission based its 1973 formula on 15 percent of a community's vocational education assessment, rather than total state education aid. Thus Winchester's cherry sheet figures this year show $31,000 for VEA, based on anticipation of passage of the new legislation. (All 1973 cherry sheet figures are for the new 18-month fiscal period.)

Winchester's vocational education assessment this year is $155,000.

Under the "old" (present) system, the state is paying more to operate schools than it actually costs to run vocational schools because some communities make a "profit." The state pays 50 percent of vocational education, the town and cities the remainder.

Comptroller Costello said the cherry sheet figures also show an error from the MDC and must be reduced $36,000. Based on the revised figures—and using the "new" VEA formula—the town will receive $1.9 million in state aid over the next 18 months.

This is down from the $1.5 million it received in 1972—a 12-month period. Based on these figures and town figures, the latest tax increase appears to be $2.87, he said.

Storm Puts Lights Out

Last Saturday at about 4:30 there was a power failure in the vicinity of Wildwood st. and other areas of town for a brief period.

Reports indicate a wire was down after a pole was hit by lightning in the wake of a storm that hit many parts of the state with severe damage, including toppling trees and causing other power failures.

According to a spokesman of Boston Edison 400-500 customers in Winchester were affected by the power failure.

★ Court

dividuals concerned may personally be held liable.

Hospital director Dr. John Noble in communications with the selectmen maintains the town is receiving more services and payments than it is being asked to support.

He cited figures that the town gets $48,000 in services, which includes 255 days of hospital patient care, outpatient care and annual salaries for four Winchester residents employed at the hospital.

The selectmen question how the town benefits by salaries of four persons employed at the hospital.

The board is particularly concerned about regionalization of certain treatment facilities at the hospital. They maintain the hospital is treating patients from outside the county while the communities in Middlesex County continue to foot the entire hospital bill.

Selectman Sullivan has attacked the rate setting policies of the state. He feels the per diem rate given back to the communities for reimbursement of treatment of residents is too low. He also accuses the hospital administration of failure to appear before the state's rate setting commission to change the per diem rate.

Noble, in a letter to County Comr. S. Lester

Ralph, said repeated requests by the hospital to raise the per diem rate were delayed by the rate setting commission.

In 1971, the hospital asked for an increase from $49 to $65 and two years later was granted an increase to $82.50. "It is apparent that the realistic cost for the care of chronically ill patients at the hospital and in other comparable rehabilitation-chronic disease hospitals is $85 a day," he wrote.

He also said 63 Winchester residents received care in the tuberculosis outpatient department, each seen four times a year, at $26 a visit, representing a minimum of $1,638 in that area alone.

Noble did not include services rendered by the alcohol treatment unit because the unit opened last December. But during the first three months of 1973, he said, five residents were treated in the unit. "Nor have I included service rendered by the drug rehabilitation program to Winchester residents."

$1,200 Stolen From VFW Safe

Thieves stole 1,200 in cash from the Veterans of Foreign Wars post on River st. Monday morning after entering the building through a window and punching out the lock on a safe.

According to a police report, Bernard Perry, VFW steward, said the building was entered between midnight and 8 a.m. Two cases of liquor were reported stolen also.

Intruders vandalized the portable classroom at Mytic School over the weekend, according to another report, and stole a small amount of cash. Decks and files were upset, according to the report.

In another weekend incident, Officer John Oliver reported a 19-year-old Winchester youth approached him Sunday at 12:30 a.m. to report he was assaulted. The youth was bleeding badly from the nose, the officer said, and had other cuts. He was taken to Winchester Hospital and treated. He refused to give police any details.

A new house under construction at 53 Squire rd. was entered over the weekend and vandalized, the contractor reported. There were several windows broken at the Noonan School and one at the Ambrose.

Police Sunday at 2:55 a.m. on Copple st. arrested a Lake Forest, Ill., man on a charge of drunkenness.

Police investigated a report that a child was struck by a car Wednesday afternoon on Highland st. Shannon Henschel of 34 Spruce st. was held overnight at Winchester Hospital for observation. She had a laceration over an eye and scrapes.

The police believe she ran out from between two parked cars.

Also on Wednesday, the police received a report of a group of boys jumping from freight cars in the Winchester Highland area. A later report indicated freight cars were broken into at the lower end of Swanton st. Youths were seen running from the area.

dination problems. The women served as co-chairman of the pilot program.

In addition to identifying the problems, two further goals of the plan were to inform parents of any needs identified and suggest remedial procedures (referral to a medical specialist) and to provide kindergarten teachers with a development chart for each child registering so teachers could plan regular school year programs with advance knowledge of each child's capabilities and needs.

The women reported testing was done in all schools except Washington and Muraco. Children were tested in teams of six while parents were interviewed by a school nurse. Children were tested and observed regarding social behavior. Testing was done on released Tuesday afternoons.

All told, 235 children were screened by 35 trained specialists and school personnel. Thirty parent volunteers participated. Ninety-three children were re-screened and 21 children were referred to medical specialists. The women reported medical information thus far collaborated their data. Some children were found to have multiple defects. Some were recommended for summer programs.

Mrs. Grenzebeck told the committee the program needs to be assessed at mid-year and we need to reevaluate present tests. She recommended a "uniform procedure to be established and presented to elementary principals."

She recommended greater use of parental volunteers such as for publicity and rescreening, that only one school be screened on a given Tuesday, and another vision clinic be held to train parents and volunteers.

Niblock pointed to "love" as being a prime factor in the success of the program and the screening cost little or nothing since existing staff and volunteers administered the program.

Miss Caffrey said a highlight of the screening procedure was giving children colored stars as they passed through each test. When a child was through he or she was a "five-star general," she said. Niblock pointed out the program was voluntary on part of parents and that most of the tests performed are mandated as compulsory by the state. "We give free advice - it's up to the parents to follow through," Niblock said, adding he believes, "We are obligated to supply at least minimal evaluation to make parents aware of apparent needs."

Lunch Program

Supt. of Schools William MacDonald reported on results of a school lunch program survey in which parents were offered their choice of four options:

1-hour lunch (present program), 303; reschedule classes allowing a 30 minute lunch period, 432; reschedule classes allowing a 40-minute lunch, 214; and a 1-hour lunch in the spring with 30 minute lunches from Jan. through March, 498.

MacDonald reported that 1,447 forms were returned out of an enrollment of 2078. Eighty-nine of those who responded gave comments. MacDonald asked the school committee for a recommendation or reaction before June 26, the next scheduled school committee meeting.

Responding to the question of whether school cafeteria supervisors had provided input to the overall question, Parkhurst School principal Andrew Allan said he had talked with his cafeteria supervisor but could not speak for other principals.

MacDonald, who appeared perplexed and said he hoped to come up with a solution soon, said all of the options could be implemented. The only problem with lunch hours that are longer than 30 minutes is during the half-hour when "kids are playing."

School Committee members took no action on the matter to be discussed further at the next meeting.

Honors to Retirees

The committee recognized four Winchester educators who are retiring: Ray Dickman, Mystic School principal; Mrs. Galena D. Montgomery, physical education specialist; Mrs. Edna P. Smith, reading specialist; and Mrs. Gladys L. Wood, sixth grade teacher at the Wyman School.

Each of the retirees was presented an award for long-term dedicated service to local pupils.

Job Descriptions

In view of the death of the late Thomas A. Morse, coordinator of instructional aids and special programs, and the leave of absence of Mrs. Elizabeth B. Sheeran, coordinator of instructional materials centers, Supt. MacDonald recommended a change in job descriptions for the two positions.

The new positions, to be filled, are for a director of library services and a director of adult education. The director of library services will have responsibility for all work formerly handled by Morse and Mrs. Sheeran, except the adult education program and summer school program, at a stipend of between $16,000 and $17,000. He recommended the director of adult education be paid $1500. MacDonald said he preferred to have a teacher in the Winchester school system be chosen but he hoped administrative personnel would also apply for the job.

Mrs. Mary Pronski brought up old topics for renewed interest by the School Committee. Though the high school has a barrier to prevent through traffic from Spruce st. to Shore dr., the situation is still dangerous, she said pointing to a recent accident involving a high school teacher and a four-year-old.

On the subject of personal typing at junior highs Mrs. Pronski renounced the procedure of having the selective elective at one junior high for half the year, the other the remaining half of the year, and denying about 40 students the opportunity to take typing at all. Mrs. Pronski said she would like to see each school have its own typewriters and teachers.

Unfinished Business
Concerning an easement by the telephone company to lay cable across property of the Lynch Junior High School, Supt. MacDonald said the School Committee has the right to make the decision, the work will be underground (though he plans to re-affirm this) and he will check to see about reimbursement to the town.

Also, Mrs. Dieterich said she would appoint a committee composed of an elementary principal, a secondary principal and director of music to study holiday guidelines. Bid awards have been received on carpeting for McCall Junior High and for audio-visual and other equipment for McCall and other schools. The carpeting bids were set aside for further check by MacDonald. The others were granted on recommendation of Walter Gleason, assistant superintendent for curriculum and instruction.

Rudd Wins Award

An aquatic election designed to increase attendance at the New England Aquarium was created by Winchester resident Eric Rudd, as reported in The Winchester Star last year.

Of the four candidates—Hoover Harborsal, Thalassa Turtle, Ichabod Cabot-Cod and Homer Lobster—Hoover Harborsal proved most popular and won the Presidency of the USA (Underwater States of America).

The New England Aquarium also won attendance during last summer was 60,000. And now, the effort made to increase the attendance has also won.

At the 1973 Hatch Awards ceremony, held recently in Cambridge, Rudd shared first place honors with artist Dana Jones for the best public service campaign of 1972.

Judges for the 1973 Hatch competition were principals of New York advertising agencies, and entries came from all over New England. Posters, ballots and advertisements for the election were distributed throughout New England and New York.

Noting the events taking place in Washington, Rudd wonders if Hoover Harborsal should not have run on a national ticket.

Winchester Will Participate In Youth Concerts

This fall, as the youth concerts at Symphony Hall begin their 15th season, for the first time Winchester will become an active participant with subscription limited to students at Lynch and McCall Junior High Schools.

The concerts, performed by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Harry Ellis Dickson, are dedicated to introducing young audiences to classical and contemporary music performed in the tradition-filled atmosphere of Symphony Hall.

Last season approximately 13,000 young people from more than 100 area communities enjoyed these symphonic programs especially prepared for them.

Three series of three concerts are presented at 11 a.m. on Saturday mornings and at 10:15 a.m. on Friday morning.

Winchester will subscribe to the Saturday morning Series B with the following dates: Nov. 10, Jan. 19, and Apr. 6. There is a charge for the series and a nominal charge for transportation.

Shortly after schools open in the fall, applications for tickets, along with a letter explaining procedures, will be distributed to all junior high school students. For further information, contact Katherine L. Zarker, town chairman for youth concerts, 10 Stratford rd.

Eighty-five persons are signed up to race in Winchester's three-course marathon on Saturday beginning at the square in the center at 11 a.m. and finishing at 2 p.m. Main street will be closed to traffic during the race. Runners will all start at the police box and go down Main street to Highland ave. From there the groups will follow different routes:

18-YEARS AND OLDER
 Start Main street police box, to Highland ave., to Fells rd., to Hillcrest pkwy., to Reservoir st., to Highland ave., to Forest st., to Kirk st., to Wendell st., to Loring ave., to Swanton st., to Washington st. and return to Main street police box.

Sports

Lawn Tennis Expansion?

Plans to expand the Lawn Tennis center on the Winchester-Woburn line were announced recently at a public hearing before the Woburn city council.

A 4½-acre plot off Garfield ave. will be developed exclusively for indoor and outdoor tennis courts. There was no opposition at the hearing.

Four regulation size indoor courts, a reception area, shower facilities and two outdoor courts for daytime use would be built. The Woburn Planning Board suggested the center develop 3.2 acres and devote the remaining land as a buffer zone. The petitioner agreed.

The expansion would be entirely in Woburn.

13 TO 17 YEARS
 Start Main street police box, to Highland ave., to Fells rd., to Hillcrest pkwy., to Reservoir st., to Highland ave., to Forest st., to Washington st. and return to police box.

9 TO 12 YEARS
 Start Main street police box, to Highland ave., to Mt. Vernon st., to Washington st. and return to police box.

The first three persons crossing the finish line in each age category will be awarded trophies.

Sponsored jointly by the Recreation Department and the Winchester Business Association, the mini-marathon will give the many determined joggers in town a chance to compete and earn recognition.

Among those competing will be Rev. Walter B. Davis and his wife, Kitty, of the First Congregational Church. The church has produced a number of joggers during its recent "Jog for Joy" to raise money for its charities.

Former Selectman Sherman W. "Whip" Saltmarsh Jr. has been "scratched," according to Recreation Director Donald Spinney, because Saltmarsh has to reside at the dedication of the West Side fire station due to the hospitalization of Fire Chief I. Francis Amico.

Saltmarsh is, Spinney said, the only scratch so far. Spinney said the number of runners would have been more than 100 but he had to turn down applications as of Monday because of the time required in processing their entries.

The following is the Recreation's list of runners signed up to participate:

Girls Take Tennis Title; Sole Winchester Undefeated Record

The girls' tennis team coached by Mrs. Jan Dolan brought Winchester its only undefeated record and only title of the 1972-73 season recently.

They accomplished this by besting the Lexington team in the final match of the year. Both teams entered this showdown event with identical 9-0 records, and it was nip and tuck all the way before the local girls emerged with a 3-2 win to preserve their undefeated record and take the championship.

This was accomplished by coming from behind to take both doubles events after dropping two of the three singles matches. Every point was hard fought, but by playing steady tennis the Winchester girls came out on top.

Co-captain Tricia Johns was winner of the second singles match to interrupt a possible

Lexington sweep which would have given the visitors the title. Dawn Hudson and Nancy Raleigh had played hard, but had been edged in their singles events.

Kathy Levinson and Tonia Buros combined to take the first doubles and even the match. This put the entire season's record squarely on the shoulders of co-captain Janet Lisberger and Chris O'Connor. They proved equal to the task, to finish the season undefeated, and take the Middlesex League championship.

The members of the squad who are seniors were repeating their undefeated league championship of 1971. During their three years on the team they compiled an astounding slate of 28-2. This is certainly a record which future teams must work hard to equal.

Beacons Score 3-0 To Beat Wellesley

The Winchester Beacons of the Boston Area Youth Soccer (BAYS) league competition for boys 13-15 years of age posted an impressive 3-0 win over rival Wellesley in recent action.

Inspired by the championship performance of the Winchester Celtics in the younger division, the Beacons pressed their opponents hard from the very first minutes.

A spectacular goal headed in by halfback Todd Cronan opened the Winchester scoring during the middle of the first half. During the second half the solid and systematic play of the Beacons totally exhausted the hard-pressed Wellesley defense.

Errol Burke scored the second goal after a sensational run from mid-field. The third goal was scored by Jackie Driscoll, who greatly contributed to the success of the Beacon's offensive line.

Brian Tarbox was excellent in goal with some superb saves to his credit. The unheralded heroes of the game were the players on defense — Bill Schramm, Chris Morgan, Tom Waite, Rob Whitman and George Casey. As usual Dennis Collins and Mark Nelson excelled as forwards, shooting, dribbling and passing effectively.

The reserve players of the Beacons contributed effectively to this important win that brings the Beacons record to five wins and four losses. The Beacons travel to Franklin this coming Saturday for their last game of the season.

Arpad von Lazar and Brian Flanagan are the coaches of the Beacons with Ed Tarbox helping out faithfully week after week.

Celtics Capture Championship By Beating Wellesley, 2 To 1

The Winchester Celtics soccer team Saturday beat Wellesley 2-1 to capture the Boston area 12-year-old division championship, settling an old score — Wellesley took the title from Winchester last year.

This marks the third time in four years the Celtics have the Well Cup award, reflecting the high quality soccer played here and the excellent results of the fall youth soccer program in Winchester.

In the sultry heat of Saturday, the Celtics entered the game with a one-point lead in the standings. Only a tie in the match was needed to dethrone Wellesley.

As the game started the advantage dissolved in less than 30 seconds. Wellesley put the ball into the Winchester net immediately after the opening kickoff. Winchester responded in kind when John Barcus slammed one past the Wellesley goalkeeper less than a minute later.

Such scoring by the two best teams in the league was surprising. After this outburst, the game settled down into an expected defensive struggle.

Late in the first half, inside forward Skiff Sizemore picked up a ball at mid-field, fought off the Wellesley center half, took it down field to the penalty area, made a deft pass to Dave McLaughlin, who then fired goal number two into the net.

Wellesley never recovered from that goal and the Winchester defense allowed only one real chance to score in the second half. But goalie Pat Fortin turned it into a brilliant save instead.

After the game, refreshments were served to both teams and the cup was presented to Winchester by league Official John Well, donor of the trophy.

Also, Andy Mahoney, Charles Mahoney, Dave McLaughlin, Barry and Brian McQuillan, Bill Mitchell, Jim Olivier, Peter Ruggles, Skiff Sizemore, Andrew Schiller, Mark Sullivan and John Waite.

The season will close next week with the Celts traveling to Wayland, after which team members and coaches will get a needed rest after a hectic 10-week spring season.

Cap League Season Ends With Ties In Both Divisions

The Winchester Cap League season, completed last Saturday and Sunday when the postponed Memorial Day weekend games were made-up saw the Crown and Visor Divisions end in a tie for first place.

In pivotal games in the Crown Division, the Hornets defeated the Braves 13-6 on Saturday, while the Red Sox beat the Blue Jays 7-2 on Sunday to end the season with identical 6-1 records and co-division championships.

In other West Side Field games, the Yankees, who came on strongly at the end of the season, won two games: 6-0 over the White Sox and 16-11 against the Bob Cats. The Braves lost to the Rangers, 8-4.

At Ginn Field, the offensively powerful Apollons gained a first place tie with the Eagles by winning 12-2 over the Astros and 15-11 against a rapidly improving Orioles club. The Eagles insured themselves of at least a tie for division laurels by defeating the Giants 18-12 in their only league game of the weekend.

In the remaining final games of the season, the Orioles outlasted the Pirates 13-9, the Cardinals beat the Pirates 12-8, and the Dodgers defeated the Giants 6-3 in a very well played ball game.

A playoff game between the division champions is scheduled for next Saturday, June 16, at Ginn Field, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Duplicate Bridge

By Bridgette

The Knox Challenge Bowl and the Individual Championship were soundly won by Bill Duryea, long-time Duplicate Bridge Club member who's played with many partners—good training for this event where each hand brings you a different partner.

Carl Galante Jr. turned in a fine game for second place overall.

Those above average in Section B of the Individual Championship were:

Phil Portanova, 49½; Cathy Alexander, 48; Myer Cherkas, 47; Ann Cherkas, 44½; Charles Choate, 43½; Mike Portanova, 43; Thomas Walsh, 42½; Robert Haskell, 40.

The gentlemen took the honors in the third section run as a regular Mitchell movement—Phil Cade and Ed Sullivan North-South, Tom Barry and Don Howard East-West.

North-South

Phillip Cade and Edward Sullivan, 74½; Nancy Atkinson and Miggs Root, 72; Charles Dieterich and William Modd, 72; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lynch, 63½.

East-West

Tom Barry and Don Howard, 73; Barbara Pitnof and Maurice Pontil, 69½; Constance Brown and Irving Brown, 68; Carl Fisher and David Allen, 64; Stephen Butcher and Gerard Walworth, 63½.

Board 20 from Section A of the Individual finds no similar pattern in my memory bank. How about yours?

Please look at all four hands and figure possible bidding sequences; you're not playing with your regular partner, remember.

As you can see, there is a slam in each direction—6S by North-South and 7H by East-West.

It is fun in duplicate to run down the score slip with such a hand, played 11 times, incidentally.

Of the seven North-Souths who captured the contract in spades, two were doubled at 5S, making six, one bid and made 6S, two bid and made 6S doubled, and two bid 7S doubled, going down but faring better than letting East-West make 7H.

What of the four East-West in hearts? Three bid 6H making seven, and one bid 7H doubled, making seven for a neat 2470 points.

Mrs. Padmaker Lele Elected President Winchester Trails

Mrs. Padmaker Lele was elected president of Winchester Trails for the coming year at the annual meeting of the group held recently at the home of Mrs. Albert Vanderbill, 332 Highland ave. Mrs. Daniel Hritzay, outgoing president, officiated at the meeting.

Mrs. James Kent reported on the activities of members.

Approximately 1,000 Winchester elementary school children have taken guided walking tours through Winchester public lands. The Trails experience is now an integral part of the elementary science curriculum at the second and fourth grade levels.

Students study pond life from books and from science kits; they hear lectures from Trails volunteers and view slides of Long Pond or Smith Pond. They then visit the relevant areas.

Many children are making their second or third group visit. Guides are pleased at how much the children remember from earlier field trips.

In addition to Mrs. Lele, others elected to the board include: vice-president, Mrs. Stephen Moore; secretary, Mrs. Ernest Leavitt; treasurer, Mrs. Richard Freeman; membership, Mrs. Paul Fopiano; scheduling, Mrs. Hugh Frey; in-school training, Mrs. Robert Center; guide training, Mrs. Albert Vanderbill; publicity, Mrs. Peter Arnott; research and publications, Mrs. Allen Hill and backyard studies, Mrs. Stephen Moore.

First In Years

Girls Compete In Meet Between McCall, Lynch

By John F. Parrell

For the first time in several years there was a track meet between groups representing Lynch and McCall Junior High Schools. This was an informal event, since track is not a regular part of the junior high school athletic program.

The very non-existence of any recognized track program has hurt the Sachem high school track and cross country teams severely in recent seasons. This is quite in contrast with many school systems which have outdoor track as a part of their sports programs.

Quincy held its citywide junior high meet with over 200 competitors divided into seventh, eighth and ninth grade teams. Each school team had four dual meets before the grand finale at the Veterans' Memorial Stadium. This gives the boys entering high school an interest and experience which Winchester runners must develop in their three years in high school.

The recent Manchester Field meet featured an appearance by two girl runners from McCall. Donna Vahey took second place in the 100-yard event behind Ted Burns of Lynch, while Ann Marie Caruso was only a step back in third place. By the way, Melrose has a full fledged girls' track program going in the high school with much interest, coaches and an interscholastic schedule.

The summary of the meet between the Lynch and McCall teams:

50-yd. dash (7th): Jim Fallon (L), John Mulvaney (M), David Bracken (M). Time: 6.8 sec.

IF YOU DIDN'T BECOME ITALIAN LAST WINTER NOW ABOUT THIS SUMMER?

Any one of our 46 Caribbean cruises can make a brand new person out of you (Italian, of course).

Never mind if you couldn't make it to Europe last winter. Gliding about the Caribbean with us this summer has the same effect. After a week you feel like a new person. Because you are a new person. A new Italian.

Right away you'll notice the Caribbean seems very Italian, i.e. relaxed. Happy. Bellissimo. Which is only fitting. The Caribbean has been Italian since 1492 when one of our boys put it on the map.

Loll. Splash. Eat. Tan. Relax in posh, air-conditioned staterooms. Anchor in romantic harbors. Shop for duty-free bargains. Gaze at the starriest skies in the world. In between, discover the sweet joy of doing nothing.

Our 70 sea-going chefs and pastry cooks will help you become Italian. Order a different pasta every night (we can fix it 450 ways). Or choose from an array of international dishes. See your travel agent or cut out and mail this coupon.

I deserve a vacation. Even more, I deserve to be Italian. Please tell me more about the Caribbean cruises I've checked below.

Real Estate Today

BUILD NOW OR WAIT?

"Should I build a new home now or wait for interest rates to drop and save money?" It's an oft asked question. My advice in this situation is: if the only reason for delay is to save money on interest rates, you're making a mistake by not building now.

Not being an Oracle, I don't pretend to know if interest rates will ever come down. But even if they do, there are other considerations. Mortgage interest is only one small slice of the financial pie. No one is seriously predicting that building material, labor or land costs will decline. If such a project is delayed, the increase in building costs could easily exceed any savings in interest expense. Not only that, a higher land and building cost would mean a bigger loan and larger cash down payment.

If you have any questions on this subject or on any other aspect of Real Estate, please feel free to call or drop in at JAMES T. TREFREY, INC. REALTORS, 27 Waterfield Road, Winchester - Tel. 729-6100.

Little League

Mets, Reds Still Tie For Top

The Mets and Reds remain tied for the top spot in the American Major League as both teams won their week's series against tough opponents in Winchester Little League.

The Mets swept a two-game set from the challenging Pirates, winning Tuesday night, 3 to 1, and again on Thursday night, 6 to 2.

Tuesday night saw the Mets win a tight pitching duel between Don Pigott of the Mets and the Bucs' Chad Doe and Kurt Ellis who shared pitching chores.

The first inning was scoreless. In the second, the Mets scored three runs against Doe. After one out Peter Johanson drew a walk, Mario Alfano singled, John Parker walked, Dana Kawa walked to force in a run and Bill Strazzullo hit a clutch single to drive in two runs.

Don Pigott made these three runs stand up until the top of the fifth when doubles by Sandford and Ellis gave the Pirates their only run of the game. Sandford had two hits. Ellis pitched well for the losers.

On Thursday night the Mets scored four runs in the second inning and two runs in the fifth to salt away a 6-to-2 victory. Sam Bellino got things started in the second with a triple. Andy Wilsack reached on a fielder's choice and promptly stole second.

Peter Johanson walked to load the bases and Bellino and Wilsack both scored on a screeching single to center by Mario Alfano. Alfano moved to second on a ground out to first. Dana Kawa promptly scored Johanson and Alfano with a pressure single to center.

In the fifth the Mets scored a couple more on a base on balls, a double by Sam Bellino and a single by Len Bellino. The Pirates were held scoreless until the final inning by some fine clutch pitching by Sam Bellino with runners in scoring position.

The Pirates scored their two runs of the game when Doe walked and scored on a double to right by Sandford. Sandford eventually scored on a Mets throwing error. DellaGrotte, Sandford, Doe and Ellis got the Pirate hits while Sam Bellino led the Mets with a double and triple in three at bats.

Over in the National Major League the Yankees go on and on and on. Last week Bill Sizemore and his Yankees won two more games, beating the Red Sox easily and running their record to 13-0. This finely honed juggernaut executes as well as any Little League team seen in action.

For Little League followers who would like to see this club in action before the season ends, the following is the Yankee schedule for the balance of the year:

Thursday, June 14, vs. Dodgers; Tuesday,

June 19, Thursday June 21, vs. Braves; Monday June 25, and Wednesday June 27, vs. Twins. Games will be played at West Side Field (Mahoney's) at 6 p.m.

After last week's action in the Senior League both the White Sox and the Angels remain on top in their divisions. The Indians and Senators continue in hot pursuit of the White Sox while John Heffernan and his Cubs have made their move to catch the streaking Angels in the National division. With five games remaining it looks like excitement is yet to come in both divisions.

In the National Minor League with one scheduled game remaining there are three clubs going at it for the divisional title. The Bears are in first place and need only a win in their last game to assure themselves of at least a tie for the title.

The Ponies in second place have three make-up games plus their scheduled game remaining. If they win the games they could tie the Bears. The Bulldogs in third place could also tie for the top if the Bears and Ponies were to falter. What it all amounts to is a possible three-way tie for first place when the dust clears this week.

In the American Minor League the Panthers and Whippets will go at it in a two-game series for the divisional championship this week. A split for the Panthers would give them the title, while the Whippets have to sweep to win the championship. The men in Hollywood could not have written a better script for Winchester Little League this year.

Enjoying a lawn sprinkler during this week's hot weather are Karen Melaragni and Gail, Judy, Cathy and Pam Clinton on Loring avenue. (Phot by Eric Weiss)

Boys Tennis 7-2 In League Play

By John F. Parrell

The Winchester High School boys' tennis team, ably coached by George Hillier, enjoyed a good year in Middlesex League play.

They ended up with a 7-2 record, losing only to Belmont in a very tight match and to Lexington, absorbing a trouncing at the hands of the Minutemen. The Schems swept by the other league members quite handily, although both the Reading and Woburn clashes were 3-2 victories.

There has been a great upsurge in tennis in many of the other towns. New courts have been built, many with lighting facilities, encouraging more students to be come involved in the game. This has made the league stronger and the matches more even and interesting.

Their record enabled the Schems to compete in Division A of the state tournament. But they found Wayland too gifted and were eliminated. However, it has been a good year and the record was highly satisfactory. It might have been better but for a few points which were dropped in crucial games during the season.

Winchester Merchant

McCormack's Apothecary
Is A Town Institution

McCormack's Apothecary at 568 Main st. is practically a Winchester institution. Winchester Center wouldn't be the same without a McCormack operating a drugstore.

Fred McCormack, the present proprietor, began working for his brother Henry at McCormack's in 1937. He continued working for him all the time he attended Franklin Union School of Pharmacy in Boston.

After graduation from Franklin Union, he went into the U.S. Navy, where he served as chief pharmacist mate until 1945. Following his military service he worked two years in Montreal at a laboratory as a medical service representative.

He left that job in 1947 to purchase McCormack's Apothecary from his brother. In those days the store was strictly a pharmacy with a soda fountain.

One McCormack tradition, begun in 1939, was running the Thanksgiving eve victory dances for the Winchester High School football squad. Football great Joe Bellino's first trophy was the McCormack Apothecary Trophy.

The town's Recreation Department took over the dance in 1969, which is now run by the WHS senior class.

The store burned in 1951. Mr. McCormack resumed business the next day at a vacant house at 38 Church st., now part of the Medical Building. The Main street building was remodeled and six months later Fred McCormack moved back in.

He bought the building in 1962 and there followed another remodeling. The soda fountain was eliminated and the business expanded to take over the entire first floor.

The store has continued to grow through the years, still concentrating on prescriptions and cosmetics and other items in the health field. The pharmacy has built its reputation on service.

"Our motto is: the store that service built," Mr. McCormack says. "We have continued to operate that way. All we want is

Last fall Mr. McCormack's present and past employees honored him with a surprise party at the 39 in Lynnfield. There were 100 persons at the party.

His present employees are George Butler, who has been there since before Mr. McCormack took over; Elizabeth Garden, who has been with him a number of years; and Richard Marino, a pharmacist who has been at McCormack's two years.

Fred is one of 10 children, four of whom have been in the pharmacy business. Besides himself, they are Henry, who is now retired; George, who works in Billerica; and Richard, who is in Yarmouth. Both George and Richard have their own drugstores.

Fred is a past president of the Rotary Club, is a charter member of the Century Club of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy, a member of the Winchester Knights of Columbus, Lodge of Elks, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church, is a director of the Winchester Cooperative Bank and a member of several national pharmaceutical organizations.

Noonan Teachers,
Staff are Feted

The teachers and staff of Noonan School were guests at a spring luncheon in their honor recently at the home of Mrs. Melvin Farman, 5 Chesterford terr. Assisting Mrs. Farman as hostess was Mrs. Walter Kisil.

Attending the luncheon were Paula Caffrey, principal; Mrs. Marjorie Bergholtz, secretary; Mrs. Eleanor Mullaney, clerical aide; Mrs. Elizabeth Doucette, outgoing president; and Mrs. Jean Kelly, incoming president of the Noonan Parents' Association.

Members of the faculty attending were Mrs. Mary Alice Niles, Mrs. Ellen Cummings, Mrs. Maryalyn Norris, Mrs. Lori Bratzler, Meredith Clark, Mrs. Edith Riccio, Mr. Stephen Gorrie, Carol Bashore, Mrs. Mary Brooks, and Miss Marjorie Edwards.

Gifts were presented in behalf of the Parents' Association to Mrs. Norris and Mrs. Cummings in appreciation for their service to Noonan School children.

Library Seeks Help

"Environment Reporter," an 11 volume service dedicated to a "weekly review of pollution control and related environmental management problems," has been sent to the Winchester Public Library on approval.

"ER" covers legislation on both the national and state levels for air, water, and land use. It includes monographs produced by the staff of the Bureau of National Affairs which produces the entire service, as well as current updates on regulations and decisions.

At a cost of $340 per year (and considerable staff filing time and shelf space) the library staff is uncertain that this service would be a suitable addition to their collection. In the event this is not kept, other larger libraries in the Boston area do already subscribe to it. The library staff concedes the WPL does not possess everything that might

Mrs. Edward Rodriguez was elected president of the Neighborhood Cooperative Nursery School, Inc., for 1973-74. At the April meeting she accepted the gavel from outgoing president Mrs. William Carter.

Other elected officers include: second vice-president, Mrs. Joseph Butare; secretary, Mrs. Peter Ford, and treasurer, Mrs. Barbara Haddad.

The nursery school, located in the First Congregational Church, is a cooperative functioning by parental involvement.

The board of directors and all committees provide maintenance, equipment while enrichment comes through parents of children who are pupils.

Under the teacher-directorship of Mrs. Betty Jellis, a parent-help schedule is set up on a rotating basis.

The fall sessions will include a Tuesday-Wednesday morning group for three-year-olds; Thursday-Friday morning group for four-year-olds; Tuesday-Wednesday-Thursday afternoon group for four-year-olds.

Selectmen Fill Library Slot

The Winchester selectmen this week made several appointments, unexpectedly voiced support for the Town Government Study Committee and set a date for meeting with the Planning Board to discuss rezoning the center.

The Board of Library Trustees met with the Board of Selectmen and unanimously recommended Alice D. Butare be appointed a member of their elected body to fill a vacancy created when Andrew Nichols resigned.

Mrs. Butare, of 75 Bacon st., ran unsuccessfully for library trustee at the March town election. Though Nichols's term would have run until 1975, Butare sits only until the next town election.

The other following appointments were made:

—Mark A. Lombardi, former selectman candidate, to the Design and Architectural Review Committee;

—James S. Beck of 1 Ivy cir. to the Indoor Swimming Pool Committee;

—Irving Weitzman of Lakeview rd. to the capital planning committee.

Support for the Town Government Study Committee (TGSC) came during an informal discussion among the selectmen. Initially opposed to TGSC's intent for establishment of a charter commission to restructure town government, the board at its weekly meeting Monday indicated it recognizes TGSC will go ahead with or without selectmen support and said it will do all it can to help TGSC with its scheduled hearings and discussions.

This turn-around in selectman sentiment doesn't indicate wholesale approval of TGSC ideas. It means the selectmen will cooperate with TGSC in bringing the committee's ideas before the public.

Selectmen Monday said citizen interest in the work of TGSC is vital.

The selectmen met with the newly created cable television committee and the Council on Aging to give encouragement to both groups in their efforts to get off the ground. Deadlines for reports and some goals were discussed.

The selectmen set June 19 as the date they will meet with the Planning Board to discuss Planning's proposed townwide zoning revisions and hoped-for center rezoning.

Selectman John J. Sullivan reiterated previous demands that Planning include in its expected October special town meeting an article to rezone Winchester Center.

BOOK REVIEW

By Ann M. Smith
Winchester Public Library

YOU are the purchasing agent for a multi-dollar-a-year business, commonly known as "the family." Your budget includes allocations for major appliances, automobiles, and innumerable small items from aerosol sprays to zippers. One quarter of your entire budget is earmarked for nutrition. Naturally, with such awesome responsibilities you want to make intelligent selections. Appliances should be well-designed and trouble-free; safety hazards should be avoided; and the best possible prices should be found.

Consumer Reports and Consumer Bulletin (which with the June issue changed its name to Consumer Research Magazine) are two monthly publications that have long advised consumers in these areas. Their articles discuss the factors that should be considered before purchasing both major and minor items and in most cases they report the results of independent tests performed on the products in question.

The December issue of each publication is an annual buying guide that summarizes recent reports, gives general consumer advice and reports on used car and appliance frequency of repair records.

The most recent issue of each magazine contains an index covering the previous 12 months (somewhat abridged in the case of Consumer Research Magazine). These periodicals are of such importance that the Winchester Public Library has two subscriptions so that reference copies are always available.

The CAF Tribune, a Massachusetts contribution from the Better Business Bureau, reports on local legal action, swindles, promotions, and dubious practices.

A new, for the Winchester Public Library, addition to this field is the FDA Consumer, an attractive government publication. The current issue has a colorful illustrated article on acupuncture, as well as reports on Food and Drug Administration activities.

Changing Times, Today's Health, Better Homes and Gardens, Electronic World, Hi Fi, Popular Science, Popular Mechanics, Motor Trend, and other special interest publications also rate and evaluate products and services. The Reader's Guide to Periodical Literature, which should be available in all libraries, is a simple subject guide for tapping this voluminous source of information.

Despite careful research and shopping, however, the product you purchase may turn out to be a lemon. The means for coping with this eventually vary depending on warranty, time factors, service response, and the type of problem. If all else fails, a personal letter to the president of the company is sometimes recommended.

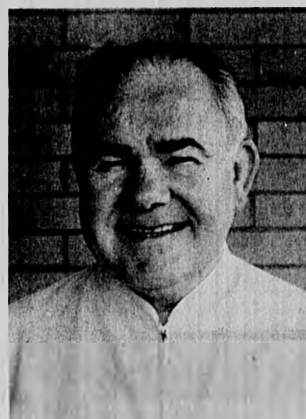

This in itself may be a complicated procedure. There are a number of directories which list corporate officers (Standard and Poor's Register, the Dun and Bradstreet directories) but inclusion in these is often determined by sales volume or the availability of stock and therefore may ignore smaller companies.

Lists of Manufacturers (Thomas' Register, for example) are also useful sources of names and addresses. Less well known, but invaluable is the Television Sponsors Directory, an inexpensive volume that has been found to contain data for American branches of foreign companies (such as Volvo) which are often lacking in the standard sources.

Another volume which has only just been received and has not yet passed the test of time and use, but promises to be a useful addition to the collection, is Joseph Rosenbloom's Consumer Complaint Guide.

In addition to buying and complaining guides, the Library subscribes to the quarterly American Auto Appraisals which lists late model cars by model with average retail and wholesale prices. The antique and classic car buff can look up earlier cars in the Old Car Value Guide.

In fact if you have a need for any kind of consumer information—be it instructions for repairing that late model car, replacing a lamp cord, or buying a 10-speed bicycle, come to the Winchester Public Library.

to get people in here the first time and we'll keep them coming back. We've always operated on the idea that if people enjoy coming into a place they'll come back."

And the customers have been coming back. Fred McCormack still has customers who have been with him since the day he took over. "We have a real steady patronage," he says. "We get to know our customers by name. It's a very nice relationship."

Born in Winchester, Fred McCormack attended Winchester High School, class of 1936, of which he was president. He played sports, particularly football and baseball. He married a Winchester girl, Rita O'Callahan. They have six children: Michelle, Brian, Frederick Jr., Rita, Paul and James.

Brian works with his father in the store. Michelle is now Mrs. Raymond Hinzman of Everett. They have a daughter, Wendy.

Look UP once in a while . . .

We won't solve our nation's problems by berating Old Glory or showing it disrespect. On the contrary, by tearing down the Stars and Stripes, we destroy the symbol of what every American wants to achieve: liberty and justice for all. It makes better sense to keep that flag flying before us as a beacon, reminding us of the goals our founding fathers set for a new nation, goals we are still striving toward. Don't knock it . . . cherish it.

Elderly Survey Reveals Housing Need

By E. B. Seferian

Eighteen percent of the town's elderly interviewed in a recent survey indicate they will have to move within the next two years.

Projected for the town's entire elderly population, that amounts to 495 Winchester elderly who feel they must make different living arrangements. While a majority of those interviewed said they are not interested in apartments in an elderly housing project, 25 percent said they would like non-project elderly housing and 43 percent moderate income housing.

In personal interviews with 195 Winchester senior citizens, 90 trained interviewers obtained answers on the elderly's present situations and future desires and requirements of the town's older population.

According to Dr. Richard Norberg, chairman of the committee conducting the survey, those interviewed represent seven percent of the entire population of the town 62 years of age and older. The committee believes that the seven percent sample is a valid basis for making statistical projections, identifying trends and defining problems for all elder citizens, at present numbering 2,750.

Covering housing, transportation, health, spiritual, recreational, resources and senior service, the survey has revealed the following statistics:

The first section of the questionnaire on housing shows that 72 percent of older citizens have lived in Winchester over 20 years and 77 percent of them own their own homes. Forty-six percent live with a husband or wife and 21 percent live alone. A significant 92 percent say they are "very satisfied" or "satisfied" with the physical set-up of their dwelling places.

A strong majority feels they are physically and financially able to maintain their living places for the foreseeable future, but 18 percent feel they will need to move to other living arrangements within the next two years.

This percentage projected for the larger older population amounts to about 495 citizens, a number of importance to the Housing Authority.

While the majority said they would not be interested either in apartments in an elderly housing project or in moderate income housing, 25 percent said they would like elderly housing, and 43 percent, moderate income housing, a significant number for the Planning Board and Housing Authority to consider.

Under transportation, 69 percent of the older population say this is never a problem since they drive their own cars. However, 25 percent find transportation always, frequently, or occasionally a problem, and 54 percent, or about 1,485, of all the town's senior citizens said they would be willing to pay a small service charge or a proportionate share of the cost of a community transportation service for elders. This figure might have significance for the Winchester Business Association.

The section on health reveals that 74 percent of those answering consider themselves in good or excellent health. Projected for the entire senior population, this seems to indicate a substantially healthy group.

Two questions on health care services in the home, and the individual's need for this service now, resulted in figures which indicate there is no critical widespread need for home health care at present. However, 23 percent, can be extrapolated to about 633 members of the older population, who said they would benefit from a home delivered health care service, while 6 percent, or approximately 180 citizens, said they need this service now.

The responses in the spiritual section indicate that 86 percent of the seniors have a church affiliation, with 52 percent participating in devotional activities frequently. Eighty-nine percent said there is someone they can feel free to call on in time of spiritual need, but 10 percent, or about 275 elders, felt they had no one.

Most elders are not interested in church study groups, such as Bible groups, prayer groups, or contemporary religious study. More than 90 percent responded no in each case.

In the same vein of getting together in groups for study purposes, only a little more interest was revealed under the recreation section, with 60 percent saying they are not interested in attending lectures, and the remaining 40 percent expressing mild to moderate interest in such subjects as wills, investments, health, social security, Medicare and others.

However, 28 percent, or about 770 members of the older population, said they would be interested in attending adult education classes, a number worth considering in planning activities for this age group.

In response to the statement, "I feel isolated and lonely," 74 percent said they never felt this way, but those saying they often or sometimes feel like this totalled 14 percent.

Therefore, though it appears that most town elders have adequate companionship, the percentage who do not projects to about 385 citizens needing more personal contacts.

A little more than half of those questioned said they were aware of the recreational programs for elderly offered by the town recreation committee, but 77 percent had never participated. While 52 percent felt the recreational opportunities were adequate, 33 percent said they were less than adequate.

Interestingly, in a question listing 21 group activities and asking the respondents to choose three, "Attending Plays and Movies" received the most votes, "Bridge" was second, "Gardening" third, and "Museum Trips" and "Music-Listening" tied for fourth place.

Another question under recreation, designed to pinpoint the percentage of town elders with talents and competence to share with other seniors, uncovered a wealth of talent.

Twenty-nine percent of those responding said they had a talent they were willing to share with others. This percentage projected for the larger older population means there are about 313 gifted citizens willing to work with others, a fact of great interest and help to Winchester's new Council on Aging and its affiliate R.S.V.P. (Regional Senior Volunteer Program) which hopes to place volunteers in this and neighboring communities.

Finances do not appear to be a problem to most Winchester elders, with 94 percent reporting in the section on resources that they are economically self-sufficient. Seventy-five percent reported they are able to meet basic living expenses, but the rest gave answers ranging from "Sometimes a Problem to Meet Living Expenses" to "Impossible To Meet Them."

While 19 percent of older citizens reported annual incomes about $16,000, and 18 percent from $10,000 to $16,000, 34 percent had incomes ranging from $5,500, to below $2,500. Projecting the 34 percent to the larger group, it appears that about 935 elders are in the low range, with eight percent or 220 of these, falling below the $2,500 mark. This is reflected too by comments of those interviewed that fixed incomes, excessive taxes and inflation along with increased difficulties in maintaining homes are real problems for them.

A little over half of those questioned said they have a knowledgeable financial advisor, but in another question asking if there was interest in a free, confidential financial advisory service in the community, the 42 percent affirmative response indicates

High School Graduate Dies When Motorcycle Hits Car

A 17-year-old 1973 graduate of Winchester High School was killed Monday night when the motorcycle he was driving crashed into a moving car at the intersection of Salisbury st. and Foxcroft rd.

Killed instantly was John Rodney Torres of 35 Dix st. His passenger, Marion Galvin, also 17, of 39 Middlesex Valley pkwy., is reported by the family in good condition with a broken bone in the leg and bruises.

The accident occurred at 11:20 p.m. when the motorcycle traveling on Salisbury st. in the direction of Cambridge st. collided with a car driven by Joseph Martignetti, 17, of 10 Lockeland rd. traveling in the direction of Church st.

Police said the motorcycle struck the car on the passenger side, throwing Torres against the door and then to the ground. His passenger appeared to have been thrown over the roof of the car, they said.

Both Torres and Marion Galvin were wearing helmets. The intersection is dim due to growth of trees around street lights. There are no stop signs on either of the intersection's corners.

The Martignetti car was carrying two passengers in the rear, police said: Peter Pacetti, 18, of 37 Samoset rd. and Thomas Arnold, 18, of 50 Samoset rd. Both passengers were taken to Winchester Hospital for treatment of cuts in the head and released.

The driver of the car was not injured. The car was able to proceed under its own power.

Arnold told the police he was sitting in the left rear talking to Pacetti and saw the light of the bike just prior to impact. The police said there were no indications of any violations of motor vehicle laws.

The Torres death is the third Winchester highway fatality since May 28, when two Winchester police officers were killed when the car they were in struck a tree on Cross st.

The Registry of Motor Vehicles is investigating Monday's accident. Torres died of a broken neck and a crushed chest, the police said.

One of eight children, Torres had been accepted to Johns Hopkins University in the fall. He played soccer during his sophomore and junior years at the high school and was a member of the French Club.

He was the lead guitarist in the Blues Child Band, which played in functions in Winchester and vicinity.

A resident of Winchester for five years, he was born in Yonkers, N.Y., and before coming to Winchester lived in Portland, Me. He was the son of Rodney M. and Margaret E. (Werner) Torres.

He was the brother of Paula, Peter, Paul, Ellen, Anne, Carla and Christian Torres, all of Winchester.

Funeral services will be tomorrow at St.

Mary's Church at 10 a.m. Rev. Mark Sheehan will officiate. Interment will be at Wildwood Cemetery.

Visiting hours at Lane Funeral Home, 760 Main st., are today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

4-Year-old Injured On Washington St.; Gannon 'Unchanged'

Four-year-old Arthur Ercolini of 354 Washington st. is in the intensive care unit of Winchester Hospital awaiting surgery for injuries sustained Monday when he was struck by a car on Washington st. near Harvard st.

Police said the boy apparently ran out in front of a car being driven by Betsy P. Berndt, 23, of Belmont, traveling in the direction of the center. Mrs. Berndt said she saw the boy, braked the car and turned the steering wheel in an attempt to avoid him.

The boy's mother, Sheila, said Arthur had been visiting across the street and she told him to wait until the traffic cleared before crossing but he might have misunderstood her instructions.

He sustained a fractured skull and abrasions. Mrs. Ercolini said he is in great pain and is scheduled for brain surgery.

Officer Gannon

Winchester Police Officer William Gannon, 27, of 1 Tremont st. remains at Winchester Hospital three weeks after being involved in a motor vehicle collision on Cross street.

Hospital spokesmen describe his condition as unchanged. He has multiple fractures and extensive internal injuries but is conscious and able to converse with visitors. He is in traction.

Parking Problems?

Selectmen, Planning Board Mull New Apartment Zone For Center

By Pauline Dismann

The Planning Board met with the Board of Selectmen Tuesday night to discuss a new zoning by-law proposal which follows the basic form and essential substance of the one put before town meeting two years ago.

The new proposal, which will include a map not yet completed, follows a principle of defining uses to be permitted rather than a mixture of uses. For the most part it excludes residential use from business or industrial use.

For the past 18 months the Planning Board and its consultants have studied amendments proposed at the 1971 town meeting and suggestions from organizations and citizens. They point out they have considered significant modes of living changes such as condominiums rather than rental units in multiple-family dwellings, court decisions regarding development of multiple-family housing, and the continuing concern about Winchester Center.

Schaefer, who stressed the importance of the public being informed on the subject, spoke of plans to hold informational meetings for town meeting members. "We hope to combine two precincts at a time the second and third weeks in July," he said advertising would begin the last Thursday in August with a first public hearing early in September followed by another a short time later.

Selectmen's questions focused on the sections of the proposed zoning by-law concerning mid-rise apartments and multi-use districts. The earlier rejected by-law called for a limit of 10-story high buildings and was not acceptable. Six-story apartments were preferred. Under the new plan there is a reduction of the maximum building height to 80 feet (the same limitation as in the present law).

The discussion led into talk of the increasing parking problem in Winchester, particularly in the business district. The officials all agreed the center needs revitalization and a change in the existing by-law can bring this about. But how is the major stumbling block. They said new apartment buildings or multi-use conversions would bring in more people and add to the parking problems.

Taggart pointed to the Planning Board's emphasis on parking problems resulting from apartments over businesses as "only inhibiting revitalization."

In a separate article Schaefer said the Planning Board expects to recommend specific sites to be used for mid-rise apartments.

The Selectmen commended the Planning Board for its intensive study and gave approval and support. Lawrence T. Smith called the basic law "sound."

John J. Sullivan said he supports Article 2, the concepts of mid-rise in the center and designating sections rather than the whole area, but wonders about multiple use. In an effort to discourage developers to come along and try to "piggy-back," he suggested selectmen say "under no condition will we support any article by any developer before this special town meeting ... for major development."

William G. Chapman offered his support but questioned Sullivan's suggestion, reminding all that any citizen has a right to petition a hearing. Sullivan said he was

Chadwick Tax Votes Praised

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I want to congratulate Rep. Harry Chadwick for having received a 100 percent rating from MassAction's "Rating the Reps" project.

MassAction, the independent taxpayers' group, rated House members on the basis of their votes on the six key roll calls that had the most effect on the taxpayer.

He was among the 27 representatives, all of them Republicans, whom MassAction rated as voting 100 percent for the interests of Massachusetts taxpayers.

Francis W. Hatch Jr.
Republican Floor Leader

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Recently MassAction completed an analysis of Rep. Harrison Chadwick's stand on six key issues involving economy in government.

Rep. Chadwick voted six out of six times in favor of the taxpayer. These votes included efforts to limit the costs that the state can impose on cities and towns, and one proposal would have wiped out a politically inspired half million dollar raise for court clerks.

He is among the legislature's leading advocates of fiscal responsibility in state government, since 75 percent of the legislators voted for less than three of the six proposals.

We commend Rep. Chadwick for standing up for the taxpayer.

Walter L. Bigney

'Errata' Erratum

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I was glad to see that you apologized and corrected the caption in regard to the misplaced use of Winchester High School Principal Vincent Larocco's name. I would just like to suggest that you place an addition in this week's "Errata" section.

You published the name of the WHS principal incorrectly as Principal Vincent Luongo in last week's "Errata" in the first paragraph. For the record, it is LAROCO. And off the record, The Star should watch to see that it at least gets it's "Errata" section correct.

Real Estate Ages

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Your recent feature article concerning a local real estate office contained some glaring inaccuracies, the main one being the statement that the office in question was the second oldest in Winchester, the oldest being another office in town under the same ownership as the one in question.

I realize you relied heavily (or entirely) on information supplied by the manager of the office in question, but I think you have an obligation to at least make a cursory check of the information you are being asked to quote and pass on to your readers as fact.

Such a check would have turned up the fact that of the real estate offices now operating in Winchester, the office which was the subject of your feature article ranks way down on the list, below the names of Bowman Real Estate and the Josephson real estate office, at least, and is not second oldest as stated in your article.

Furthermore, I own and manage the only real estate firm in Winchester which has been in the same family ownership since its inception. My father, the late Gustave A. Josephson, started in the building and real estate business in Winchester in 1918, and in fact maintained an office in your very own Star Building for many years, commencing in August of 1950.

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On June 9th, the Boston press carried the results of a rating by MassAction, a taxpayers group, of economy votes in the legislature. The survey covered the first six months of 1973.

It is heartening to note that Mr. Chadwick is one of a small minority of representatives who voted consistently in support of fiscal responsibility, achieving a perfect score in the eyes of MassAction. It is surprising that this item was not noted locally and that deserved commendation was not forthcoming.

Dickman Grateful

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Through the courtesy of The Winchester Star I wish to express my most sincere gratitude for the beautiful party given in recognition of my retirement. It is indeed one of the highlights in my life, an unforgettable occasion.

It is difficult to find words to adequately convey my feeling of appreciation and happiness to the committee and the hundreds of people who have made possible the Raymond Dickman Scholarship Fund. It gives me great joy to know that some deserving student will be helped financially to further his education.

The inauguration of this fund has touched me deeply. Our deepest gratitude to all who so generously contributed toward a "much dreamed of" trip to Europe. Your thoughtfulness and generosity is overwhelming.

I also want to thank you for the beautiful engraved plaque presented to me which will be hung in the new library at the Mystic School. Also the large book of poems, pictures and letters from the children of Mystic and the articles and colorful wall hanging.

Alice joins me with heartfelt thanks for making this such a memorable occasion for us. Our thanks to the committee that planned the day and to each and every one for your participation in this event.

How fortunate I have been to have had the opportunity and privilege to work in a community such as ours. At this time of retirement I have deep and intense feelings of gratification. It has been my great joy knowing, serving and working with you. Thank you again.

Marathon Great

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As a jogger who managed to run the course, I'd like to thank the Recreation Department and the Winchester Businessmen's Association for my mini-marathon. I thought it was great!

I hope it becomes an annual event and with ever more runners.

It might also be noted by various town boards and the selectmen that there were two library trustees in the top 10 finishers.

Olmstead In Winchester-- Three Gardens Laid Out

By Irene Schneller with Calvin Cramer

The name Frederick Law Olmsted is usually associated with monumental landscaping schemes such as Central Park, Niagara Falls, the White House and Boston's chain of parks in the Back Bay Fens usually referred to as the Emerald Necklace. But Olmsted was in Winchester too. The circumstances of Olmsted's work in Winchester are unclear, not to say mysterious. There is a file at Olmsted Associates of Brookline, the firm which Olmsted founded, labelled "Winchester, 1900."

Then, there are three other Winchester "jobs" between 1900 and 1908: for Fernald McCall, Alfred Clark and Edwin Ginn. The jobs probably came under the direct influence of Olmsted, though perhaps carried out by other members of the firm. Olmsted Associates were consultants for Winchester residents, designing, for example, the war memorial (1925) and Wildwood Cemetery (1937).

It came as a surprise to many that Olmsted Associates designed relatively modest gardens at so early a date. Olmsted himself is associated with great estates, such as the Vanderbills.

Although Olmsted did little work in the suburban garden, he gave it considerable thought and had definite views on its role in the life of the family, not only in regard to what it should look like, but also what its function should be in the city. In many ways Olmsted was also a social philosopher.

Of the three "jobs" mentioned, Mr. Ginn's 55 Bacon st. mansion has made way for a development. Of the grounds designed in 1902 for the then Governor of Massachusetts, Fernald McCall, much remains as a charming example of Olmsted's methods.

He created a feeling of movement by providing ever-changing views, even in this relatively small space, by carefully created undulating contours and the careful placement of trees in order to produce interesting variations in light and shade. The only formal element exists as a setting for a glorious view of the Mystic Lakes.

Olmsted reviewed a book in 1870 by a Mr. Scott, a kind of do-it-yourselfer for the early suburbanite. Scott had urged his readers to avoid planting closely along the boundary of their ground, a practice which he deemed a remnant of a period of "rude improvements and ruder men" and a peculiarity of English gardening.

Scott thought the garden should merge with the neighboring land. "Not to lay our private grounds open to the public gaze is ill-bred, inhospitable, unneighborly, and unchristian."

Olmsted wholly disagreed with that view. He felt the existing stage of gardens then as barely emerging from the stage of keeping "the wolf and the savage" from the door. The back entrance had been for tools and logs. People were just beginning to decorate the front with a few bushes.

He hoped to encourage people to rise above concentrating on what is seen by the passerby. "As a better class of houses were substituted for the original cabins, with increasing security and prosperity, front-door yards increased in number, until, at length, the distinction was reversed, and it became almost disreputable in many districts to live in a house without such an appendage... Regarded simply as ornaments of the house front, or as badges of respectability, like chaises and green blinds, it would have been folt to hide them behind walls, hedges, or thickets.

Olmsted wanted to introduce the European tradition of treating the garden as an extension of the house. "Few among us yet suspect how much time can be spent profitably, agreeably, and healthfully, or how large a share of our ordinary household duties, as well as our recreations, can be attended to in the open air, providing we have grounds suitably arranged and furnished."

A degree of privacy must be obtained, he felt. This would contrary to Mr. Scott's view, be more conducive to "Christian living, for it would encourage the whole family to have pastimes together and reverse the customs which have forced young people generally to seek social enjoyment much more apart from their parents than it thought necessary, desirable, or prudent, in old countries..."

It is a matter of speculation whether Olmsted's views influenced the growth of the patio, the backyard lookout and swimming pool. Certainly the historic trend away from the "wolf and the savage" was a major factor. But the early reluctance to make the yard a private enclosure has prevailed.

The third garden, that of the late Mr. Clarke of Sheffield road, is the only truly suburban garden. A blueprint shows how perfectly it carries out Olmsted's views. There is privacy. One can see the mother sewing in the summer house; the teenage daughter talking to her beau on the seat in the "wild garden"; the maid stretching out the sheets on the bleaching green, and the gardener tending the vegetables.

Olmsted welcomed the growth of sports and communal recreation and made provision for them in his plans. He urged, for instance, that small green areas within walking distance be reserved for play within all towns.

These views were seldom accepted in his day. As a result, for instance, Central Park has deteriorated from a work of art and recreation. The encroachment of permanent playing field and other types of group recreation seem largely responsible together with lack of funds for maintenance. The yard on Sheffield rd. reflects this history of Olmsted's parks. The flowers are turned to grass, the secluded seats are gone and funds for maintenance are sparse.

It will be interesting to see, now that concern with environmental and town planning is increasing, to what extent Olmsted's views will be revived, and whether more suburban gardens will tend to turn into "al fresco parlors and playrooms."

I would like to extend special thanks to Ann Smith of the Winchester reference library who spent much time digging up some of the references from which the quotations are taken.

Marathon Was Not Winchester's First; Bicentennial Needs Something Dramatic

Winchester residents this week were again faced with looking at the photo of a young man killed in a motor vehicle accident. That makes three in three weeks who have been killed in highway mishaps.

There was no stop sign at Foxcroft rd. and Salisbury st. But one can't say that's the cause of this latest life-taking. It was dark, late, motorcycles are dangerous vehicles. Sometimes things happen and we can only hope there's some reason for them.

Last Saturday's marathon in Winchester was not the first in town, according to Carmen Frongillo, who remembers that On October 12 in 1933 the Sons of Italy Lodge No. 1580 sponsored an eight-mile race.

"Mingie Frongillo says that 75 runners from throughout Massachusetts participated in that Columbus Day event.

Winchester Recreation Director Donald Spinney feels this year's marathon was very successful and plans to make it an annual event.

With the nation's bicentennial celebration only three years away, Winchester should start thinking about how it can participate in this event. Actually the town should have started thinking about this some time ago. But there is time enough for the town to do something.

The Historical Commission has been taking an inventory of old houses in town. But something more dramatic is needed. Some suggest resurrecting the old Middlesex Canal, which used to pass through the town. That's not exactly a unique idea, since other nearby towns are doing the same thing.

Winchester needs some project to permanently attract visitors to give a boost to local businessmen in these days of competition from suburban shopping malls. Maybe the town could rebuild one of the tanneries that used to be here. Or bring in one of the old steam locomotives that chugged through at one time.

Federal funds could be available for such a project. But whatever the town decides to do, it had better decide quickly. Let's hear some ideas from readers.

Many readers missed the advertisement last week announcing that the dump would be closed Monday, Bunker Hill Day, an official town holiday also celebrated in Boston, Newton and Brookline. Bunker Hill Day is a traditional holiday in Winchester which goes back to the days when the town was part of Charlestown, for all you disgruntled dumpgoers who had to turn around and take your trash back home. Town workers get a day off; it's in their contract.

A new member of the Finance Committee wondered why the committee was discussing a non-financial item: an anti-drinking law for the town. But as chairman James B. L. Lane pointed out to him and the other four new Finance members, the committee statute requires the committee to make recommendations on all articles before town meeting.

"We're really an advisory committee," Lane said.

Anyway, other members said all articles eventually have a price tag on them. If the town adopts an anti-public drinking law, they jokingly said, money will be needed to enlarge the jail.

Leonard Pool opened Tuesday for the season and it certainly is curious, looking at the smooth water and clean beach, why the town should be considering replacing this man-made pond with an artificial pool costing upwards of $200,000.

True the facility was closed a portion of the last two summers due to excessive iron ore in the water. But that problem has been corrected. No pool, with its heavily chlorinated water and concrete or fiberglass slides, can replace sand and natural water.

And the fact that the town has spent $27,000 to study an artificial replacement shouldn't mean we're locked in to spending another $200,000.

The Fire Department feels an item in this column last week reporting its difficulty in finding a fire on Highland avenue last Tuesday appeared to blame them. The department tapes the calls it receives and has played back the call reporting this particular fire.

The caller gave the department a wrong address, one in the 200's of Highland avenue, whereas the fire was much further down, in the 300's. That's why when the firefighters arrived the small blaze had been extinguished by a neighbor with a garden hose.

All of which, the department points out, shows the importance of persons telephoning alarms to give the right address.

A Park Department employee cutting grass last Tuesday afternoon near Wedge Pond saw about 50 persons illegally swimming. The pond had not officially opened and there was no lifeguard on duty.

While he wasn't successful in getting those 50 out of the water, he did prevent 50 others from getting in, according to a caller to The Star, who said the employee should win a futility award. The police eventually were called and stopped the swimming.

Wedge Pond beach was supposed to open Saturday and lifeguards were on duty. But the lifeguards were there to prevent anyone from swimming. The reason, according to Recreation Director Don Spinney: Allied Biological treated the water Friday for weed control and it takes four days for the chemical to dissipate. The beach opened Tuesday.

The auditorium at McCall Junior High School has 555 seats (not counting balcony seats). Last Wednesday during the public hearing on whether the town should establish a charter commission 48 of those seats were occupied.

No one was really surprised at this low turnout. Restructuring town government in a town that has a low interest in civic affairs except when an issue affects one's neighborhood is a dull topic of no immediate interest to voters.

The interest in a charter will come at the referendum (assuming a charter commission is established) when the voters are asked to accept or reject the commission's recommendations.

Meanwhile the Town Government Study Committee, the group authorized by town meeting to go ahead with seeing if the town should create a charter commission, carries on the considerable work necessary in such a project. TGSC is asking for volunteers to help with such arduous tasks as gathering signatures for the referendum to see if the town should create a commission, convincing persons to run for the nine commission seats and educating the public as to what this whole thing is about.

We should warn radio listeners that the high school station, WHSR-FM, 91.9 will be broadcasting most of the tape of last Wednesday's public hearing prior to town meeting on the 28th at about 6 p.m. So be sure to have your radio tuned to another station if you don't want to find out about changing your town government.

Watching the selectmen's meetings every week, we have formed an opinion that brightly colored shirts shouldn't be so bright that they outshine the wearer. When you look at a person you should see his face and not his shirt.

The capricious method by which jurors are chosen was pointed out at the selectmen's meeting this week when clerk Hazel Maguire asked the board members to scratch the name of a Mr. Russo off their list of potential jurors because he is a town employee.

She said she had removed Russo's name from her list but had forgotten to take it off the selectmen's.

Why? they asked. "Because he is a custodian at the library and it will cost us money if he goes on jury duty," she replied.

Selectman Lawrence T. Smith laughed and said that's not the basis on which jurors are supposed to be chosen. The board restored the name.

no longer a criminal offense in Massachusetts youths have been "teasing" the police by drinking in their presence "knowing they can't do anything."

Support of town meeting for the article would not mean the town has an anti-public drinking by-law. It would mean Winchester backs a bill now awaiting action in the General Court to allow the town to adopt such a law.

As Chairman James B. L. Lane pointed out, "The more towns that petition for this legislation the faster we'll get it. Petitioning the legislature is the only way under our no charter form of government that we can do it." Winchester has no state charter.

★ Survey

considerable interest and potential use of such a service.

The final section of the survey, on senior service, confirmed earlier results under recreation—that there is a large number of talented seniors willing to share abilities with fellow town seniors. Ten percent said they would be willing to help in other communities as well if transportation were provided.

The final three questions, about age, sex, and marital status, were asked to double check the statistical accuracy of the survey, since this information is in the town records. It is interesting to note that six percent, or about 165 of the entire older group, are 86 years of age or older, and that 57 percent, or approximately 1,587 elders, are female.

In making the results of the survey public, Dr. Norberg explained how his committee, consisting of Margaret Harrigan, Msgr. Joseph Lyons, Hilda Hope, Arthur Pratt, Olive Hatch and Beryl Hagan, went about formulating the questions.

Town agencies and organizations, such as the Recreation Committee, Winchester Hospital, the Ecumenical Association, Housing Authority and the Winchester Business Association, were consulted to obtain the most experienced input for selection of questions.

Finally, two computer experts, T. Brooke Green and Jack Looney of the Winchester Jaycees, helped modify the questions, and rewrote and programmed them for the computer.

The results of the personal interview survey appear to be a highly accurate profile of Winchester's older population and should be invaluable to town agencies in their plans for services to our elders.

Norberg added that the same survey which was mailed to all the senior citizens who were not personally interviewed resulted in more than 800 signed returns and has successfully served to identify needs of individuals, and in the development of a pool of talented, willing senior volunteers.

A detailed report of the survey and all the data generated will be available at the Winchester Library sometime in July.

★ Zoning

talking about developers not citizens.

Vito Giarrizzo said, "We must get this by-law passed." He said he had mixed emotions about "this either-or concept," even though he believes this is probably the way to go. He favors having apartments in the business districts without limitations feeling that developers who sink their money into a project will do their research and know what will work before entering into it.

Schaefer said if Giarrizzo or anyone else could point to an example of success of multi-use in a center like Winchester he would be willing to change his viewpoint.

Schaefer pointed to a highlight of the new proposal—the cluster zone. This permits a large development in a residential district to include smaller lot sizes without an increase in overall density. "This gives flexibility to developers for condominiums or single family dwellings," he said.

In other words, a tract that would permit 50 detached single family dwellings could be developed to include some or all town house type dwelling units under careful site plan approval regulations up to the same density of 50 units.

Giarrizzo asked if there was some type of documentation "to prevent later increase of density." The answer was yes. The by-law calls for the Board of Appeals to be involved.

Smith brought up the subject of betterments (such as utilities) and who pays for them. Schaefer said that the Planning Board has a rough draft of a set of rules and regulations which will be ready soon. These should be approved and adopted before developers come in, he said.

During the more than three-hour meeting selectmen told planners about amendments to the fire prevention code they will be urging town meeting to adopt. These concern the definition of a filling station and uses permitted at filling stations.

Discussion brought up the responsibility of law enforcement which now is divided among the fire chief, the police chief and the zoning administrator (building commissioner). At present "efforts to enforce zoning laws are lax because there are too many ambiguities—too many grey areas," Schaefer said.

They decided a simple referral to one all-inclusive explanatory document, the fire code, should alleviate some of the problems. Schaefer said the new zoning law proposal will not repeat the filling station definition and uses, but instead refer to the fire prevention code as the source to follow.

The selectmen were interested in hearing about the Planning Board's meeting with the Winchester Business Association. Schaefer reported on WBA's enthusiasm to get something going for Winchester Center. He called the group "dynamic" and reiterated that the "first step to revitalization for the Center and the town is to get good zoning laws."

Finance Supports Law To Ban Public Drinking

A special Winchester town meeting convenes next Thursday at 7:45 p.m. in the new high school auditorium when members will decide whether an artificial swimming pool should be constructed to replace Leonard Pool.

The Finance Committee Monday voted its support of the approximate $200,000 appropriation. The present Leonard Pool is a man-made pond between Cross and Washington streets.

If the town meeting fails to vote its support of the pool appropriation, another warrant article will seek to apply the $200,000 to reduce this year's tax rate.

A newly constituted Indoor Swimming Pool Committee met Monday night for the first time and elected swimming coach Vincent J. Palumbo chairman. Indications are the new committee may ask the town meeting to delay its decision on Leonard Pool until after the Indoor Swimming Pool Committee studies whether a year-round pool at the new high school would be economically feasible.

The committee will attempt to find out if state funds are available to construct a pool at the new high school, which includes certain construction tie-ins for a pool. Selectmen met with the new committee Monday and some selectmen expressed doubt about the availability of state aid.

When the high school plans were being considered costs of a pool were put at $1 million, with the state paying 40 percent. Richard Cresce, a member of the Indoor Pool Committee, said the entire Arlington Boys' Club was built for a half a million dollars and included "the finest pool in the state."

Selectman John J. Sullivan said the town has gone out of its way to have its structures conform to state requirements in order to receive state aid and suggested it might be cheaper for the town to build according to its own specifications and forego such aid.

The Finance Committee Monday also took up another matter due for town meeting action next week. This is an article inserted by the selectmen to have the town support pending legislation allowing towns to pass anti-public drinking laws.

The Finance Committee voted 8-3 in favor of recommending the town meeting endorse the legislation. There was some discussion on the proposal, with committeeman Karl J. Hirschman calling it "an infringement on personal liberties."

Hirschman maintained such an ordinance would likely be unconstitutional since it proposes to outlaw all public drinking without the consent of the property owner and doesn't distinguish between degrees of public drinking.

"It's just a method the police are going to use to run in kids they think are noisy," Committeewoman Barbara Hankins said there are enough laws on the books now to deal with unruly youths, such as loitering, disorderly conduct, trespassing and drunkenness.

Committeeman Alfred Lapointe disagreed, saying that since drunkenness is

Raymond Dickman Retires,
Is Feted At Reception

The First Congregational Church was the setting for a townwide reception honoring Raymond J. Dickman, who is retiring as principal after serving in the Winchester school system for 44 years.

Retirement committee chairman Mrs. Anne Dreano welcomed the guests who crowded Chidley Hall to greet Mr. and Mrs. Dickman, their daughter Mrs. Betty Hamerling and grandchildren Cathy and Mark from Virginia.

She then introduced speakers Superintendent of Schools William MacDonald, who praised Dickman as an esteemed educator, teacher and scholar; and Arthur Dunbar, chairman of the board of selectmen, who read a letter from the board commending Dickman on his many years of service to the town.

Vice chairman of the School Committee Mary Mears introduced three Mystic School sixth graders, Jane Brenton, Peter Ruggles and Christopher Stanton who presented a plaque dedicating the new Mystic School Library to Dickman.

Mrs. Diana Obbard, this year's president of the Mystic School Association, presented a leather scrapbook to Dickman containing messages of affection from friends throughout the country and the world.

Selectman Lawrence T. Smith announced the Raymond J. Dickman Scholarship Fund had received nearly $5,000 and additional contributions are still coming in to treasurer James Kent at 10 Madison ave.

Smith went on to say that Dickman helped thousands of children throughout his career and because of his scholarship fund will still be helping many more students in the future.

Mrs. Dreano brought forth a special surprise for the Dickmans—plane tickets for their first trip to Europe. This resulted from special contributions received from friends. Entertainment was provided by the Mystic School Chorus under the direction of Herman Greene and former students Catherine Arnott and Lisa Baron at the piano. Heidi Blanch was in charge of the guest book.

Dickman expressed special thanks to the retirement committee: Anne Dreano, Pauline and Bob Baron, Mary Mears, Harriet Dieterich, Lawrence Smith, Martha Grenzback, Joseph Forte, Norma Littlefield, Eileen Cummings, Rosemary Layzer, Naomi Johnson, Lorraine Parkhurst, Mary Plantadosi, Corinne De Cicco, Betsy Spiller, Carol and James Kent, Frances Covino, Frances Dogherly, Marjorie Blomquist Jayne Nault, Dudley Samoloff, Diana Obbard, Martha Hebb, Ethel Blanch, Jeanne Maspero, Ruth De Sanctis, Lois Ross, and Phyllis England.

Burton Cowgill
Elected To Lead
Music Festival

Burton O. Cowgill, director of music of the Winchester public schools, was elected president of the New England Music Festival Association at its annual meeting held recently.

The New England Music Festival Association was founded over three decades ago by a group of high school music educators interested in providing students with a more beneficial experience in group performance.

During the years the organization has expanded gradually and undergone a series of changes instituted to keep pace with the changing times and needs. It has two annual functions to promote its policies. These are:

1. To offer opportunities to high school musicians of the New England States to be professionally adjudicated as soloists or small ensembles.
2. To give to as many students as possible the opportunity to rehearse and perform good music with their peers in large musical organizations, with talented conductors, and in an inspiring atmosphere.

This past year was the first time Winchester High School participated in the New England activities. Several of its music students were chosen to perform. These students were: Gwen Seferian, S. Thomson Moore, Jeanne Cormack, David Demsey, Kathy Burkly, Diane Cuzzin and Jennifer Potts.

The 1974 Concert Festival will be held in Bennington, Vt. Many of the present high school music students have indicated a desire to audition for this festival.

School Committee
To Issue Statement
On Metro Education

Tuesday night, when the Winchester School Committee meets at the Sanborn House for business, they will issue a statement on the Metropolitan Education Collaboration Proposal. The 7:30 p.m. meeting is open to the public.

Also on the agenda will be a recommendation on the elementary school lunch program, traffic at the new Lincoln School, disposition of the old Lincoln School, and election of a director of library services and director of adult education.

Also, High School Principal Vincent Larocco will be seeking approval of a Max-ed program for the coming year; Francis X. Finnigan, director of science will present details of a self-paced chemistry course; and an outdoor education program will be talked about.

July 2 - Aug. 10

Summer School Classes For Grades 7-12 Set At Muraco

The Winchester summer school program will be conducted from July 2 to Aug. 10.

Summer school director Frederick J. Murray urges early student registration so that hiring of personnel can be finalized based on enrollment and subject interest.

Murray notes there is one change in the previously announced summer school program. All course offerings for students in grades 7-12, previously scheduled to be held in Winchester High School will be held instead at the Muraco Elementary School, 61 Irving st.

According to Murray the reason for the change is because of a smaller than usual enrollment in the secondary level. The change to Muraco allows custodians who would be at the high school an opportunity to be used elsewhere where services are needed more. For instance, the changes affecting the former Lincoln School, the new Lincoln School (formerly McCall) and the new McCall Junior High (formerly old high school) call for increased custodial personnel in preparation for the fall.

The summer agenda in the secondary level thus far calls for English Review, grades 7-8, from 10-12; English I, grade 9, 8 a.m.-10 a.m.; English II, grade 10, 8-10 a.m.; English III, grade 11, 10 a.m.-noon; English IV, grade 12, by arrangement; creative writing, grades 8-11, 8-10 a.m.; and remedial-development reading, grades 7-9 from 8-10 a.m. and grades 10-12, 10 a.m.-noon.

In the area of mathematics, review arithmetic for grades 7-9 will meet from 10 a.m.-noon; review of algebra for grades 8-9, 8-10 a.m.; elementary algebra, plane geometry and intermediate geometry, all to be held from 8-10 a.m. or 10-noon.

French I and II and Spanish I and II will also be offered each morning during the six-week summer school.

Remedial and developmental reading for grades 1-6 will be held at the Muraco School. Basic studies for pupils in grades three and six who are currently enrolled in the Lincoln, Muraco, Mystic, Noonan and Washington Schools are planned to be held at Muraco School. Basic studies for third and sixth grade pupils currently enrolled in Ambrose, Parkhurst, Vinson-Owen and Wyman Schools will be at the Vinson-Owen School.

And the learning disabilities program for pupils in grades 1-6 will be held at the Vinson-Owen School.

Lesley Program
This summer during the July 2-Aug. 10 period Lesley College and Winchester Public Schools will continue its cooperative effort in a summer school enrichment program combining the resources of the two institutions.

At Vinson-Owen School there will be a laboratory school for elementary pupils presently completing grades K-5 and a kindergarten readiness program for children who will be entering school in the fall from the Ambrose, Parkhurst, Vinson-Owen and Wyman Schools.

The same two programs will also be held at Muraco School for children at the Lincoln, Muraco, Mystic, Noonan and Washington Schools. All sessions will be held from 8:30 to 11:45 a.m.

For more information on any of the summer school programs including registration or fees, contact Frederick Murray, 80 Skillings rd., Winchester.

July 4 Give-away
For Boys, Girls
Set At Theatre

A Winchester boy and girl will each win a bicycle on July 4.

This give-away is a feature of the annual Fourth of July Celebration sponsored by the town and this year planned by the American Legion. According to Richard Drohan, manager of the Winchester Theatre, site of the happening, a different civic group is in charge of arrangements for the annual event.

Beginning at 10 a.m. youngsters will gather at the Winchester Theatre where they will see a film "Island of the Blue Dolphin" and be catered to with ice cream and cold beverages.

The lucky bike winners will be determined through a drawing.

Overheard

Ever hear of the Stegosaurus? It is the name of a type of extinct, plant-eating dinosaur. The fossils of these dinosaurs have been found in rocks in Colorado and Wyoming. The best known of the fossils evidence a dinosaur that reached a length of thirty feet. He had a double row of heavy armor-like plates along his back. His tail was armed with a series of long, sharp spikes. His brain, however, was no bigger than a walnut.

Berlow's Sells Accessories From All Over The World

Winchester residents don't have to travel further than the center to find household objects from the People's Republic of China, Ireland, Japan, France, Hungary and many other countries.

The place where such items are on display and for sale is Myron Berlow Home Accessories at 805 Main st. Run by Mike Berlow, son of the founder, the store recently received a shipment of delicately made Chinese vases and containers called cloisonne, a form of enameling done between strips of metal; and sinibari, lacquerware hand carved with layers and layers of lacquer. Berlow's also has imari, hand painted china.

One item now having wide popularity is a French dough mixer, which Berlow's ships all over the country. Other popular lines are in Lenox art wares, Waterford glass and Royal Holland pewter.

Not that Berlow's is limited to imported objects. It has thousands of domestic items for every room in the house. There is a newly expanded bath shop, a gourmet cooking section featuring the finest made utensils in Greater Boston and a toy section.

"This is a very complete store," says Mike Berlow. "A woman looking for accessories for almost any room in the house can find them here. And it is all quality merchandise. We don't carry any junk."

Berlow's was started in 1945 in 1,800 square feet of space. The Berlow's of 1973 has 8,000 square feet of display area and another 16,000 in the remainder of the building. It has its own parking area.

Lamp shades are Berlow's major item. The store, in fact, is one of the largest lamp shade dealers in New England, with 5,000 different shades always in stock. Mr. Berlow feels many out-of-town customers are attracted to the store because lamp shades are a hard-to-find commodity and Berlow's has such a large selection.

An indication of Berlow's customer area range: the store is advertised in 18 telephone directories.

Mike Berlow has been here 15 years, when he graduated from Boston University. Married and the father of four children, he lives in Burlington and often bicycles to work, a trip that takes him 25 minutes.

Employees are the store manager, Joanne Eklund, a Winchester High School graduate; and Mrs. Charlotte Jason and Mrs. Ruth Doucette. Mrs. Esther Berlow, wife of the founder, comes in from time to time.

He describes his father, Myron, who was in the gift business for 40 years, as the best teacher he could have ever had.

Besides being a bicycle enthusiast, Mike Berlow sings, plays the drums, was a founder of the Mystery Club of Burlington, is a past president of Temple Shalom in Burlington and is a member of the Winchester Business Association.

Mr. Berlow is very emphatic about the ability of Winchester shopper to find everything they need here. "A lot of people who live in Winchester don't know what's available to them."

At Berlow's, for example, besides all of the merchandise mentioned above, there are wall hangings, colonial accessories, stainless steel kitchen utensils, pewter and silver wares, china and glass. In sum, according to Mr. Berlow, "You name it and if it's accessories, we have it."

K&B Appears Before Planning On Condominiums

Monday night Kaufman and Broad Homes, Inc. of Wellesley Hills, the country's largest home builders, made a formal presentation of a proposal to build 500 condominium units of housing to the Winchester Planning Board.

The proposed units would be on the 90-acre Moss property off Cambridge st. across from the Woburn Plaza shopping center.

A few weeks ago Kaufman and Broad presented the proposal to 35 members of Concerned Citizens, a neighborhood group which has been opposed to the garden apartment proposal of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Moss.

Kaufman and Broad has a purchase and sale agreement on the land, according to owner Moss. The multi-million dollar corporation will have the first opportunity to develop the land.

In the Monday night presentation Kaufman and Broad spoke of having conducted serious studies in analyzing the contours of the terrain and vegetation preliminary to develop their site plan.

Removal of trees and ledge would be taken care of in three phases, they said, to assure the buildings would conform with the natural topography which they assure will remain unchanged.

They offered a fact sheet with their verbal presentation highlighting plans to develop self-sufficient recreation facilities such as swimming pools, community center and tennis courts.

They said the Condominium Association would maintain all roads and lighting throughout the property and would have a program for picking up refuse and garbage. They would undertake costs of constructing traffic lights at the intersection of the site and proposed a system of use of holding tanks to take care of any sewage problem that might result because of the hilly terrain.

Planning Board chairman Otto E. Schaefer told The Star that due to a heavy agenda the Planning Board did not have an opportunity to adequately discuss and comment on the proposal.

Traffic changes on Cambridge street, a K&B spokesman at the Planning Board meeting said, would be coordinated with the Woburn plaza. Cost of traffic lights and lane changes would be about $150,000 at no cost to the town or state.

In the fact sheet, K&B says 70 percent of the 90 acres would remain open, the development would have a swimming pool, community center and tennis courts. Highland Woods, as the development would be called, would maintain all roads and lighting as well as picking up garbage and trash.

Junior Library Summer Program Begins Monday

Next Monday the Junior Library Summer Reading Program will begin. All Winchester children who are able to read by themselves are invited to participate by selecting books on which to report in any of the following ways: give a brief oral report; write a short review; submit a sketch or painting about a book; write a poem about the story; or make a puppet of a character or a diorama. Children will "follow the yellow brick road" through 10 steps at such places as Charlotte's web, Hansel and Gretel's house and the place where the Wild Things are. On completion of 10 books, children will be awarded a certificate of achievement. If 20 are completed a gold seal and blue ribbon will be added. Because this is a summer program, only books read after the closing of school should be used for reports.

Cassette players and cassettes, a filmstrip viewer and filmstrips and records are available for home use by pupils. In addition, these may be used at the library as well as games. The summer loan privilege - 10 books per card - will be in effect until Sept. 15. Beginning Monday, the Junior Library will be open until 8:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday nights until Labor Day.

Early Music Concert Tonight

The Quadrivium Center Collegium will present a program of rarely heard early music tonight at 8:30 in the cloister garden at the Church of the Epiphany.

The Collegium is composed of staff and students of the Quadrivium Center in Cambridge, a center for study and performance of medieval, renaissance, and baroque instruments and music.

Tonight's program will include singing, dancing and mime, as well as the playing of unusual instruments which are primarily reproductions of the ancient originals.

These include the shawm, sitar, viola da gamba, trumphet, rebec, vielle, kamanje, gothic harp, lute, oud, baglama, rauschpfeife, krummhorn, string drum, bowed lyre, chalumeaux, glockenspiel, cornetto and psalter.

The first part of the program will consist of Las Cantigas de Santa Maria, translated from Galiceo Portuguese. The Cantigas are songs from the time of Alfonso the Wise, ruler of Castile from 1221 to 1284. His court was the meeting place of 13th century Islam and Christendom. Pilgrims, crusaders, troubadours, mystics, mathematicians, philosophers, cooks, and clowns gathered there to share concepts, formulas, recipes, clothes and tunes.

The remainder of the program will be made up of 10 songs from the time of the Troubadours. The group will include 12th and 13th century songs from Bulgaria, Croatia, Provence, Portugal and Macedonia.

The concert by the Quadrivium Center Collegium is the second in the 1973 Cloister Garden Artist Series. The series will continue on July 5 when the Master Singers Chamber Chorus will present the program they have prepared for their coming tour of Rumania.

All of the concerts in the series are open to the public. Further information can be obtained from B. T. Marshall of 9 Brookside ave.

of pink and lavender.

Katrina Moulton of Needham was bridesmaid. She wore a turquoise and lavender floral print gown of organza.

After a reception at the home of the bride's parents the couple took a honeymoon trip along the coast of Maine. Their future home is in Southborough.

The bride was educated at Abbot Academy, Andover; Wheaton College of Norton, N.H. She is a member of the Penobscot Paddle and Chowder Society.

Aberjona Ladies

The Aberjona Ladies Auxiliary No. 3719 Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold a penny sale social at the post quarters on River st., Monday at 8 p.m. Chairman Isabelle Stewart invites the public. Refreshments will be served.

Scholarship
Explained

At the 123rd graduation ceremonies of Winchester High School recently, 55 students were recipients of scholarship awards.

The Scholarship Foundation was able to grant this assistance through funds of the Downes Fund, the Brackett Fund and the Blank Fund, all town funds; and through the funds of Herbert Goff, Laurence Owen, Patricia Eberle Greene, Joseph D'Ambrosio, Gertrude Howard, Winchester Art Association, Winchester Music Club and Noonan School Scholarships which are the principal funds of the Foundation.

However, according to Mrs. R. Levinson, there are several civic groups whose generous aid this year has made it possible to add to the number of students who receive aid. They are the Winchester Chapter MSPCA; Fortnightly Club; Winchester Home and Garden Club; Winchester Rome Program; Women's Republican Club of Winchester; Jaycee-ettes; Winchester Women's Lodge No. 1592; Aberjona Civic Association; Enka Society; Winchester Foundation for Experimental Biology; Community Schools Association; Winchester High School Parent Faculty Association, and all elementary and junior high school Parent Associations; and the Kiwanis Club. In addition, scholarships were awarded this year in memory of Angelo Tofuri and Thomas Mawn. The Winchester Scholarship Foundation would like to thank these groups for their community support, says Mrs. Levinson.

Mrs. Flora Vercollone of 17A Ginn rd. will be a guest of Sonya Hamlin, Channel 4, Monday from 12:30 - 1:30 to introduce her book, "The Flora Form." The book gives instructions on how to construct a dress form of polyurethane-foam. According to Mrs. Vercollone, the form is used for the correction of patterns not the fitting of garments and is a completely new idea in dress forms.

Tatarian Wins Town Marathon

Winchester High School track star Charles Tatarian won Saturday's marathon in the 18 years of age and older category as 124 persons ran the three-course race in ideal weather.

Second and third winners were Reginald Marden and Thomas Kerr.

Though only 85 persons had registered to run in Winchester's road race, 124 persons crossed the starting line at the police box in the square. According to Donald Spinney, Recreation Director, 75 runners finished.

The race began at 11:05 a.m. Thirty-seven minutes and 58 seconds later Tatarian crossed the finish line, followed by Marden at 40 minutes and 40 seconds and Kerr at 41 minutes and 02 seconds.

The last person crossing the finish line at the police box was Kitty Davis, one of three women who ran the 18 years of age and older course. The other two were Barbara Murdock and Janet Cantillon. Many runners dropped out along the way.

Cloudy skies and cool temperatures helped the runners in their long haul through town. Highland avenue was Winchester's version of "heartbreak hill" reminiscent of the Boston Marathon.

Runners 18 years of age and older covered a seven-mile course; those 13 to 17 years, a 5½ mile course; and those 9 to 12 a 2½ mile course. The following is the list of winners in the three categories:

18 AND OLDER

Charles Tatarian, 37 min., 58 sec.
Reginald Marden, 40 min., 40 sec.
Thomas Kerr, 41 min., 02 sec.

13 TO 17 YEARS

Andrew deMars, 34 min., 45 sec.
William Reynolds, 34 min., 51 sec.
Larry McHugh, 38 min., 40 sec.

9 TO 12 YEARS

Andy Wilsack, 17 min., 42 sec.
Stephen Govostes, 18 min., 25 sec.
William Strazzullo, 18 min., 50 sec.

The Recreation Department, which co-sponsored the marathon with the Winchester Business Association, kept a record of girls crossing the finishing line. They were (18 and over) Barbara Murdock, Janet Cantillon and Kitty Davis; (13-17), Janice Oehm and Janet Noel; and (9-12) Diane Franchi, Jean Oehm and Kathleen Conley.

Several hundred persons watched the start and finish as a band, "Born Dead," played rock music on Main street in the center. The fire prevention car covered the race routes and administered first aid to at least one runner.

Dodgers Halt Undefeated Yankees In Two Shutouts

In what proved to be the most fiercely contested two-game series of the 1973 Little League major league season, the Dodgers defeated the previously unbeaten Yankees twice last week by shutout scores of 1-0 and 3-0.

In the first game pitchers had pretty much their own way as both teams could manage only a pair of hits. Jim Albani went all the way for the Dodgers in a super effort.

Jim was constantly changing speeds and had the hitters completely off balance. Al Pontes and Dave Coppins combined in a fine pitching effort for the Yanks. The only run of the game came in the opening frame as Joe Costello walked, stole second and scored on an infield error.

The fielding gem of the game was pulled off by Festus McDonough, when with a runner on second he made a diving catch of a sinking liner in right. The final frame saw the first Yankee hitters reach base but Albani poured it on and retired the next three hitters to nail down the win.

On Thursday night, before a standing room crowd at West Side Field, the game was a little different. Both teams connected for eight hits but as was the case on Tuesday night the defense won it for the Dodgers.

Walter Ferrera threw the shutout for the winners and was also the fielding star of the game. Walt pounced off the mound to cut off many balls earmarked for base hits. Dave Cannava and Joe Resteghini played great games on the left side of the infield, coming up with great stops of hard hit balls.

The Dodgers nipped starting pitcher Coppins for four hits and two runs in his three-inning stint. Leadoff man Steve Smith led the Dodger attack with three hits. Resteghini scored an insurance run in the sixth to ice the game for the winners.

After a dismal 2-5 start, including some heartbreaking one-run losses, the Dodgers have upped their slate to 9-6 and have been playing the best baseball in the league during the second half of the season. Manager John Schroeder is doing a fine job with this club and his work has not gone unnoticed.

The Mets took over first place in the torrid American major league last week by virtue of a two-game series sweep over the Athletics. They lead by percentage points only because the Reds suffered a rained out game last Wednesday night.

Both teams remain tied in the lost column. On Tuesday night the Mets beat the Athletics by an 8-to-5 score in a fine comeback effort after trailing the Athletics by a 5-to-0 score after 1½ innings.

The Athletics scored five runs in the top of the second on two hits and three walks. O'Neill walked, Rigney singled, Layton walked, to load the bases. Brian McNamara singled in two runs.

John McNamara reached on an error with another run scoring. Two more walks forced in two more runs. The Mets came roaring back however and scored six runs in the third inning and two in the fourth for the victory. In the third Pigott walked, Bill Strazzullo doubled off the top of the fence, Sam Bellino walked, and Dave Parkhurst doubled into the gap in left center for three runs.

Andy Wilsack walked while Johanson, Alfano and Parker all came up with successive singles to make the third a six-run inning.

In the fourth Alan Roche led off with a double, Tony Donlon singled and Sam Bellino scored both runners with a booming triple. Andy Wilsack had a triple and double for the Mets.

On Thursday night the Mets rode the shutout pitching of Don Pigott to an impressive 8-to-0 victory. This was Don's second shutout of the year. His pitching record is now 6 and 0.

The Mets' scoring was pretty well spread out in the game. They scored two in the first on a Peter Johanson triple with two on, one in the second on singles by Pigott and Johanson, two in the fifth on singles by Sam Bellino, an Athletics' error and singles by Mario Alfano and Marc Pelloux.

The Mets closed out the scoring in the sixth on a Kawa single, a fielder's choice, a double by Sam Bellino and a single by Peter Johanson. The Mets had 15 hits in the game, three each by Peter Johanson and Sam Bellino and two each by Kawa, Pigott and Parker.

In American senior league action last week the Indians caught the White Sox and now occupy the top spot after big wins over the Giants and Expos. One game back are the White Sox, closely followed by the Senators in third place.

Meanwhile the Angels in the national division keep rolling along, winning three more games last week to become the only undefeated team in Winchester Little League this season. Their record currently is 11-0-1 with four games remaining on their schedule.

In the American minor league the Jaguars, in a very exciting game, beat the Foxes in extra innings by a score of 9-8. With the Jaguars leading 4-1 in the last inning, Bruce Crawford of the Foxes hit a long home run to knot the score and send the game into overtime.

The first extra inning saw both the Foxes and Jaguars score two runs. In the second overtime inning the Foxes came up with two more runs, only to see the Jaguars pull the game out with three runs in their bottom of the inning.

With the completion of both minor leagues last week the Panthers were the winners in the American division while in the national division it was the Bears. Playoffs begin this week in both divisions with a lot of great baseball yet to come.

Red Sox Are Cap League Champs

The Crown Division Red Sox became the 1973 Cap League champions Saturday when they defeated the Apollos of the Visor Division by 2-1 in a superbly played baseball game at Ginn Field.

Both teams were co-champions of their divisions and were chosen over the Hornets and Eagles, who finished with identical records, on the basis of fewest runs scored against them in league games.

In pre-game ceremonies, the Hornets and Eagles were recognized as co-champs of their divisions. Then the managers, coaches and players of the competing teams were inroduced to the crowd by Cap League director E. T. Blanch, M.D.

Umpire in chief James Stewart, president of Winchester Little League, and field umpire of the home Visor Division were also introduced and took charge of the game.

This pivotal game proved to be one of the best Cap League games of the season as each team played errorless ball. The Apollos took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on an infield ground ball hit by Jonathan Spinney. The Red Sox came back with 2 runs in the fourth inning and took over the lead 2-1 by which margin they won the game and championship.

Dick Williamson, manager of the Red Sox, singled out Steve Tucci and David Sprague, his pitchers, Robert Bosco and Jim Feeley, who scored the runs, and shortstop Jimmy Feldman and first baseman Paul Williamson for their excellent defensive work as outstanding players for their team.

Manager Al Merritt gave credit to Paul Ates and Rick Struthers, pitchers, and Danny Guilderson at second base for superb defense. Ricky Russo and Mark Wilder, in addition to

Beacons' Win Closes Season

In its last game for the championship of division "B" of the Boston Area Youth Soccer (BAYS) league the Winchester Beacons defeated Franklin by the score of 1-0.

The extremely narrow and short field in Franklin worked as a distinct disadvantage for the technically more skilled Beacons. During the first half the Beacons had several scoring chances but failed to tally.

The Beacons dominated the play during the entire second half and Dennis Collins scored from a penalty shot five minutes before the end. As usual Chris Morgan and Tommy Waite excelled on defense. Todd Cronan played strong midfield and Dennis Collins, Tom Mitchell and Mark Nelson were the real threats for the Franklin defense.

With this game the Beacons completed its season of six wins against four losses and finished either tied for second or third depending on scores of remaining games of other teams. The Winchester boys played teams from Needham, Wellesley, Foxboro, Sudbury-Lincoln and Franklin.

Arpad von Lazar and Brian Planagan coached the team.

Celtics End Season With 7-1 Win

The Winchester Celtics completed its 1973 soccer season with an impressive 7-1 victory over Wayland last Saturday.

The game was played in an almost carnival atmosphere as the Celtics were under no pressure, with the league championship safely in their pocket after last week's thrilling win over Wellesley.

The Celtics finished Wayland by scoring early and often, with two goals each from Jim Olivier and Pat Fortin, single-ton goals coming from Mark Sullivan, John Barcus and Barry McQuillan.

This season's team ranks with the best produced in Winchester's five-year program. The "C" team hopes for further success from the boys who will enter the "B" age group next year.

Particular praise is due John Barcus, Patrick Fortin, John Waite, Mike Graffeo and Paul Casey who have played so well for the Celtics for many seasons.

Also, to William Strazzulo, who has been a member of this team for three previous seasons, but missed this year because of injury.

Faculty Outfinishes Student Bombers, 9-8

The Winchester High School faculty softball team, fresh from its impressive win over the ABC-hoys team, was recently challenged by the players of the school team who qualified for the state baseball tournament.

The group, known as Heffernan's Bombers, felt they could give the teachers some lessons in the finer points of the game.

It turned out to be quite a ball game with the Bombers in front by 6-5 going into the last inning. However, Coach Vandy French came through like Frank Merriwell as he blasted a long home run to send the game into extra innings.

There was considerable protest of Chip Roche's decision, the students felling that the ball was foul. But the umpire stuck by his call.

In the tenth frame the Bombers struck for two more runs, but the faculty nine powered by the Social Studies Sluggers, Messrs. Paul Mulloy, George Watson and Joseph Cantillon, had enough to push over three big markers and win the game.

Student Golfers Top WHS Faculty

Winchester High School student golfers took on the faculty in their annual match recently at the Winchester Country Club and came out on top by 9½-4½.

The competition was keen throughout, filled with good sportsmanship and a good time was enjoyed by everybody. There were no runaway matches, and every point was contested right down to the final hole.

Outstanding features were the play of Chuck Birchall, who edged Coach Joe Aversa by 1 up, and Vandy French's 37. This is only 2 above the 35 par, and is surprising in view of the fact that the former Winchester and Tufts star has been busy coaching baseball and playing tennis, with little time for the links game.

4-4-1 Season For Sachem Golfers

Coach Joe Aversa's Winchester High School golfers had a bad afternoon against the high flying Lexington Minutemen in recent play, but they came back strong to beat a good Belmont group by 5-2-3-2.

That is more or less the way the season has gone, with the Winchester team surprising some of the strong teams. The final count shows a 4-4-1 record, which is good, considering the type of competition in the Middlesex League and the small amount of practice time available in comparison to their opponents.

LEXINGTON 8, WINCHESTER 1
Glen Sullivan (L) defeated Jake Casey (W), 5 and 2;
Bob Murphy (L) defeated Wayne Johnson (W), 7 and 5;
James McBride (L) defeated Bob McElhinney (W), 2 up;
Mike Anter (L) defeated Kit Adams (W), 3 and 1;
Dean Peters (L) defeated Chuck Birchall (W), 2 up;
Kevin O'Neil (W) defeated Stephen Bascene (L), 2 and 1.
WINCHESTER 5 1/2, BELMONT 3 1/2
Jake Casey (W) defeated Shea (B), 3 and 2;
Mancuso (B) defeated Wayne Johnson (W), 2 and 1;
Bob McElhinney (W) halved with John Bambla (B);
Kit Adams (W) halved with Mike King (B);
Chuck Birchall (W) defeated R. McCusker (B), 3 and 2;
B. Curtin (B) defeated Kevin O'Neil (W), 4 and 3;
Casey and Johnson and Birchall and O'Neil teams won best ball to give Winchester winning edge.

BASEBALL PLAYER - Jack Finch, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Finch of 9 Hillside ave. and senior at Northeast Regional Vocational School, was a member of the Northeast Regional varsity baseball team which recently completed a successful season.

Northeast Varsity Baseball Team Has 15-5 Season Record

The Northeast Regional High School varsity baseball team, coached by Dick Kelliher, recently completed its most successful season in baseball. In its third year of competition, Northeast became co-champions of the Commonwealth Athletic Conference with a 12-2 league record and an overall record of 15-5.

This championship marks the first ever accomplished by the Knights in its brief existence. The trademark of this year's championship club was team unity and never ending hustle.

In Class C state tournament action, the Knights defeated Mission High School of Roxbury in the first round by a score of 14-1. In the quarterfinal bracket, Northeast, before a sizeable and appreciative crowd, was eliminated by an extremely strong North Reading nine by a 7-2 margin. The game was well played and close until the eighth inning when North Reading pulled away with three insurance runs.

Jack Finch, a senior and son of Mr. and Mrs. John Finch of 9 Hillside ave., was a member of the Northeast baseball team. He played outfield, infield, and pitcher and finished the season with a .333 batting average. His performance in the field was also favorable.

11 Appointed

Rev. Jack Zoerheide, chairman of the Committee for a Winchester Council on Aging, has announced the appointment of 11 townpeople to the recently approved Council on Aging.

With the passage at the recent town meeting of the article requesting that such a council be formed, the Board of Selectmen and the committee for the formation of a Council on Aging have appointed the following to membership to the council.

For three years, Hilda G. Hope, Richard D. Norberg, Leonard M. Rich and Rev. Jack D. Zoerheide.

For two years, Margaret E. Harrigan, Msgr. Joseph W. Lyons, Arthur W. Pratt and Patricia Wells. For one year, Jane M. Armstrong, Malcolm H. Masters and Mary E. Murphy.

Girls Softball Team Ends, 6-4

The Sachemette softball team staged a garrison finish to win two out of its last three games and post a 6-4 slate for the season in recent action.

Coach Joan Rosazza's team dropped a couple of one-run decisions early in the year and were forced to battle uphill all the way to end up with a winning record.

The games with Stoneham and the Tannerettes were real seat squirmers as Winchester topped the former by 6-5 in extra innings while a big six-run fifth frame provided the edge for Woburn. The clash with the Lexington group was something else again as the locals piled up a 17-2 margin with comparative ease.

Going into the last inning with Stoneham the Sachemettes faced a 6-3 deficit. Nancy DeNatale opened the attack with a single and Diana Wood, Martha Fernald and Ellen DeSanctis followed suit. This barrage produced three runs and a 6-6 deadlock. In the extra inning Mary Donovan, Becky Wolfe and once again Nancy DeNatale hit safely to tally the tie breaking run for Winchester.

If the fifth inning could have been eliminated the Rosazza clan would have had another victory. However, they put all of their worst softball in the same inning with a couple of Tannerette hits as six big runs crossed the plate.

When things were looking their blackest, Many Donovan came up with an amazing catch in left field. Winchester rallied in the bottom of the inning for two runs, but just couldn't catch the visitors. Nancy Stillman was the batting leader for the home team with a double and a single.

Lexington's tems usually furnish some of the best competition for the Sachemettes, but this year's game was an exception. The first inning found Winchester running wild as they piled up 11 big runs to put the game far out of reach. They continued their powerful hitting all afternoon.

Martha Fernald, Kathy Lawton, Laurie Abbott and Diana Ward all came up with three safe hits. Diana also pitched an excellent game, allowing only six hits. T. best fielding play was by center fielder Ellen DeSanctis, who raced in to grab a sinking line drive.

It was a happy way to end the season and to insure that the 1973 team produced a winning record.

SWIM TEAM HONORS - Vin Palumbo Jr., Sally Ann Grant and Jose Rivera received trophies at the recent second annual Winchester High School swim team awards night in the presence of about 200 people.

Swim Team Earn Awards

The second annual Winchester High School swim teams awards night was held recently at the Winchester Elks Hall with about 200 attending.

Invited school officials included Mrs. Mary Mears, vice chairman of the School Committee; Mr. and Mrs. William Macdonald, superintendent of schools; Vincent Larocco, high school principal; Henry Knowlton, high school athletic director and Rev. Paul Lynch of St. Eulalia's Parish.

A buffet was prepared by the mothers of both swim teams. Pastries were prepared by the girls' swim team members. Banquet committee members included Mrs. Edward Conley, Mrs. Guy Blasi, Mrs. Mike Minutoli, Mrs. John Williams, Mrs. Joseph Grant and the tri-captain of the girls' swim team, Michelle Graffeo, Kathy Karp, and Marnie Conway.

Vincent Palumbo, coach of the boys' team, and Joseph Grant Jr., coach of the girls' team, capped the past year's performance of their respective teams for the parents and guests.

The most valuable swimmer trophy for the boys' team went to Vincent Palumbo Jr. who co-captained the boys' team along with Phil Gouzele. Palumbo Sr. was also honored for the second year in a row as the most valuable swimmer in the North Division, and the only boy in the division to make the State Top Ten two years in a row.

The Sportsmanship Trophy went to Jose Rivera who received a standing ovation as a result of his assistance to both coaches for both swim teams. His inspiration, dedication and leadership to both teams, his perseverance in his studies coupled with his personality and conduct among the townspeople made him an asset to the community. Coach Palumbo pointed out. Rivera was an ABC student in Winchester who graduated this year and was awarded a scholarship to Springfield College.

The girls' team presented to both coaches swimming plaques inscribed with their names and saying "In appreciation for your time and effort."

The boys' team presented both coaches checks for $45 each. The coaches did not acknowledge them at the banquet, because at the time they thought they were cards accompanying the plaques. Later they reported feeling badly that no one brought this to their attention at the time. They thank the boys for their thoughtfulness and generosity.

Both coaches have turned their checks over to the WHS Swim Team Fund.

Astros Tie, Finish Second

The Winchester-Medford Astros' soccer team ended its season with a 1-to-1 tie at Weston, giving them second place in the BAYS League. Weston won first place.

Going into that game, Winchester had a record of 5-2-0 and Weston 6-1-0. A win for Winchester would have given it a tie for first place, necessitating a playoff for the cup. But Winchester could only register a tie score. A second Winchester goal was disallowed by the referee for off-side.

Weston's record is 6-1-1, and strangely the only loss and tie which blemished its record was at the hands of Winchester. Of the 30 goals scored by Weston only one found its way into the Winchester net.

Weston scored in the first four minutes of the game, and 14 minutes later Medford's Bernie Belcastro, playing for Winchester, scored the tying goal. Winchester outplayed Weston in the first half, but began to tire in the second half from anxiety and frustration after several scoring attempts failed. The Winchester team played one of its best games of the season.

ADVANTAGES OF BUYING A HOUSE

The decision on whether to buy a house or rent is one that almost every family considers eventually. If this is your case, here are a few thoughts to consider.

First, an equity (cash value) is built up as you pay for the house over the years. And, its resale value can increase greatly, as has been the case in recent times, with rising real estate prices.

Also, property taxes, school taxes and mortgage interest can be deducted from income taxes. (Rent cannot be deducted from anything but the check account). For example, interest on the first year of a 20 year, $20,000 mortgage at 8 percent is close to $1,600, which is tax deductible.

There is no fear of a raise in rent at the end of each lease period. Payments remain the same for the life of the mortgage. Finally, where else can you find an investment that you and your family can live in while its value increases?

If you have any questions on this subject or on any other aspect of Real Estate, please feel free to call or drop in at JAMES T. TREFREY, INC., REALTORS, 27 Waterfield Road, Winchester - Tel. 729-6100.

History Committee Interviews Writers

The Winchester History committee is still searching for a writer to compile the second volume of Winchester's history, which will cover town events from 1935 to the end of 1974.

According to Bradford Eddy, chairman, the committee has interviewed a number of persons. He said he didn't know yet when someone would be chosen.

The history would cover the great growth in population of the town, he said, declining to use the term sociological study, events affecting the community such as the three wars since 1935, the latter part of the depression and town events.

Eddy supposed that the volume would be a chronological compilation of events, noting changes that have occurred.

He said he didn't know the cost of printing the book, but said that in November the committee had hoped to hold the cost between $25,000 and $30,000. The town would receive revenue back as the volumes are sold.

The printing will be in two parts: a republishing of Chapman's "History of Winchester" and the new volume. Chairman Eddy said, "The committee is glad to receive applications from people interested in writing the history." He said it will involve considerable research.

Besides Eddy, members of the committee are Mrs. Charles Began, chairman; Leonor Rich, Frances VerPlanck and James W. Blackman Jr. There are two vacancies awaiting appointment by the Board of Selectmen. The two new seats were created by the last town meeting.

New Scholarship

Supt. of Schools William MacDonald notified the Winchester School Committee recently at a School Committee meeting that custodians in the school system would be benefactors of a $200 scholarship per year to be granted to a Winchester student through the Winchester Scholarship Fund.

A Charter Commission For Winchester? Questions And Answers At Hearing

The Town Government Study Committee meets Monday to decide whether it has enough public support to go ahead with its plan to create a charter commission in Winchester to recommend possible changes in town government.

Though few of the public attended last Wednesday's hearing to inform the voters what a charter commission is all about—50 persons were there—the questions asked two charter commission experts didn't indicate my general opposition.

The following are some of the public's questions and the answers as given by Atty. Robert D. Smith, municipal consultant and specialist in local government, and John C. Dalton, director of the office of municipal planning and management in the Department of Community Affairs:

Q. How can the commission possibly study the government fully in 10 months?

A. It will be difficult, requiring a great deal of time and help, perhaps from professional consultants.

Q. How much will the whole thing cost?

A. If the voters approve a commission, the town must give a basic stipend of $2,000 for initial expenses. Additional expenses may not exceed $20,000. Average is between $8,000 and $10,000.

Q. Why have 50 percent of charter revision proposals in Massachusetts been rejected by communities?

A. Because some charter commissions asked for too many changes all at once. Radical change reduces chances of success.

Q. Are there methods available for changes other than through a charter commission?

A. Yes, depending on what the changes are. Some require special legislation—such as adopting a town manager form of government and limited town meeting.

Q. Is there a waiting period after the charter has been adopted before the changes are instituted?

A. No, changes can take place anytime.

Q. Does the town have to have a charter?

A. No. But by 1976 all towns and cities must have a document listing all laws under which the town functions, which would be called a charter. Winchester has no such document.

Q. How does a charter protect a community?

A. It doesn't really. The state still has the authority to pass laws affecting communities.

Q. Will the School Committee be affected?

A. No. The committee's autonomy and right to run schools cannot be changed. But a commission could require a town central purchasing department, remove maintenance of school grounds and building from the committee.

Q. What sort of stance has the legislature taken toward the home rule amendment?

A. The legislature has ignored principle many times and this is "absolutely illegal" (Dalton).

Q. How does charter activity affect town meeting and vice versa?

A. The commission gets off the ground and functions by citizen action, not town meeting action. The charter commission should have the benefit of town meeting through open hearings when town meeting views could be heard. The commission could establish a charter whereby revisions could be made by town meeting consistent with the charter, as at present.

Q. Are the power of referendum retained under a charter?

A. This depends on how the new charter changes the method of referendum. The charter changes automatically go to the voters for enactment or defeat.

Q. How do you get good people to run?

A. Through active involvement in recruitment by town activists.

Q. Can charter commission members be elected or appointed officials?

A. Yes, and probably should be. One problem is time. A charter commission requires a great deal of time and might make it difficult for town officials to run.

Q. It is good to have many candidates run?

A. Yes. The more the better.

Selectman Chairman Arthur E. Dunbar said the board will "support the effort in any way we can." He felt a commission a good idea, one that he recognizes as complicated and requiring vigilance in order to do the job well.

Dalton said a commission "is absolutely no threat to local government"—its purpose is to examine local government and devise effective solutions to problems, he said.

Smith said of the communities in Massachusetts changing their charters, the most common change has been in replacing open town meeting with limited. He also said a trend of charter commissions has been to establish centralization of executive powers. The most successful charter revisions, he

Sullivan States Hospital Bill Stipulations

Selectman John J. Sullivan Monday at the weekly board meeting outlined in detail the four stipulations Winchester will ask the Supreme Judicial Court to include in its decree in the county commissioners' case against Winchester:

1. A statement that the Middlesex County Hospital will apply for new reimbursement rates to communities for patient care and will sponsor legislation requiring new rates every year;

2. A plan of action on how the hospital will recover the $400,000 loss incurred since 1971 when it failed to appeal a tentative rate decision;

3. What health programs the hospital is involved in and what future health programs planned;

4. What their plans are for legislation to provide relief for treatment of patients outside the county.

The town will submit a brief to the court in July. The county will then have a chance to rebut the brief. Sullivan said he hopes the town can reach an agreement with the county "as to the future of the hospital as it is related to our bill."

The Board of Selectmen and town treasurer were recently brought to court for failing to pay a $40,000 county hospital assessment bill.

Sullivan said he would also like to know if the town is charged for the bills of patients who are covered by insurance.

The selectmen Monday voted to ask the town engineer and building commissioner to look into the cutting of trees on land bounded by Cambridge street and Murphy, Ayer and Blossom Hill roads. Eleven trees were felled there Monday, Sullivan said he had been told, to the great surprise of officials and residents, who bought homes in the area after being advised the private road there would not be developed.

The selectmen confirmed the appointments by Police Chief Edward F. Bowler of John J. Alford of 78 Irving st. and James R. Gallant of Medford as special police officers. Peter M. Skerry, previously appointed to fill a position of an officer killed in an automobile accident, resigned to take another job.

Tree Warden Robert G. O'Brien informed the board of an experimental program he is initiating to cure Dutch elm disease. He said cost of removal of a dead Dutch elm is $300 and "if we decide to follow this program we could possibly save three trees for the same price."

O'Brien said 10 trees affected by the disease will be treated at a cost of $1,000.

The board voted to ask the Water and Sewer Board for an immediate reply why the board hasn't paid a $64.90 claim outstanding since August of 1971. John M. Reppucci of 73 Salisbury st. filed the claim for damage to his car received during a water main cleaning program.

He said Water and Sewer will acknowledge the claim "but refuses to take action and now even to discuss the matter."

Selectman Sullivan said Reppucci deserves the money "if for nothing else, than perseverance."

He called it "arrogance" on the part of Water and Sewer in refusing to pay the money.

The board appointed Carmen Frongillo of 200 Swanton st. to the composting committee.

Metro Education Gets Board Nod

The Winchester School Committee Tuesday voted to join a federally funded metropolitan education planning program for the Greater Boston region; accepted an elementary school lunch recommendation from Supt. of Schools William C. MacDonald; decided to hold onto the old Lincoln School property until September; and heard about budget problems from Winchester High School Principal Vincent Larocco.

Metro Education

Two weeks ago John Gibson, director of the Lincoln Filene Center and a Winchester resident, appealed to the local school committee to join 17 other school committees and 38 other school districts in a plan calling for quality integrated education in the Greater Boston region.

The proposal, which will be paid for through an $890,000 federal grant under the Emergency School Aid Act, is intended to provide greater educational opportunities for all students and to reduce minority group isolation through voluntary exchange of students and facilities, curriculum brought about through regional collaboration, joint purchase of supplies, and a general sharing of facilities and teachers with other districts.

School Committee members, who unanimously voted to join the plan, commented on why they were slow to join the planning proposal. They addressed their remarks for the most part to the audience.

Committeeman Richard B. Lawrence said he still objects to some of the wording in the proposal but feels the "tone of the larger document (provided by Gibson) is better than the earlier received summary" received from the office of Lou Amadio of the Greater Boston Regional Education Center.

Committeeman Stephen Parkhurst said, "At some point in time the program will be happening. Winchester will be well advised to participate rather than have others decide our fate for us." He said he opposed the proposal before but now favors it. The committee members unanimously agreed to join the planning program.

School Lunches

Supt. MacDonald repeated results of a recent school lunch program survey in which parents were offered four options:

Option 1, one-hour lunch, favored by 303 surveyed; Option 2, rescheduled classes to allow a 30-minute lunch period, favored by 432; Option 3, rescheduled classes allowing a 40-minute lunch period, preferred by 214; and Option 4, a one-hour lunch in the spring and fall with 30-minute lunches from January through March, wanted by 498.

MacDonald, who called the lunch program "an emotional one" in which "you can't win with any solution," recommended Option 4, feeling this plan offered the merits of the 30-minute as well as the longer lunch periods.

He read a letter from elementary school principals who opposed Option 4, preferring Option 2 which would allow individual principals to take care of the matter at their schools.

Andrew Allen, principal of Parkhurst School, pointed out that pupils at his school who go home for an hour lunch are usually back at the school in 20-30 minutes. Committee member Richard Pharo agreed that 30 minutes was long enough for a pupil's lunch but this would not satisfy parents' desire to have their children come home, he noted.

On the matter of possibly making bus schedule adjustments, vice-chairman Mary Mears said she feels Winchester should go by state guidelines and offer school bus transportation only to students living two miles away. "Walking did our parents and us good and would help students today," she offered. She suggested that before bus awards are granted another year that the entire busing system be reviewed, and insisted this suggestion be put on record for future reference when she may not be a School Committee member. She pointed out she had been asking for this for the past three years.

Lawrence made a motion that Option 4 be accepted. The committee agreed unanimously.

ABC Students: Mostly Favorable

Five were recent graduates of Winchester High School who plan to go on to higher education come fall. Five expect to return to Winchester High School next September as members of the senior class.

The 10 boys, who will be spending the summer with their real families in different sections of the country, are participants in Winchester's "A Better Chance" program. Before they left, three of the boys explained the ABC approach to education for The Star and offered a glimpse of the programs from their point of view.

The boys interviewed were George Natal of Bronx, N.Y., Keith Randleman of Winston-Salem, N.C., and Donald Williams of Columbus, Ohio. All three were juniors this past year at Winchester High School and lived in the ABC House at 2 Dix St.

Coming to Winchester was a new experience for George, Keith and Donald. It was the first time that each had been away from home for any length of time in his lives. "It was a real challenge to me," recalls Donald pointing out how "I knew I had to be strong or I could easily become drained."

Keith remembers not worrying "about being rejected." The fact that the town was having an ABC program told him he would be accepted. He recalls feeling that friendliness was "fake at first" but as time went on and "they knew us better" it was a happier situation.

Keith found studying the most difficult in those first days because school in Winchester

"was more concentrated and very direct," he says.

George found moving away from home hardest because he wondered how his mother was getting on. The oldest of four children, George's mother is a superintendent of a building. "I always helped her and when I left 'my brother' had to pick up the slack. My mother wanted me to go because I will be the first to graduate in our family."

Donald who has one sister points to his family as being happy about ABC. They realize "it is an educational gain for me coming to a better quality school," he says. "My mother wants to see her children get ahead," joins in Keith. "She knows I'm bettering myself." Keith is one of three children.

Host Families

The boys speak of each having a host family who considers them a family member to participate in family experiences. Because of academic workload and activities with the ABC family the boys point out that often Sunday dinner is the only time they are able to visit host families. Each host family has a high school student among its members.

The boys point to Winchester as being a nice place in which to live and a place with friendly people. The majority of students accept ABC students for themselves "but we've had our share of verbal abuse," the boys say.

They say that many friendships have developed during the two years they've been in Winchester and when they go home in the summertime they continue to keep in touch through letter writing.

Some of their friendships are with Winchester girls. Two of the boys describe similar friendships with differing results.

One boy speaks of a similar friendship with a Winchester girl. "It was nothing romantic," he explains, "we just like talking with each other and doing things together." He spoke of this girl's parents as accepting him into their home with hospitality and

Limiting

Gas Stations Feel Squeeze, Cut Back Hours, Purchases

To combat the gasoline shortage and conserve gas supplies for regular customers, Winchester gas stations are closing earlier, staying open fewer days and limiting gas supplies to regular customers.

Wheaton's Texaco Station at Cambridge and Pond sts. notes since the nationwide gas shortage they are "seeing more strangers these days than they've ever seen." "The demand is greater than the supply," the Wheaton spokesman said. So to conserve gas for regular customers they've been closing earlier, cutting out Sunday service and last week limited sales to strangers to 10 gallons.

The Turner Sunoco Station at 669 Main St. reports cutbacks in gas began last May, with their quota 10 percent less than this time last year. Turner has been closing 2½ hours earlier, closing Sundays and allowing only 10 gallons to each customer.

Turner says he's been suggesting to his regular customers that they gas up early in the day since he's trying to keep within his quota by budgeting sales to a fixed number of gallons per day. "Some of my customers don't like it," the owner says, "but others are beginning to change their opinion that the shortage is 'a big fake' to a reality."

The Theatre Mobil Station at 643 Main St. calls the shortage "lousy" for his business. Short supply for this station began June 16. They used to order 48,000 gallons per month. Now they're down to 29,000. They've been limiting customers to 10 gallons and closing at 6 on weekdays, 2 on Saturdays and are closed Sundays. Most of the customers seem to understand and come "twice a week."

O'Connell's Shell Station at 585 Main St. reports getting the same amount of gas as last year but they could use more. O'Connell has been closing an hour earlier because other stations are closing earlier. "And with just one man on, we can't give our best service. We pride ourselves on our service," he said.

Keenan's Citgo Station at 10 Swanton St. has cut their hours back. They used to be open on Sunday from 8-2 p.m.; now they are closed all day. Also they have been closing from one to two hours earlier on week days depending on gas sold that day in an effort to budget supply for the month. Keenan's has been cut back 20 percent.

Ken's Mobil Station at 582 Washington St. has had to cut back hours including closing on Sundays due to quotas imposed.

Phil's Citgo at 1012 Main St. reports having been cut back 20 percent at first, now it's just 10 percent. They are open fewer hours each day and closed Sundays. And "if we get to the point where we are getting low we will have to begin to ration our customers," they report.

Reardon's Texaco station, 641 Main St., appears to be the only station in town that finds everything "fine." So far they have not been subjected to a quota and haven't had to refuse a customer yet, but they don't know how long this will last.

The Winchester Citgo station at 611 Main St., which closed recently, is reported ready to open within a week - with gas, according to a Citgo spokesman. The closing had nothing to do with the gasoline shortage, a Citgo official said.

The Tulsa station on Main street near the Woburn line closed several months ago due to the gasoline shortage.

3-Band Concert Saturday Night

A concert featuring three bands will perform Saturday night at McCall Junior High School gymnasium.

One of the bands is the Blues Child, a group in which John Torres played lead guitar. Torres died last week in a motorcycle accident.

The other bands will be the Reddy Teddy and Max. The concert begins at 8 and continues to 11:30 p.m. A fourth band had to be scratched because of a lack of room in the gym.

Members who will be playing in Torres's old group will be Matthew MacKenzie, who normally plays guitar with Reddy Teddy but will take Torres's place in Blues Child; Rupert Stanley, drums; Jeff Wilbur, bass; Vaughn Mullen, guitar; Brianna Keller will be vocalist.

There is no admission charge for this rock concert.

Town Meeting

Pool Bids High, Action Uncertain

Bids on a new Leonard Pool came in higher than expected and town meeting action tonight on the replacement facility is uncertain.

Originally expected to be around $200,000, the bids opened Tuesday afternoon were:

Hufarelli General Contracting Co. of Brighton, $233,100; W. Hickey Co., Inc., of North Attleborough, $233,813; Albert Brothers of Wakefield, $258,274; and Mark Warren Industries of Weymouth Hills, $268,492.

Those are the basic "general" bids. To each one must be added $11,500 for contingencies, $2,200 for gas, $2,400 for clerk of the works, $1,000 for water, $6,795 for architectural fees and $1,750 for miscellaneous, for a total of $25,645, making cost of a new Leonard Pool $258,475. The Permanent Building Committee would be required by law to accept the low bidder.

The Board of Selectmen and Finance Committee recently voted to recommend approval of a new artificial pool to replace the man-made pond at Leonard Field. But approval was on the basis that cost of the pool would be around $200,000.

Town meeting has twice voted funds toward a new pool. Both were $8,500—one for a study and the other vote for plans. But both appropriations were predicated on the pool costing about $200,000.

In recent summers swimming at the pond, located between Cross, Washington and Collamore streets and Nathaniel rd., has been interrupted by water fouled from excessive iron ore, stagnation and other pollution problems.

If town meeting fails to appropriate the money for new construction, a second warrant article at the special town meeting beginning tonight at the new high school at 7:45 p.m. seeks to take $200,000 from surplus revenue to lower the tax rate. Money in the surplus revenue account has been "reserved" in case a new pool is built.

The selectmen Monday said that if the bids came in over $200,000 they would reconsider their earlier support and take another vote on their recommendation.

The special meeting will also consider supporting legislation to allow Winchester to pass a law against the consumption of alcohol in public places. The selectmen included the article in the warrant at the request of a citizen and Monday voted their support for the idea.

Originally the warrant article was aimed at getting town meeting backing for a bill in the legislature which would allow towns to pass anti-public drinking laws, action now allowed all cities and those towns with charters.

But Edward F. Donnelly, executive secretary to the Board of Selectmen, said the bill is expected to receive an adverse committee report in the legislature and go down to defeat.

Holdup Men Hit Drugstore

Aberjona Apothecary at 888 Main St. was robbed of about $1,000 in drugs and cash Tuesday at 7 p.m. by two men who held three clerks at bay and escaped in a car driven by a third man.

Patrick Palladino Jr. was painting at the doorway when the two men entered the store. One held a nickel plated gun at his neck and ordered him to the rear drug cabinet while the other ordered Palladino's mother against a wall.

Mrs. Patrick Palladino, meanwhile, had pressed a silent alarm which police said failed to light up at the police station.

While one of the men rifled through the medicine compartment, the other ordered Mrs. Palladino and her husband, Pat, into a rear room and forced them to lie on the floor.

The men then ripped the telephones from the wall and scooped the cash out of the register at the front of the store. They fled through the vacant lot next door, at the corner of Water St., where a car was waiting.

As the car fled down Water St., Pat Palladino Jr. ran after it. He was joined by a passerby but the speeding car disappeared onto Farrow street a short distance from the corner of Main and Water streets.

The rear license plate of the car, which covers the gasoline cap, was turned down, the police said.

This is the third armed robbery at the pharmacy in a year. The store is covered by federally sponsored non-cancellable crime insurance, a program designed to help businessmen in high risk areas.

The store has also been hit with a number of burglaries. A series of alarm devices is thought to have helped reduce burglaries.

The two men who entered the store Tuesday were described as 20 to 23 years of age. One was a white male, six feet, 140 pounds, with shoulder length blond hair parted in the middle. He was wearing a mustache.

The other was described as black, six feet, 185 to 200 pounds, with short dark hair. The man in the waiting car was white, police said. The white male in the store was also described as being nervous. There were no customers in the store at the time of the holdup.

No Change For Parking Area At USA Rink

The owners of the Universal Sports Arena off Conant road don't intend to pave the parking area behind the rink and have cancelled all Middlesex County League hockey games for next year.

Selectman John J. Sullivan, who has been studying problems associated with the indoor skating facility, told the Board of Selectmen this week that the owners feel paving the area behind the rink once planned for parking is not "economically attractive."

Sullivan also said he was informed by the owners that the cancellation of all Middlesex games will obviate the need for paving the parking area. The only games that will be played at USA will be Winchester High School hockey.

Sullivan also reported that other problems associated with the rink have been corrected. At the times he checked, there were no cars parked on the access road, the Edison lights have been turned toward the rink and away from houses, litter baskets have been installed in the area and the large decorative rocks sometimes thrown at a nearby greenhouse have been removed.

He added, however, that the owners have not agreed on reducing the illumination on the sign. A ventilating fan can only be operated five minutes an hour between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The selectmen said they will decide next week what if any action to take on the information the rear parking lot won't be paved.

In other action, the selectmen voted to ask Police Chief Edward F. Bowler to establish a policy on appointment of permanent policeman. With several vacancies awaiting to be filled and residents no longer receiving preference over non-residents, the board wants to know what the department's policy is regarding the distance from the town officers may live.

The continuing disagreement between the selectmen and Water and Sewer Board of a $85 claim against the town dating back to 1971 came up again but didn't move closer to solution.

The selectmen will ask Water and Sewer to report to them weekly on the issue and also to report if there are any other outstanding claims against the town.

The board tentatively adopted a policy in regard to private use of town vehicles. In essence the policy prohibits any private use of town vehicles, including out-of-state travel and transporting persons other than town employees.

The board voted to trim trees around street lights to improve illumination at dark areas as requests for additional street lights are received.

In other business, the methods and procedures committee met with selectmen to discuss the future location and new uses of the data processing equipment.

The present location of the computer equipment, in the basement area of Town Hall, has presented an environmental problem. The methods people report the problem has been temporarily reduced with the addition of a dehumidifier. Yet, according to Richard Perreault, data processing manager, "We can almost wring water out of supplies" due to humid conditions.

Another problem with the present location is its "shortage of space" and not enough privacy to allow operations to be conducted without "constant interruption and too many people running through."

Concerning new applications for the Winchester computer system, Stanley Hart and other methods committee members spoke of including computer instruction in the Winchester High School math curriculum and noted a "feasibility study" is now in progress by their group and the School Department.

If the feasibility study findings indicate the instructional application should be added to the system, which the men say would not destroy any programs already a part of the core memory and would not be costly, there is a possibility the entire computer system could be moved to the high school.

Yet, in view of the likelihood the School

Committee would not be ready to act on such a proposal until 1974, Selectman Lawrence T. Smith suggested "the tail wag the dog" if the methods group waits till then to set its priorities on objectives affecting the overall computer system.

Selectmen Vito Giarrizzo and William Chapman agreed and asked the methods people to set priorities and report back with data on problems and recommendations. Discussion brought forth priorities in this order: environmental situation, space allocation for data processing potential expansion, school use, and finally, new applications such as management systems.

Selectmen appeared to agree that if the humidity problem is licked, it might be best to make the Town Hall the permanent location for the computer system and its future expansion. Selectman John Sullivan went so far as to say it might be better to move the town treasurer and other adjacent offices elsewhere to make room for expansion of the entire computer operation.

When Sullivan asked Perreault how Winchester's system compared with other communities, the answer was "way ahead." Perreault said, "We supply other towns with our applications," pointing to real estate and attendance applications as most often requested.

In brief dialogue pertaining to putting school and library records on microfilm, it was noted that comptroller James Costello will be coordinator. A recommendation will be forthcoming at an August meeting.

Winchester Merchant

Baskin-Robbins Offers Hand-Packed Ice Cream

A young boy about 10 walked into a local store, took gum from his mouth, put it in a rubbish bin, walked up to the merchant's counter and said "I'll have a chocolate chip cone."

This scene is repeated over and over again at Baskin-Robbins at 527 Main st., and will be more prevalent during the summer. The store is open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Leo Davis of Malden bought the business last August. He was in the industrial catering business for 18 years previously. Besides his wife, Dolores, and his son, Sammy, he has five part-time employees.

Justin O'Connor, a pre-med student at Tufts and a call fireman, works at the store afternoons. Four part-time girls include Kathleen Rhubarb, Patricia Cullen, Rebecca Wolfe, and Eva Orman.

Baskin-Robbins always carries 31 flavors in addition to the traditional vanilla, strawberry and chocolate. Of the 31 flavors about 15 of these remain constant because of their popularity while the remaining change on a rotating basis.

Davis explains that due to customer demand chocolate ribbon and chocolate chip are now included in the constantly available flavors while "here come the fudge," a new flavor coming out this week, will leave and return at a later time. "Here comes the fudge" is coffee ice cream with pieces of fudge brownie and nuts.

Another current special feature of Baskin-Robbins is new processed sherbet containing chilled fruits which have a natural consistency rather than being frozen solid. Flavors include "fruit tree," with pear, peach, pineapple, mandarin orange and maraschino cherry; "pineapple" and "bing cherry."

With all of its various flavors Davis points to vanilla as the most frequently asked for flavor. "We sell twice as much vanilla as any other flavor," he says.

"Yet people are becoming addicted to one of our new flavors," he says, pointing to "pralines 'n cream," which appears to be becoming the most popular now.

Davis tells about a fellow ordering a dish of "Scotch on the rocks," one of the available 31 flavors. The man sat down and ate his ice cream, then got up and said "It didn't taste like Scotch." Davis laughed as he explained the scotch referred to butterscotch and reminded the fellow he was in a dry town.

Special features of Baskin-Robbins are its made-to-order ice cream cakes and pies. Davis notes he has molds for Snoopy, Porky Pig, Raggedy Ann and Andy, Mickey Mouse, Peter Rabbit, hearts for Valentine's Day and other molds for special holidays.

Public Drinking Law

Town meeting members will be asked to act on an anti-public drinking article during the special town meeting which convenes tonight. The Board of Selectmen favors a law that would in effect ban all drinking in public places.

Though Police Chief Edward F. Bowler has indicated to the board that the aim of the bill is not to stop everyone with a can of beer in his hand, but rather to eliminate youths drinking on the streets in front of police officers, the result of such a law nevertheless would be to give the police the power to stop anyone with a can of beer in his hand.

The selectmen originally inserted an article in the warrant in support of a bill in the legislature which would have allowed towns to pass anti-public drinking ordinances. But that bill now appears to be in trouble and so this week the selectmen said they will ask the town meeting to petition the legislature to pass a bill allowing Winchester to adopt an anti-public drinking by-law. A subsequent town meeting would act on the matter.

The selectmen have indicated they favor a by-law banning the consumption of alcohol on all public streets and in all public places, such as parks, beaches, and recreation areas.

Its purpose in giving police more authority to control the drinking habits of young persons causing a disturbance would also control the drinking habits of everyone else because the by-law would be a law. The police very likely would not apply the law to everyone, only youths creating a disturbance. But is that fair—to use a law against one segment of the population and not another?

Thus a resident of the town would be forbidden to sit on any town-owned land with a can of beer in his hand. It would prohibit consumption of alcohol at organization picnics held in any of the public parks. Though the police say this is not the intent of the proposal, it could be the result if they felt otherwise.

And the police don't really need any additional power in controlling what is controllable under other laws. There are statutes on the books now for controlling all of the things this latest bill is aimed at. There are laws against disorderly conduct, loitering, trespassing and drunkenness, sufficient power for the police in dealing with unruly youths.

Karl J. Hirshman, a lawyer and member of the town's Finance Committee, recently pointed out a disturbing aspect of the proposed legislation: It doesn't distinguish between degrees of drinking. It prohibits all drinking in public, not just excessive drinking. Mr. Hirshman argues that the bill is probably unconstitutional because of that failure and calls it "an infringement on personal liberties."

It is surprising that in a town such as Winchester, which prides itself on independence and freedom of action, a proposal such as this should have advanced as far as it has—from a citizen's request, to endorsement by the Board of Selectmen and support from the Finance Committee.

We trust the town meeting members will have a greater regard for the rights of the citizens of Winchester than to favor this proposal.

Letters To The Editor

Thank You Note

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The family of Frederick J. Marasca and his fiancée, Lois Burk, wish to extend to all you wonderful people who helped us through our dark days our sincere appreciation for all that you did. You gave Frederick and us great pride and restored our faith in people.

We wish we could thank each of you individually, but there were so many of you and many of you we, regrettably, so don't know. Words could never fully express what is in our hearts, but with you all being the type of people you are, we are sure you understand. All of us pray that God will keep you and yours in His Grace always and you will forever be in our thoughts and prayers. We thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

Station Filth

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Almost seven weeks ago I wrote to the selectmen complaining of the conditions around the Winchester railroad station. As of this date I have not had the courtesy of a reply and no action has been taken to remedy the situation.

Therefore, I am enclosing a copy of my letter to them and should appreciate your printing this in The Star. Perhaps the Winchester Environmental Protection Association and other citizens more influential than I are in a better position to get results.

I should like to add that when several years ago I complained to Mr. Sherman Saltmarsh, then a member of the Board of Selectmen, of the graffiti on the pedestrian underpass at the station, the situation was taken care of almost immediately and those walls were kept clean until these last few months. I am disappointed that the present selectmen apparently are unconcerned about the appearance of the town.

(Miss) Marlon F. Hatch
2 Meadowcroft rd.

The following is Miss Hatch's letter to the Board of Selectmen:
"Yesterday I had occasion to take the train to Boston. I was appalled at the filthy surroundings at the Winchester railroad station. It is hard to believe that any area in a so-called "less desirable" community, such as Chelsea, Revere, Everett or Charlestown, could be any worse.

"Most offensive to me was the graffiti scribbled on walls at both the upper and lower levels, on the ramps and the building itself. Why decent people should have to be subjected, many of them twice a day, to nasty four-letter words because of a few dirty-minded kids is beyond me. There is nothing new about dirty writing in public places but what is new is that it is allowed to remain.

"The litter, most of it obviously far from recent, is everywhere. Apparently, we are unable to educate some people but we could at least clean up after them.

"Perhaps the most indicative of the "don't care" attitude is the seatless seats. Is it not possible to install benches, perhaps made entirely of metal or concrete, which would better resist vandalism? If there is no shelter to get in out of the weather while waiting for the train, there should be at least a place to sit down.

"Regardless of who has jurisdiction of the area, it does seem to me that the town could assume the responsibility for keeping it clean and neat. Certainly the taxes are high enough so that such an expectation is not unreasonable.

"I realize the police have a lot of territory to cover but if they kept an eye on the station area, even though it would certainly mean getting out of the patrol car and walking to the upper level at odd times, sooner or later those few youngsters who are probably responsible for the graffiti and vandalism would get discouraged.

"Would it not be possible to assign one employee of the Highway Department to clean up the litter daily and to scrub off the scribbling if and when it appears? A substitute should be named to cover these duties in case of absence.

"Do we have an anti-littering regulation in Winchester and, if so, why is it not enforced? It can be done, you know. I have just returned from New Orleans, a large city with many illiterates, but you rarely see any rubbish on the sidewalk and streets. The police are vigilant and people really do pay fines.

"May I suggest that the Board of Selectmen take a tour of this squalor and see the disgusting sights for themselves?

"I should appreciate hearing from you."

ATOMS Flea Market

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Mystic Valley Chapter of Atoms would like to take this time to express to you our deep appreciation for all the publicity afforded us in conjunction with our annual flea market held on May 20 at the Winchester High School.

Many, many times in the past you have gone out of your way to give us publicity. Your help made our flea market a real success.

TGSC Coupon On Charter Commission

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Town Government Study Committee wishes to express its appreciation for the interest shown by those attending the June 13 charter commission forum and calls attention to the coupon in this week's Star which provides a means for interested citizens to start active participation in the charter commission process.

The most compelling reason for a charter for the Town of Winchester is to give citizens greater control over local affairs and to minimize involvement of the General Court in purely local matters.

The Board of Selectmen and other town officials have publicly endorsed the charter commission effort which is being coordinated by the Town Government Study Committee. The committee urges all citizens to avail themselves of this unique opportunity to participate directly in the structuring of Winchester's government.

Robert J. Grenzeback, Chairman
Town Government Study Committee

Library ... A Delight

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I know there are many residents, like me, who have a great appreciation of our Winchester Library. I am afraid we forget to tell it from the rooftops.

There are also many of us who enjoy and find most helpful the splendid book reviews which the staff prepares, and which The Star publishes. Like good music and the intangible things of beauty, these reviews enrich the reader.

We may not always read the books reviewed—but at least we know what is new, timely, of worth. Any many times I put in my reserve card for one I want to read and enjoy.

It must take many extra hours for the busy staff to read these books, select the salient material and place it within the reach of the reader. I have always marveled at the excellent writing of these library ladies.

Please continue to use any reviews that they send in—for many of us, they are the first thing we turn to. And please—also may I add a personal work of thanks to the staff of the library for their helpfulness, their friendliness, their quick smile and shared knowledge which make it a delight to enter the doorway of the Winchester Library.

Mrs. George E. Connor

With the money that we made, we will be able to provide transportation to and from meetings for those who otherwise would be unable to attend meetings. Some of the money will be used for entertainment and recreation, for example, the renting of the Woburn YMCA during winter months so that members can get out and swim, many for the first time in many years.

It is the aim of our group to make the patients feel that they can function again within society and even to be important to others. This comes first from being in contact with others with M.S. and then, hopefully through a growing interest in other activities and people, outside of the group.

Thank you again for all you help and cooperation. Without it, the organization would not be the success it has become. We would not be able to reach out to others who need the help of the group.

Edith Johnson, Secretary
Mystic Valley Atoms

Abortion: Tragedy

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Dear Citizens of Winchester:
It is unbelievable that we have come so far and have sunk so low in the name of intellectualism.

Our civilized society has allowed killing to become the final solution for the smallest of all human beings. This human being is in an aging process, as we all are, at this very moment.

On Jan. 22, 1973, the Supreme Court stated the unborn child has no legal rights and that the mother has "fundamental personal liberty" all nine months of pregnancy. A woman and a doctor may put a child to death for any reasons, at any time.

What the Supreme Court failed to note is that the unborn child's heart is functioning by 40 days. This is life without question.

Studies conducted by Dr. Albert Liley of New Zealand proved the unborn child is a highly complex human being. He is biologically, genetically and physiologically different from the mother. He has his own life support system, similar to the astronauts'. But the unborn child built his own.

Before you quickly say the woman has the right to her body, you should learn that the unborn child is not HER body. Before you make a life or death decision, learn all the facts about abortion.

Our society will not accept the killing of innocent human beings at any stage of development as the solution to any problem.

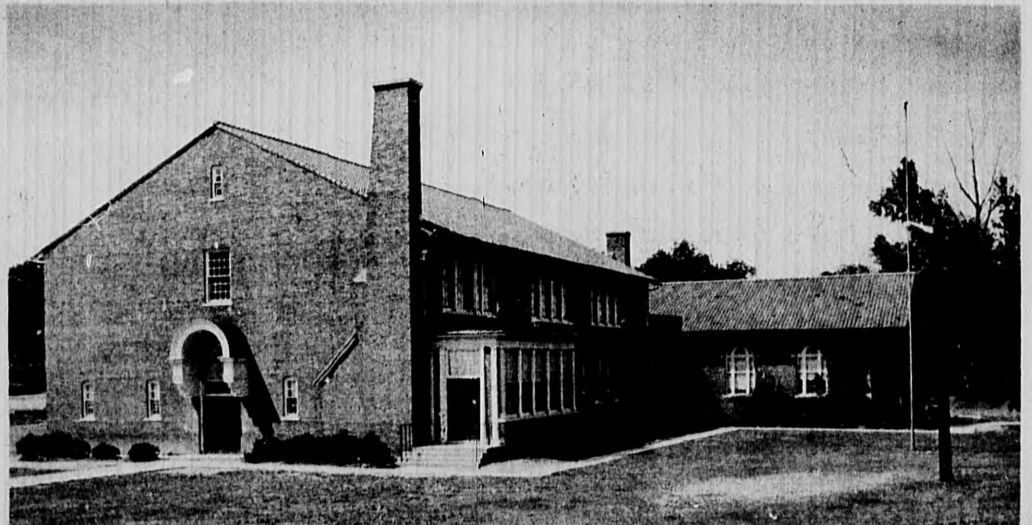

This is evidenced by the growing thousands of people in the pro-life organizations.

Stand up and defend the voiceless and defenseless human being. Give him his time within time. We can and will reverse this needless tragedy.

Leonard Pool Appropriation Doubtful; School Committee Up To Its Old Tricks?

From the Town Annual Report of 1915: "GENERAL HEALTH CONDITIONS—No unusual epidemic of disease occurred during the year, and in other ways the health of the town has been satisfactory."

"Exclusive of stillbirths, there were 96 deaths. The population of Winchester is 10,005, so the death rate for 1915 was 9.6. If we could exclude five non-residents who died in the Winchester Hospital and one man who died on the train while passing through town, the death rate would be nine."

"Too bad that man couldn't have been a little more considerate of Winchester's Board of Health statistics and have died a little further along the line in Woburn."

An interested citizen sent the newspaper a number of quotes from books on community planning. One of them we thought particularly perceptive, not just regarding planning. It's from "The Language of Cities" by Fran P. Hoskorn.

"We are born with ears, and we don't think it strange to learn about music. Many people spend long hours learning how to appreciate what they hear. We learn to read very early, and much of our life is spent with what is written, the printed word and books. But most of us are never much concerned about the language of seeing, about how to 'read' our man-made environment, buildings, architecture, and cities, and how to learn to appraise what we see. . . . We take for granted that we have eyes and therefore see, but in truth, most of us don't see at all."

The timing of the lights at Swanton and Main streets was changed a few months ago to give Swanton street traffic a longer green signal. Selectman Arthur Dunbar now wonders if the Swanton street signal isn't too long.

With the figures on a new Leonard Pool in, it looks doubtful that town meeting tonight will approve an appropriation for the artificial facility. The members have twice voted money for study and plans and thus committed itself in support of a new pool.

But $258,500 for new construction is a lot higher than the $18,000 spent on study and plans. If the figures held to around $200,000 as originally proposed the pool would probably have passed. Or feeling is town meeting members will say enough is enough.

Maybe now a committee will be formed to study the feasibility of installing some kind of system at the present Leonard Pool to keep the water flowing in to prevent pollution. Something that should have been done to begin with.

Town authorities recently installed a chain across the road leading from Skillings Bypass through the new high school grounds in an attempt to stop drivers from taking a short cut. Residents of Olden street behind the new school have complained about traffic.

Ever resourceful Winchester drivers, however, have found that taking a turn just before the chain barrier and cutting through the high school parking lot is almost as short a short-cut as the old route.

The Board of Selectmen has requested the School Committee to determine the fate of the old Lincoln School by Sept. 14. They informed the School Committee that the Housing Authority, the Planning Board and the Council on Aging are interested in the property.

In view of the School Committee's reluctance to let go of the property, we wonder if they are up to their old tricks. They stated at the Tuesday night School Committee meeting that they want to make sure they will not need the building in the fall for possible classroom space in case an emergency situation arises.

But we wonder about some of the rumors we hear—that the committee wants to keep the building for a favorite son of the Lincoln Field Center, a Trust who is interested in having the building for a regional resource center.

Now with the demise of McManus House, the town's elderly may consider use of some other town property for a center for elderly affairs. The Board of Selectmen controls houses at 22 and 26 Highland ave., 5 and 10

Alben st., 14 and 6 Reservoir st., 10 Marshall rd. and 11 Linden st.

At one time these properties were acquired for expansion of nearby public schools. Now that the school population is remaining stable the houses are rented. Ed Donnelly, the selectmen's executive secretary, thinks 11 Linden st. should be torn down when it is vacated because it would cost too much to repair and located behind the town yard it is too close to the center of considerable noise, especially in the winter when snow plows grumble in and out.

The board Monday approved the expenditure of $1,100 to fix up 11 Reservoir st. Maybe one of these houses could also be used for a Town Hall annex, which might be needed if the computer center at Town Hall is expanded into the present High Department.

Andrew L. Nichols, who recently resigned as a Trustee of the Public Library, says his resignation wasn't because he was turned off by the town meeting's failure to approve air conditioning for the library.

Nichols says his resignation "was pursuant to a long standing plan of mine mentioned to the trustees last fall to resign after the election." He has been a member a number of years, chairman for two of them, and wants to spend his time on other things.

The library trustees, by the way, just voted to close the building on days when the temperature hits 90 degrees. Maybe Nichols wasn't hot under the collar over the town meeting vote, but what about the trustees?

Last week we teased the selectmen for wearing shirts so brightly colored they outshone their faces. This week there were three white shirts and a striped lavender around the selectmen's table and a brilliant orange red over where the press sits. Selectman Jerry Charrizzo commented that certain people shouldn't throw stones.

The Police Department has four officer vacancies and is bound by a ruling by the attorney general and civil service lists to fill them with non-residents if the positions are to be filled now.

Atty. Gen. Robert H. Quinn has ruled residency requirements unconstitutional. He based his ruling on a decision of the Supreme Court in a Maryland case striking down residency requirements for welfare.

A spokesman in Quinn's office said the a.g. ruling was also based on other Supreme Court cases, one outlawing residency requirements for public employment.

And the state Civil Service Commission recently forwarded to Winchester a list of 12 names which the local department must use in making any appointments. Not a single name is from Winchester.

Thus the Police Department, if it wants to fill these positions right away—and it is hurting now due to a manpower shortage—must fill them with non-residents even though there are Winchester residents who want to join the local force.

The local department, however, can still require its officers to move into Winchester after nine months.

The civil service list was compiled following a complex settlement of a long disputed case resulting from federal Judge Charles E. Wyzanski's ruling that tests given to prospective police officers discriminated against blacks and Puerto Ricans.

The Star this week received the following note from "a friend who really cared":

"On the intersection of Salisbury st. and Foxcroft rd. lie three skid marks. Don't ask me how, don't ask me what, don't ask me when, don't ask me where. Just ask me why did John Torres have to die? Why did a young and promising life have to come to an end? Why? Why? Why? Why? Why? Why? May God bless you and keep you, John, and your entire family."

Some of the rock bands in Winchester were planning to hold a concert Saturday night in memory of John Torres, who died last week in a motorcycle accident. John was a guitarist in the Blues Child Band, a local group.

The Board of Selectmen suspended its rules Monday in order to give quick approval to an entertainment permit for use of Manchester Field for the concert. But the youths called off the concert after the Torres family objected.

police officers. "The chief said he wouldn't stop everyone with a can of beer in his hand."

The four-article warrant concludes with a proposed amendment to the fire code requested by the Fire Department.

The new regulations are aimed at gasoline stations and the installation, repair and alteration of oil burners in homes. The oil burner section of the code will likely be recommended to be delayed until the fall special town meeting for action.

The selectmen feel more information is necessary on that section of the amendment. The Board Monday voted to delay until tonight a vote on its recommendation to the town meeting on the entire amendment.

The selectmen have indicated they support the amendment but are concerned over who should enforce it—the Planning Board through the Building Commissioner or the Fire Department.

Not due for any official town meeting action, but being requested of members on an individual basis tonight will be the completion of a questionnaire on cable television.

The selectmen's ad hoc committee to study cable television in Winchester has prepared the questionnaire the selectmen will distribute to town meeting members tonight. It asks members what kind of television reception they now get on Boston channels, if they would like to receive additional programs, would subscribe to cable television, how much they would be willing to pay and who should operate cable television.

The questionnaire will eventually be mailed to 50 to 100 residents selected on a geographic basis.

Miss Manoogian, Mr. Burris Wed, Will Live In Kentucky

The First Congregational Church was the setting for the marriage of Marilyn Leslie Manoogian and Ronald James Burris. The Rev. Walter B. Davis officiated at the 11 a.m. ceremony. A garden reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie V. Manoogian of 16 Johnson rd. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. John Theoret of Pittsfield and Ernest Burris of Williamstown. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white, high-waisted, organza and lace gown featuring short sleeves and accented at the waist, neck, hem, and sleeve edge with delicately flowered wide lace, which also trimmed a chapel length train. The bride's silk illusion chapel veil was held in place by a lace appliqued camelot cap. She carried a cascade of Stephanotis, mini carnations, sweetheart roses, and ivy.

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Banks of Oklahoma City, Okla. Bridesmaids were Susan McCallum of Northampton and Mrs. Christine James of Amherst.

Attendants wore multi-colored flowered chiffon high-waisted A-line gowns, fashioned with short sleeves and accented with one inch white organza ruffles at the deep V necks. They carried baskets of daisies, sweetheart roses, and bachelor buttons.

Best man was Joseph Abinder of New York City. Ronald Collins of Amherst and Leonard Manoogian of Winchester seated guests.

The bride is a May graduate from the University of Massachusetts in Amherst with a BS degree in psychology.

Mr. Burris is employed with General Electric Company having previously received a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering and a master's degree in business administration from the University of Massachusetts.

The couple will reside in Louisville, Ky., after a week's honeymoon in upstate New York.

Seven-Year Term For Surety Head

Daniel D. Moore of Lynnfield, president of the now-defunct Wakefield Surety Bank & Trust Company, which had a branch office in Winchester until last May when shortages were discovered, has been sentenced to a jail term for embezzling and misapplying $8.1 million in bank funds.

The 40-year-old Moore, who pleaded guilty to more than 50 separate charges last April, was sentenced on 49 counts by U.S. District Court Judge Frank H. Freedman to a maximum sentence of seven years in prison. He was also sentenced on conspiracy charges for a five year concurrent term.

He will be eligible for immediate parole. Since the bank losses were discovered a year ago May, Moore has been free on $25,000 bail. He is reported to have said he received only "a negligible" portion of the money, that most of it went to others and much of it went to cover bad loans.

At the time of the closing of Surety Bank & Trust Company several municipalities having accounts in the bank were hard hit. The bank's closing was the first to be liquidated since the Depression.

Moore began his jail sentence on Monday.

Senior Service Line

Senior citizens may telephone 729-2111 from nine to noon Monday through Friday for information on activities, help or just talk.

WEDDING - Gail P. Hokanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Hokanson of Marblehead, became the bride of Christopher L. Allyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin P. Allyn, Marlon, formerly of Winchester, on June 9 at the bride's home. Rev. Cyril Wismar performed the ceremony. A reception followed. The bride and bridegroom hold bachelor's degrees from Brown University. The bridegroom expects to enroll at the University of Pennsylvania this fall as a graduate student. They will make their home in Philadelphia, after a honeymoon to Quebec, Canada.

Miss Cochran Marries Dr. Scott

Teresa Cochran and L. Ridgway Scott were married on June 23. The wedding ceremony was celebrated in the garden of the bride's parents, William G. Cochran, professor of statistics at Harvard University, and Betty Cochran of Buckingham School, Cambridge.

Robert Conrad of Harvard Divinity School conducted the nuptial ceremony composed by the bride and bridegroom. Literary quotations on marriage were spoken by three close friends accompanied by renaissance music played by the Greenwood Consort.

The bridegroom is the son of Larkin B. Scott of Fort Worth, Tex., senior engineering advisor to the Coleman Instruments Division of the Perkin-Elmer Corporation and Mrs. Frances Scott, founder and first president of the Fort Worth Community Theatre Guild.

The bride is a doctoral candidate in educational psychology at Boston College. She is a graduate from the University of Rochester, N.Y.

The bridegroom holds a Ph.D. in mathematics from Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The young couple will reside in Chicago.

Ill., where Dr. Scott will join the faculty of mathematics of the University of Chicago. Mrs. Scott will be engaged in research work in psychology there.

Movie, Two Bikes, 90 Prizes To Be Given Away July 4

On July 4 at 10 a.m. boys and girls of Winchester are invited to Winchester's annual Fourth of July Celebration at the Winchester Theatre. This year's event will be sponsored by the Winchester Post No. 97 of The American Legion under the leadership of Commander Louis Castriotta.

The day's program will feature a movie "Island of the Blue Dolphin" and the awarding of two bicycles, one for a boy and one for a girl. Also, 90 other awards will be presented.

Refreshments will include candy, ice cream, popples and popcorn.

On entering the Winchester Theatre each child will be given a ticket to be eligible for the many prizes to be offered.

★ Committee

Lincoln School
A letter from the Board of Selectmen to the School Committee asking for them to decide on the fate of the old Lincoln School before Sept. 14 brought up brief discussion of the building which officially closed this month.

Parkhurst said, "Let's sit tight until September. We cannot run a risk to dispose of it," he said, pointing to the possibility that the new Lincoln School (formerly McCall Junior High) might not be ready in the fall. "We need to be on the safe side."

Supt. MacDonald returned saying that whatever state the new Lincoln School is in it will likely be better than at the old Lincoln School which no longer has a public address system and lacks other equipment which has been relocated. Also it is the only school in the entire system which will have received no attention during the summer, he said.

The question of vandalism and who would pay for it was raised. Also, a woman from the audience asked Chairman Harriet Dieterich if the School Committee had future plans for the building. "We have every intention of turning the school over to the town," Mrs. Dieterich said after Lawrence mentioned there had been earlier discussion on using the school as an extension of the high school. He conceded there are "other needs of the town that seem to be more pressing" now.

In their letter to the School Committee the Board of Selectmen spoke of interest in the Lincoln School facility by the Housing Authority, Planning Board and Council on Aging for possible revitalization of the building.

Parkhurst said any new use of the building would have to go before the town meeting for approval after a warrant is prepared by the selectmen. He suggested it would be best that "the School Committee not offer suggestions for the building." (Selectmen maintain once the building is turned over to the town, they can determine its use.)

The School Committee voted to hold onto the building until September.

High School Budget

Vincent Larocco told the School Committee, "We are shortchanging our programs (at the high school) due to budget cuts," and "unless we find funds to take care of sports such as hockey we will be asking that they be eliminated entirely."

Larocco, upset with budget cuts which will hamper the Athletic Association budget, non-athletic programs such as the debate and math clubs, and learning disabilities program at the high school, made a plea to the School Committee to find more money for the school.

He pointed to discrimination in sports not only on a sex basis but inequities between the junior and senior programs and between various sports.

He said this past year the yearbook project "broke even," and the Red and Black, the high school newspaper, "has more red ink than black." He said eight issues cost $1,840. The income from advertisers amounted to $900 and $100 from circulation names, leaving a heavy deficit. "If you cut back on the issues you lose advertisers," he noted. Larocco said he may have to recommend doing away with the paper. There was an increased cost of 50 cents per book on the yearbook, he said, noting the only way costs could be cut here would be to go to a paper cover.

Larocco revealed there has been an increase in identifying learning disabilities in high school students. He said, "We have an obligation to our staff to get them prepared to deal with this situation."

He pointed to the high cost of supplies. In 1972 the high school supplies budget was $47,120. With the five percent increase allowed by the School Committee, the 18-month budget for January 1973 to June 1974 was raised to $50,000. And from January to May of this year, he said, he's already spent $4,000. "To stay even I need another 20 percent over the $50,000," he told the group.

Parkhurst suggested the School Committee review the high school budget and come up with some recommendations at the next meeting, scheduled to be July 23.

Other Business

The School Committee witnessed a lengthy self-paced independent chemistry course audio-visual presentation by Francis X. Finnigan, Ronald Gould and Dr. Cliff Wheeler of the science department; approved a Max-Ed program at the secondary level including a new course in ecology developed by Winchester Falls; heard a progress report on an outdoor education proposal for students at the Parkhurst School; and received a progress report on the intramural sports program using the $5,000 appropriated by Town Meeting. (These programs will be reported separately in later issues of The Star.)

Fred Murray, director of the summer school program reported on latest enrollments, and asked the school committee to approve the hiring of two master teachers for the Lesley program. The school committee unanimously approved his request.

Safety Officer John McKinley spoke on traffic patterns in the old Lincoln School neighborhood, which he said have been placed in the hands of the police chief for final approval and which had been reviewed by the highway department from the point of view of safety and care during inclement weather. He said he anticipated no problems.

MacDonald told the School Committee they will receive $200 from the telephone company for an agreement across property at Lynch Junior High School which the School Committee voted to grant; and Mrs. Dieterich got the approval of the group to turn over an insurance check in the amount of $3355 to the building committee for water damage to the former McCall School. The repair work had been done by the Dartmouth Construction Co. and was paid for by the building committee.

Bid awards for paper and bread products to be used within the school system next year were approved. Elections and resignations of educators given by Henry Perry were approved; and Richard Pritchard gained the support of the school committee in his recommendation that Alan Lane be obtained at $40 per hour as professional negotiator in representing the school committee in negotiations with teachers next year. Lane, who was recommended to Pritchard by Austin Broadhurst, will also represent the school committee of Weston next year.

Police Department

Winchester, Massachusetts 01890

To the Residents of Winchester:

Summer's sunny days and balmy nights are welcomed by all, but as Chief of Police I am disturbed by the grim predictions made by the National Safety Council and other safety agencies about the nation's highways.

With the Fourth of July holiday approaching, we already have three highway fatalities on the record books of the town since the first of the year. The National Safety Council predicts that 180 to 240 persons will be killed on the highways of the country between 6 p.m. July 3rd and midnight July 4th.

Statistics show that excessive drinking of alcoholic beverages, speeding motor vehicles, and non-usage of safety belts will be largely responsible for the fatalities and injuries on roadways over the holiday.

Accidents can be prevented if we all do our part. State and local highway departments have been on the job making roads safe for travel. Winchester police will be out to slow down traffic, protect dangerous intersections, and issue citations to violators of the traffic laws and rules.

But you can help by observing a few fundamental safety rules. Don't drink and drive. Operate at a reasonable and proper speed, having regard to traffic, the use of the way, and the safety of the public. Use safety belts.

Have a nice vacation!
Sincerely,
Edward F. Bowler
Chief of Police

"The problem on Board 20 from Section B, West dealing and all vulnerable, is what South bids after three passes. South has the classical 4S bid which is pre-emptive and tells his partner that South will not be set more than two tricks vulnerable or 500 points opposite a Yarborough hand with no honor count.

"No one has bid, however, so the missing 24 points are probably divided evenly between the three passed hands. Therefore, with a good raise in the North hand, South perhaps could make a small slam.

"So if South bids 1S and finds a raise in North, then the declarer could bid 6S. On the other hand, a bid of 4S would undoubtedly be passed by all the remaining hands.

"The play at one table was a heart lead won by the King on the board; 10 of spades ducked by everyone; Queen of clubs from the board covered by the King from East and won by South's Ace; Ace of spades dropping the King; Ace of hearts; small spade to 9 on board; Queen of hearts; Queen and Jack of clubs allowing South to discard the three diamonds; South's spades then taking all the remaining tricks.

"As the cards are situated a diamond lead will take two diamonds for the defense, but then declarer should finesse for the spade King (the best play) and make 5S

"The travelling score sheet indicated six spades making six, five spades down one, four spades (the favorite, bid 7 times out of 11) making four, five, six and seven, and three spades bid twice making six.

"Note: If East does not cover the Queen of clubs with the King, South can make only six."

Familiar names appeared throughout the winners' column in Section A on the 20th, Eleanor and Ed Mansfield winning again in a close battle North-South, and perennials Joe Salani and Dick Sullivan blooming in first place East-West.

Mites Season Ends With 7 To 0 Win

The Spring League Mites of Winchester Youth Hockey finished its spring season Thursday night with a big 7-to-0 win over Lexington and a Spring League record of five wins, one loss and one tie in the Middlesex Youth Hockey League.

Up front, the leaders were high scoring Scotty Stillman and Billy Eaton while the defense was handled by strong efforts from Danny Sullivan and Jimmy Coppins along with new Mites Andy Guleserian and Paul Tucci.

Bobby DiVincenzo and Mike McCarthy continue to impress at wing while new centers Bobby Engel, Rick Parker and Jon Smollen improved a great deal over the season. The Donnellan twins, John and David, came on very strong over the season while Tony Maida and Scotty Binding really helped on the right side. In the net, Pat Falla played well and continues to come.

Sachem Nine In Summer League

By John F. Farrell

The returning members of the 1973 Sachem nine coached by Bill Colella are playing as a unit in the Northeast summer league.

The balance of the roster is made up of members of this year's junior varsity team, so that every boy playing will be a top rated candidate for next year's Winchester High School team. The lack of experience which hurt the team in the state tourney should be compensated for by this summer action, so that next year's nine should be a well rounded unit.

Those listed to play include:

POSITION	NAME
3B	Wayne Dennis
OF-P	Rudy Fiore
C	Mike Heffernan
1B	Gary Beard
2B	Dan Harrington
OF-P	Elliot Miller
CF	Al Cordice
SS-P	Steve Waite
SS	Tom Brennan
OF	George Parker
IF	Sam Oliver
3B	Tony Salemi
SAS	Mike Meehan
2B	Ron Vangell
IF	Jim Chase
OF	Gary Decca
Coach - Mike Gilberti

Mike Gilberti, former quarterback and shortstop for the Sachems, will be coach. Mike, currently studying at the University of Massachusetts, brings a wealth of experience and should be able to provide plenty of help to the team. All home games will be played at Manchester Field.

The schedule:

Northeast Baseball League
 Mon., June 11, at Woburn;
 Wed., June 13, Stoneham;
 Wed., June 20, Woburn;

Little League Minor League Playoffs Feature Some Upsets

In the American Minor League playoffs of the Winchester Little League, quarter final action saw the Jaguars and Wildcats win easily while the Buffaloes and Foxes were involved in close victories.

In the semi-final round the Jaguars hooked up with the Wildcats and the Foxes took on the Buffaloes with the Jaguars and Foxes coming out on top. In the final round it will be the Jaguars and Foxes for the divisional championship. If their season series record against each other is any indication of what is to come, this game should be a classic.

In the National Minor League the Bears, Bulldogs, Bobcats and Rams won first round action. Eliminated were the Tigers, Beavers, Ponies and Lions. The semi-final round saw an upset win by John Astill and his Bobcats over the Bulldogs.

In the American Major League the Reds remained deadlocked for the top with the Mets in the all important loss column by beating the Athletics twice last week. The Reds won the first game by a score of 10-0. Pitching the shoutout for the Reds were the Tedesco brothers.

Young Jay pitched the first three innings and big brother Gary the last three innings. The hitting was good by all team players, especially 10-year-old Billy Barron. This talented youngster has compiled a record so far this year worth noting.

Billy has either gotten a hit or a walk every time at bat this season. On Wednesday night John Waite pitched the Reds to a 5-2 win. John started slow in the first inning but got stronger as the game went on. The infield and outfield played real heads up ball and kept the game under control at all times.

The baserunning of Jim Kohr and Jay Tedesco was outstanding—a big win for the Red Machine. It now looks like the divisional winner will be decided in this last week of the season with a dead heat and playoff very possible. The Mets are managed by George Parker while the Red mentor is Bill Saurman.

In one of the finest little league games played this season, Chad Doe of the Pirates and Randy Pearl of the Cardinals pitched their respective teams to a scoreless tie at the end of the regulation six innings.

The Cards managed only one hit off Doe, an infield hit by Ed Kirkpatrick while Pearl allowed the Pirates only four hits. Due to little league rules, both pitchers had to retire at the end of six innings. Steve Wolfe of the Cards and Curt Ellis of the Pirates went to the hill and both pitched scoreless ball through the seventh inning.

In the top of the eighth, however, the Cards sent five runs across the plate on the timely hitting of Jimmy Edwards, Jimmy Willing and Chris Stanton. The Pirates were not to be denied, however, as they came back in their half of the inning with three runs and had the tying run at the plate when the final out was made. Both managers and coaches commented after the game that this was the "best little league game they had ever seen."

The second game saw Cardinals Steve Wolfe and Brian Nolan get their names in the record book when they combined to pitch a no hitter against the Bucs. The Pirates took the lead in the first inning on four bases on balls, three wild pitches and a passed ball.

Also contributing offensively were Jim Willing with three RBI's, Ed Kirkpatrick with two RBI's and Earl Ward with a two-run triple. Flawless defensive play by the Cards helped preserve the no-hitter.

The Mets remained in first place by percentage points by defeating the Astros twice last week. In Tuesday night's game the Mets jumped off to a 1-0 lead in the second inning. Peter Johanson was hit by a pitch after one out, went to second on a felder's choice and scored on a John Parker single.

In the top of the third the Astros came roaring back and took the lead on a long home run by Dan Tipton after two bases on balls and a single by Ricky Blanch. The Mets however came back with five runs in the bottom of the third on hits by Strazzullo, Sam Bellino, a walk to Parkhurst, a single by Johanson, and a double by Alan Roche.

The Mets scored seven more runs in the fourth to salt the game away on four hits, three walks and an Astro error. The Astros scored two in the fifth and two in the sixth to close out the scoring.

On Thursday night the Mets scored three runs in the top of the first inning and were never headed. They scored one run in the third, two in the fourth, twelve in the fifth and seven in the sixth as they knocked out 21 hits.

The Astros were able to garner only three runs, one in the third and two in the fifth. Pigott and Parkhurst lead the Mets with four hits each. Strazzullo, Sam and Len Bellino had three hits each. Jimmy Oliver led the Astros with two singles.

Last week in the National League the Yankees clinched first place by beating the Braves twice while the Dodgers and Twins battled for second place. In a pair of winning one-run decisions the Dodgers took over undisputed possession of second place with just two games remaining on the schedule. Knowing how important these games were both clubs played near flawless ball. The Dodgers scored two runs in the first three innings while pitcher Walter Ferrera no-hit the Twins for the first three frames.

In the bottom of the fourth the Twins made it 2-1 as Franchi singled and later scored on Fortin's base hit. In the top of the fifth Wayne Lawson scored for the Dodgers to make it 3-1, when he doubled and scored on a Magliozzi clutch hit.

This run proved to be the game winner since in the last frame Jim Aylward came through with a run-scoring double to pull the Twins within one, 3-2. That's how it ended however as Jim Albani fanned the last man to end the game.

In the second game both clubs went in tied in wins with 10 apiece, and with the added pressure, this game proved to be one of the most exciting of the season. During the first three innings the lead went back and forth and after the third inning it was 3-3. Aylward had two hits for the Twins, driving in two runs while Wayne Lawson was the batting star for the Dodgers with three base hits and three RBI's. In the fourth the Dodgers went ahead with a single run but nearly blew the game open with three base hits and a walk.

However, two fielding gems by the Twins cut down a pair of would-be Dodger runs at the plate. The Twins came right back to tie it up again and at the end of four innings it was 4-4. In the fifth and sixth innings the fielders kept the game deadlocked.

Twins' third baseman Peter Franchi committed highway robbery on Jim Albani as he snared a bullet down the line with the bases loaded in the sixth. The Twins came up in the bottom of the sixth and got their first two men on base but failed to score the winning tally thanks to Mark Ockerbloom.

The Dodger second baseman came up with two dandy stops to personally send the game into overtime. The excitement was at its peak in the top of the seventh inning as the Dodgers' Walter Ferrera reached first base and moved to third on a hit by McDonough and a walk to Joe Costello.

Then with the bases loaded and two out, Ferrera won it for the Dodgers. On a daring play Walter stole home on a very short passed ball. Joe Resteghini came on to pitch the last of the seventh and held the Twins at bay for the win.

The Dodgers have now won eight of their last nine games and one wonders what might have been in this division had the Dodgers not gotten off to a horrendous start this year.

Winchester Committee for A Better Chance, Inc., the result. The group is a private non-profit corporation with a board of directors. The board of the National ABC Public School program gave the necessary approval for the Winchester project and the William Jewett Tucker Foundation of Dartmouth pledged seed money. The Winchester School Committee voted approval of the project and money was raised to establish an ABC House.

In September of 1971, 10 boys came to Winchester to live at the ABC House at 2 Dix st. and to attend the high school here. They had made application through the ABC program in their home states and had passed screening processes and a preparatory summer program at Williams College aimed at providing remedial and enriching academic experiences.

The ABC House met three essential requirements. It had a central location, held sufficient space and was available. The Winchester ABC Committee purchased the house in the spring of 1971 and townspeople donated furnishings and gave hours of work in cleaning, painting and carpentry work.

Jonathan Stableford, high school English teacher and former ABC tutor at Williams College, was appointed as the first resident director. With his wife, Cindy, and their baby daughter, Jennifer, he moved in with the 10 boys who came from Greater New York City, the Midwest and the South.

A resident director provides academic assistance. The boys who were interviewed spoke of the Stablefords as being the nucleus of the ABC family acting in the interest of the total family. They said it was not unusual for any one of them to babysit for Jennifer.

When they complete their high school education the boys all plan to go on to college. Keith plans to enter Duke University or the University of North Carolina to study sociology or history.

George will enter Columbia to major in biology, and Donald wants to go to the west coast for his higher education to major in Afro-American studies.

The other two juniors who will return to Winchester in the fall are Nate Bittling of Winston-Salem, N.C., who attended junior high with Keith before coming to Winchester, and Allen Malave of Manhattan, N.Y.

The ABC graduates will all be entering college in the fall. Bobby Gates will be going to Antioch College, Ohio; Bill Hooker plans to enter Howard University College of Liberal Arts in Washington, D.C.; Jose Rivera will enter the physical education program at Springfield College; Dorian Wilson will become a pre-med student at Dartmouth College; and Glenn Wright will go to Williams College where he participated in the ABC summer orientation program two years ago.

Keith proudly points out that all of the 10 students earned at least one letter for sports this past year at Winchester High School.

They also indicate that the Stablefords will be leaving as resident directors. Stableford who will remain a director of the Winchester ABC program will remain at Winchester High School to teach English.

In the place of the Stablefords, Duane and Debbie Jackson will act as new resident directors for the coming year. Jackson comes from Brooklyn, N.Y., and his wife comes from Philadelphia, Pa. They have a one-year-old son Dana.

The couple met while studying at Hampton Institute. Jackson went on to earn a master's degree in city planning at MIT and will enter graduate school of architecture at MIT next year. Mrs. Jackson is now finishing work for her degree at Northeastern.

Mrs. Louise Cerulli prepares dinner five nights a week at the ABC House. She has worked at the house since the program began and plans to continue her work in the fall.

Fire Chief I. Francis Amico said the Winchester department Monday night had four false alarms and has had a large number of false alarms recently and requested citizen cooperation in controlling these alarms.

He asked residents to watch out for suspicious persons around fire alarm boxes and to report to the department the automobile license plate numbers of cars seen near boxes from where false alarms have been pulled.

Real Estate Today

A REALISTIC APPROACH

During inflation (and we're in it), there's an excellent case for investing in housing. Most of a home is paid for with borrowed money. Someone else's fixed dollar savings provides your mortgage money. Even though interest rates are up several notches from where they were, a home mortgage is the only way the average consumer can borrow long-term money. This, then, is your big chance to turn inflation to your advantage. Your mortgage gives you full-price dollars to work with today. You then pay them back with cheaper dollars you will be earning for the next 20 to 30 years. This isn't a cynical approach. It's realistic. In fact, it's one of the main reasons why many wealthy individuals continue to make big real estate investments. And you can do the same with a home that you own and need anyway.

If you have any questions on this subject or on any other aspect of Real Estate, please feel free to call or drop in at JAMES T. TREFREY, INC., REALTORS, 27 Waterfield Road, Winchester - Tel. 729-6100.
